By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE little war in Mexico may help this country to realize the importance of modern war methods.

Will this government protect itself with airplane carriers, with a fighting air fleet, twice as great as any in the world, and submarines?

Or will the government wait to read concerning the bombing of one of our big cities: "City Bombed, 40,000 Killed, Population Flees from City?"

FORTUNATELY, Herbert Hoover is an engineer accustomed all his life to deal with machinery, and demanding the newest type of machine.

It is not necessary to tell him that men and cities on the ground are helpless against attack from the air, unless they are DEFENDED IN THE AIR.

MR. OULAHEN, who reports Washington and the government, says Hoover's determination to exercise executive authority reminds him of Roosevelt.

So much the better. The President has authority, more than any ruler in the world, now that China and Russia have no emperors and Turkey no sultan.

The people elected Herbert Hoover because they believed that he knew how to use the presidential power, and they hope he will use it constantly.

NEARLY 100 telegraph operators employed by a firm of stock brokers have struck because the firm is installing printing machines to replace human operators.

That is a mistake, and is as useless as the strike of musicians against picture films that supply their own music.

Men suddenly deprived of work are entitled to all sympathy. But no strike against progress ever was or ever will be won.

THIS is "Normal Spine Week," osteopaths tell you, and those interested in human welfare, old-fashioned doctors especially, should pay attention.

The spine is as important to the body as are columns supporting the roof to a temple.

THE American Osteopathic Society renders public service in making people think about the backbone.

Consider that long string of nicely adjusted little bones, of which the topmost, highly developed, is the skull. Running down from the brain, sending out on both sides nerves that feed energy to the body, carrying back warnings to the brain, the spine is the most important part of our physical machinery, excepting perhaps the heart and lungs.

THOUSANDS of children are handicapped by twisted spines, often slight curvatures, causing pressure on important nerves, reducing efficiency not conspicuously enough to cause alarm in parents.

NOTHING is more dangerous than reckless manipulation of the spine, by quacks, nothing more important than carefully watching the spine of a growing child and remedying promptly any defect.

Some old-fashioned doctors unfortunately adhere to the belief that no matter what is wrong, the only remedy is some kind of a medicine taken internally.

AS REGARDS spinal adjustment, you might as well give internal medicine to an office building with its steel framework out of gear.

See that your children sit straight, that they do not lean over while reading to get a better light. Teach them to hold their shoulders back, use their diaphragms and keep the weight of the ribs off of their lungs. You will have healthier children. And do the same for yourself.

TO AVOID being run over while crossing the streets, put on snow-white clothing at night. That makes you visible at a distance, and startlingly visible when the headlights strike you. So says an investigating committee. On country roads, carrying a red lantern would help also, but properly lighted streets present the real solution.

CITIZENS who complain of sluggishness in their home city might communicate with Mr. Field, president of the Oakland, Cal., Chamber of Commerce. There isn't sluggishness in Oakland.

WITHIN a year, more than 100 important industries have established plants in Oakland, including Walter Chrysler, selecting the city for his new Pacific Coast plant, and the Sieberling Tire Company, of Akron, O.

OAKLAND possesses a really magnificent and adequate airport and is now getting under way a new $10,000,000 harbor improvement program, part of a plan to dominate the coast in the air and on the water.

SAN FRANCISCO, of the Golden Gate, and Oakland should be united by bridge and tunnel. Some short-sighted on both sides are opposed. That sort of foolishness should be left to Great Britain and France. They have been trying for 100 years to overcome objections to a channel tunnel that would have saved many times its cost in money and many lives in the big war.

PRINCESS STANDS SIEGE IN FAYETTE 'CASTLE'

WANTED AS THOMPSON WITNESS

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 19.—The Princess of Thurn and Taxis, widow of a Hungarian nobleman, is virtually a prisoner at the home of her mother, Mrs. Eleanor Niccolls, here, deputy sheriffs said, in an effort to dodge a subpena in the J. V. Thompson bankruptc case.

Telephone calls to the Niccolls home have disclosed that the Princess is there, according to deputies, but men stationed at the home in eight-hour shifts have failed to serve the subpena.

WANTED APRIL 8

The Princess is wanted as a witness before Referee in Bankruptcy Watson B. Adair, of Pittsburgh, at a hearing in the affairs of Thompson, former coal baron, scheduled for April 8.

She is wanted to testify as to alleged hidden assets of Thompson, said to range from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000.

SIGHTED AT WINDOW

"Ish Fuller, one of the deputies, said he had seen the Princess at an upstairs window several times today.

The Princess spends her time between Uniontown and New York, since the death of her husband two years ago. She divorced her first husband, Gerald Fitzgerald, wealthy Irishman. Three children were born to them. Her maiden name was Lida Niccolls.

THAW JURY FAILS TO AGREE

By DAVID P. SENTNER.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The jury in the $100,000 damage suit brought by Marcia Estardus against Harry K. Thaw for alleged injuries inflicted by him at a New Year's Eve party, two years ago, failed to reach a decision, it was revealed this morning when a sealed verdict, returned last night, was opened.

The jury discontinued its deliberations at 8 o'clock last night and returned the sealed verdict to Justice Schmuck, who fixed this morning for the reading.

GIRL TO FIGHT AGAIN

It could not be learned whether the majority of the jurymen favored the plaintiff or the defendant.

Miss Estardus announced immediately after the jury was discharged by Justice Schmuck that she planned to ask for a new trial. The new hearing will be held during the May term of court.

The show girl was especially disappointed over the outcome of the case, but expressed confidence in the result of the next trial.

"I'm not going to give up; I intend to fight this thing to a finish," she said.

ALLEGES BEATING

Miss Estardus, who is known in private life as Mae O'Neil, charged in her complaint that Thaw bit her and beat her with a hairbrush during a New Year's eve party in his apartment.

She said that she had suffered humiliation by his actions.

Thaw sent Edwin Mo an Pendleton, his secretary, to the trial. Pendleton denied all the charges made by the plaintiff.

On the night in question, Pendleton said, he and Marcia alone entered a taxicab after attending

Flying Priest Lost in Air, Lands Four Hours Late

FATHER COX HENRY ELLENBOGEN

The Rev. James R. Cox, "Flying Priest," as he boarded a cabin plane at Mayer Field today with Attorney Ellenbogen to fly to Harrisburg to protest to Gov. Fisher against the administration coal and iron police bill. Lost over the mountains, the plane was four hours late in arriving at Middletown airport, about eight miles from Harrisburg.

PILOT OFF COURSE, 4 HOURS LATE

Lost in the clouds over Pennsylvania and Maryland for four hours, the Rev. Dr. James R. Cox and Attorney Henry Ellenbogen eventually reached Harrisburg today, richer in experience and none the worse for an exciting airplane ride from Pittsburgh to the capital.

Rutledge

With Pilot James Rutledge at the stick, the Pittsburghers hopped off from Mayer field, Bridgeville, at 7:30 a. m., for Harrisburg.

At 9 o'clock, when they should have been at the Governor's door, they were flying nowhere in particular over Maryland's mountains and Chesapeake Bay. They were lost.

They landed in a farmer's pasture at Chester on Kent Island, Md., and discovered where they were. And from there they proceeded safely to Harrisburg to argue for more strength in Gov. Fisher's bill against the coal and iron police system.

Scores of anxious inquiries were exchanged between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg while the flying party lost and found itself.

LOST COURSE

When the big Ryan cabin monoplane did glide to earth at the Middletown Field a few miles out of Harrisburg, Father Cox and Ellenbogen stepped calmly from the ship and took a taxi to the Capital.

"We lost our course, that's all," Father Cox, pastor of Old St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church told the Sun-Telegraph's Harrisburg representative.

"No, I wasn't excited, nor afraid. I've flown before and I make it a rule, whether in a plane or an auto, not to be a back-seat driver. I kept quiet.

"I recognized landmarks part of the way—Hollidaysburg, Tyrone and then the Juniata River. Soon

U. S. WILL STUDY COLLEGE RUM

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(INS)—One phase of the prohibition investigation to be made by President Hoover's law enforcement commission is to be that pertaining to the use of intoxicating liquors by students at schools and colleges, it was learned today.

Some of the strongest opponents of prohibition insist that the Eighteenth Amendment has increased youthful wildness and that the average girl and boy half-way through school are connoesseurs of the latest bootleg concoctions of the day.

So far as college drinking was concerned, however, an apparent decline was indicated by reports to the Treasury.

During the last year four universities appealed to the Prohibition Bureau for assistance in wiping out the bootleg traffic with students. The year before six had appealed for assistance.

Most of the complaints reaching the Treasury have occurred during football seasons, at which period drinking in the environs of colleges reaches its season maximum.

Chiropractic Bill Dies at Harrisburg

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 19.—(AP)—The chiropractic bill and three other measures relating to the practice of the healing arts met quiet death today in the senate committee on public health and sanitation. Libel Suit Against Chicago Mayor Off

CHICAGO, March 19.—(INS.)—William McAndrew, former superintendent of Chicago schools, today withdrew his $250,000 libel suit against Mayor William Hale Thompson after Judge Harry A. Fisher's Son-in-Law Made College Dean

HAVERFORD, Pa., March 19.—(AP.)—H. Tatnall Brown, Jr., son-in-law of Gov. John S. Fisher, has been appointed dean of Haverford College. He succeeds Dr. Frederick Palmer, Jr., who resigned to do research work in physics. Mr. Brown graduated from Haverford in 1923. Recently he has been assistant to Dr. Palmer and instructor in physical education. In June, 1927, he married Miss Mary Miller Fisher, only daughter of Gov. Fisher.

Mellon Planned Tax Refund Publicity

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP.)—Secretary Mellon prepared the recent proposals making public tax refunds of $20,000 or more on his own volition and without instructions from President Hoover. It had been intimated in some published reports that President Hoover caused the Secretary to take the action.

HOUSE ADOPTS PROTEST ON EARNED INCOME TAX

By WILLIAM I. GRUNDISH,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, March 19.—The Musmanno resolution requesting Congress to revise the income tax to relieve the excessive burdens on wage earners and professional men is in the Senate Committee on Federal Relations today.

It passed the House last night without a dissenting vote. Senator John E. Kunkle, Westmoreland, chairman of the committee, stated this morning he would call the members together as soon as he could and endeavor to have the resolution reported favorably.

M. A. Musmanno

The resolution was inspired by the campaign of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers for a cut in the tax on earned incomes.

Introduced by Representative M. A. Musmanno, the resolution places the Legislature on record as "recommending that the Seventy-first Congress take up the question of a revision of the present income tax to the end that the excessive burdens of wage earners and men of profession in the United States will be ameliorated."

SILENCE ENDED BY DAUGHERTY

(Copyright, 1929, by International News Service.)

Harry M. Daugherty today, for the first time since he left the presidential cabinet in 1924, broke his silence in regard to accusations hurled at the Harding cabinet—and particularly at President Harding and himself. In an exclusive interview he told International News Service:

"President Harding was a greatly maligned man."

"I never knew anything about that Teapot Dome transaction."

"I was never in it (that little green house on K street) and I never heard of any member of the Harding Cabinet being in it."

"In my opinion it was a high honor to be a member of the Harding Cabinet."

"No one lived more decently in Washington than he (President Harding) did or I did."

"I can understand these attacks. I made plenty of enemies and they blamed Harding for anything I did that they disliked."

MEXICO REBELS SEEK PEACE

International News Service.

The Mexican revolution was virtually at an end today, according to the Mexican government

Following occupation of Torreon by Federal troops, the rebel generals in the Northern Mexican states, headed by Gen. Marcelo Caraveo, sued for peace.

It is believed that all the rebel leaders who surrender will face trial by court-martial, which is tantamount to death.

Gen. Jose Escobar, leader of the rebels that fled from Torreon, retired to Escalon, about 100 miles north of Torreon.

It is not expected that the rebels will put up a fight against the advance of the Federals under Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan and Gen. Ortiz.

Gen. Calles has demanded the unconditional surrender of any insurgents that want to give themselves up.

The revolt was engineered by a group of army officers who evidently hoped to consolidate forces with the Liberators, or religious rebels, in Jalisco. In this they were disappointed.

DEMAND POLICE BILL CHANGES

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 19.—Demands that the administration coal and iron police bill be made more stringent were voiced at a hearing before the House judiciary general committee this afternoon.

The principal changes asked were that the police be barred entirely from homes of miners; that they must be citizens of Pennsylvania for at least three years; that they must be recommended by three reputable citizens not connected with any coal company, and that they be restricted to company property.

The present bill would permit the police to operate 1,000 feet from company property.

William F. Feeney, of the United Mine Workers, charged that during the recent coal strike, coal and iron policemen were brought from the slums of Chicago and New York, "given a club and a gun and told to go to work."

Others who protested against the administration bill were the Rev. Dr. James R. Cox, Rabbi S. H. Goldenson, the Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, all of Pittsburgh, and Thomas Kennedy, international secretary of the United Mine Workers.

Kennedy declared that coal and iron police should be given no police powers. Millions of dollars' worth of property in this state is being guarded by ordinary watchmen who have no police authority, he said.

Mail Plane Pilot Gives Fire Alarm

SHENANDOAH, Pa., March 19.—(AP)—An air mail pilot flying from Cleveland to New York aroused firemen at Ringtown, six miles north of this city, early today by circling low over the village when he saw the Dewdrop Inn, widely known road house, afire.

Six times he circled the village before firemen were aroused. The hostelry, a three-story frame structure, was soon destroyed.

COUNTRY TOWN EDITOR'S WIFE LINDY'S HALF-SISTER

There's not a person living in Red Lake Falls who doesn't know that the comely little wife of the editor of the Red Lake Falls Gazette is a sister of the illustrious Colonel. But outside of this town few have ever heard of her or even suspected that Lindbergh had a sister.

"Why, when Charlie flew across the Atlantic and arrived safely in Paris, there was plenty in all the papers. Even the Gazette here carried the story. But do you know how much space they gave to me in that story? just one line," she said today.

"I wasn't a bit disappointed, either."

"You see, it's this way," she explained. "My mother was Mary Lafond and she died when I was only 5. Then father married again. Charlie was born of that second marriage."

BATTLE AGAINST 4-CENT GASOLINE TAX TO CONTINUE

TWO KILLED BY FLEEING BANDIT CAR

BUFFALO, March 19.—(AP.)—Shooting their way out of the International Railway Company's bus headquarters early today, three bandits, escaping with $2,889 in cash loot, drove their stolen automobile into another car, killing a man and fatally injuring a woman.

Frank P. Schmidt, 39, of this city, was instantly killed and Mrs. Eva Bailey, 35, of Sloan, died in the emergency hospital later.

Soon after the crash, a young man, who, police said, is Joe Pilarski, sought since a meat market holdup last Saturday night when Patrolman Francis C. Jahncke was shot, was arrested as a suspect. A second man was picked up later.

FORNEY BLAME DENIED

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner said today he is at a loss to explain the blame placed upon him by County Commissioner C. C. McGovern for Alfred Forney, racketeer, escaping trial in courts here for his alleged slot machine activities.

"It strikes me rather strange that Commissioner McGovern should demand my resignation simply because a man has jumped his bond," the district attorney said this morning. "Other than that I have nothing to say."

McGovern yesterday commended Judge James B. Drew in his request that a reward of $5,000 be offered for Forney's return.

"Such an offer is an insult to the District Attorney, who with such a force as he has at present should be able to make such offenders appear for trial," McGovern said.

"This only shows that the District Attorney does not command the respect of law violators and he should resign," the Commissioner said.

"Every possible effort will be made to find Forney," Gardner said.

"We propose to communicate with police in cities throughout the country, and if Forney should be found, every effort will be made to have him returned to Pittsburgh," the district attorney stated. "We do not think we would have much trouble bringing him back to Pittsburgh if he were found."

HOOVER LEASES FISHING HOLES

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP)—Fishing holes for President Hoover in both nearby Maryland and Virginia have been acquired through his secretary, Lawrence Richey, so that during the summer week-ends and dull days in the White House, the Chief Executive may be able to angle for brook, brown and rainbow trout.

The fishing waters in Virginia are at the source of the Rapidan River in Madison county in the proposed Shenandoah national park area. The lease covers 18 miles of the stream which meanders between two mountain ranges in a thickly wooded valley varying in width from several hundred yards to three quarters of a mile.

A lodge is to be built on the site and $14,000 will be spent to construct a road connecting the fishing grounds with the Madison county courthouse, a distance of nine miles. The lease is for an indefinite period.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., March 19.—(INS)—Capt. Ira Eaker, army flyer, today had again failed in a dawn-to-dusk flight that would link the United States and Panama. He landed at Tampico last night at 6:30 o'clock, according to word received here. His first attempt was made Saturday when he hopped off from Brownsville. He was forced down at Managua on account of bad weather.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 19.—A triple wedding, in which a father and two daughters and a mother and son were five of the principals, took place at Mack coal mine, near here, yesterday.

Those married were Frank Pester, a recent widower, whose bride was Mrs. Minerva Artis, of Millsboro; Ernest Artis, son of Mrs. Artis, who married Miss Bessie Pester, daughter of Frank Pester, and Bernard Edgar and Miss Clementine Pester, the latter another daughter of the newly wedded Pester. The ceremony was performed in the Pester home.

Pester and his bride and Mr. and Mrs. Artis have known each other for less than a month. They were introduced by Mr. Harvey.

Last night neighbors gave the six an old-fashioned country serenade.

IN THAW'S ROOMS

At 7:30 on New Year's morning, he declared, he retired. Thaw came in about 8 o'clock, he said.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, Pendleton said, Marcia was still in the apartment.

"What part of the premises did she occupy?" he was asked.

"She was in my room most of the time."

"Do you know of any commotion during that time?"

"No; I heard none."

At 2:30 in the afternoon, Pendleton testified, the girl called a "Countess Olga" on the telephone asking her to come over to the apartment.

TOOK GIRL HOME

At 9:30 that night, New Year's day, he said he took Marcia to her home. The next time he saw her was on January 30, he said, when she again came to Thaw's apartment, she was accompanied by friends, he said.

Pendleton said that he left Thaw's employ about two years ago shortly after the New Year's Eve. party.

Another witness for the defense was Edward Werner, of Charleston, W. Va. A former employe of Thaw, who testified that on New Year's Eve, 1927, Thaw was in Texas Guinan's night club from 2 until 8 in the morning.

SAYS GIRL BOASTED

Walter McNaughton then testified that he had bought a drink from Marcia in a restaurant several days ago and that she boasted that she was going to get $50,000 or $60,000 within a few days.

William C. Dannenberg of Chicago, Thaw's confidential man, also testified.

Previously Mrs. Mary Albertin, a neighbor of the girl, testified she had visited Marcia on New Year's Day and saw the wounds the show-girl charged Thaw inflicted on her.

Mrs. May Feibel also described the wounds she said she saw on the girl.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—(AP.)—George F. Hogan has filed suit against Warner Brothers, Inc., motion picture producers, alleging that a film made by the company depicting the life of a prize fighter had caused him $750,000 worth of anguish and humiliation.

RESCUER ARRIVING IN U. S. HOLDS NOBILE GUILTLESS

NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP.)—Capt. Einar-Paal Lundborg, Swedish aviator, who rescued Gen. Umberto Nobile, of Italy, after the crash of the dirigible Italia in the Arctic last year, arrived on the liner Drottningholm today, still strongly defending the Italia commander against all charges.

When Lundborg found Nobile, the general was stranded on an ice flow with five companions. The aviator carried the general to safety. When he went back for the others his plane crashed in landing and he was stranded with them for two weeks until taken off by another aviator.

An investigation of the Italia disaster was made by a special Italian commission which found Nobile responsible. A few days ago he resigned his commission in the Italian air service.

Capt. Lundborg said today that criticism of Gen. Nobile for leaving his subordinates on the ice floe when rescue of one man became possible should in fact be directed against the Swedish rescuer.

"It was I," he said, "who insisted that Nobile himself should be the one to accompany me. I had orders from Capt. Tornberg, chief of the Swedish expedition, if I sighted the lost airmen to take the one who was most important and, if possible, the general."

Capt. Lundborg has a two months, leave from the Swedish army and will spend the time lecturing and studying American aviation methods.

SPROUL GOING TO PARNASSUS

Evangelist John W. Sproul, whose West Carson street Glory Barn did not prove a business success, today began building another tabernacle a Parnassus, Pa.

Chief of Police A. J. McIlroy, of Parnassus, issued a building permit to the evangelist yesterday for the erection of a frame structure in Linden avenue. Sproul expects the tabernacle to be completed in time to inaugurate services next Sunday. The new Glory Barn, according to Sproul, will have a seating capacity for 5,000 people. A force of 50 carpenters appeared on the site this morning and began operations.

Fisher Again Gets Police, Fire Bill

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 19.—For the second time this session the bill that would have the people of Pittsburgh vote on the proposal to increase the pay of police and firemen is in the hands of the Governor. It passed the House today in amended form after passing the Senate last night. There was not a dissenting vote in either House.

SENATORS MAY CALL MELLON

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP.)—Secretary Mellon probably will be called before the Senate Judiciary Committee when it undertakes its inquiry into his right to continue as head of the Treasury with President Hoover.

Chairman Norris, of the committee, has not formulated his plans for the investigation, which was ordered by the Senate during its consideration of the new cabinet, but he does feel it will be necessary to have Mr. Mellon come before the committee.

The main point at issue in the investigation is whether the secretary, with his diversified wealth, has violated an old statute forbidding the treasury secretary from engaging or being interested in trade or commerce. Senator Norris believes Mellon is the person best qualified to inform the committee of his business interests.

The resolution of Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, ordering the investigation, also asked an interpretation of the law as to whether a cabinet officer could carry on from one president to another without his nomination again going before the Senate for confirmation. This affects James J. Davis, the secretary of labor, who, with Mr. Mellon, was retained from the Coolidge cabinet.

Senator Norris is canvassing the committee members to find out when to start the investigation, but he doesn't believe it will be possible to begin much before when Congress reconvenes April 15.

DEAD FROGS ON POSTS DEEPEN MURDER MYSTERY

BRADFORD, Pa., March 19.—(AP.)—The body of an unidentified man was found by a farmer yesterday along an isolated road two miles from Limestone, N. Y. The body was found between two fence posts and atop each post was a dead frog, authorities reported.

The victim had been shot in the head three times and had been blackjacked, police said.

Authorities were puzzled over the possible significance of the frogs. It was thought they might be some sign of a secret society. This was the sixteenth murder in the district in the past 10 years suspected of having been the result of a bootleg feud or a secret society.

Police expressed the belief that the man was slain elsewhere and the body carried to the spot where it was found.

Following a post-mortem, physicians said they believed the man had been slain last week.

CHARTER BOARD TO MAKE FIRM STAND

Discord over form and provisions of the Pittsburgh metropolitan district charter faces W. L. Mellon, former Republican state chairman, regarded as the arbiter of the document's destinies, upon his return to Pittsburgh today.

The Metropolitan District Commission, working on the problem since its creation by the 1923 Legislature, will not recede from its staunch support of the elaborate charter it produced. That charter now apparently is reposing precariously in committee at Harrisburg.

"The commission stands upon the charter," declared Joseph T. Miller, chairman.

Miller asserted that the commission, at its meeting yesterday, had adopted declarations of principle. One declaration was that it would not compromise upon the charter in principle, only in features and methods, Miller said.

Additional support of the charter bill as presented came yesterday from the executive committee of the League of Boroughs, which indorsed the measure in its entirety.

Opposed are political leaders of the city and county, whose solicitors last week prepared amendments, designed to eliminate features of the charter regarded as drastic ar too disturbing to existing govern...ent by those in power.

Advices from Harrisburg yesterday were that Mellon, conferring with other state leaders, was disposed to favor a simple form of charter, leaving many of the features advanced for future determination. These advices also said that the original bill may be destined for death in committee and a substitute measure offered. A meeting arranged today between Mellon and Councilman Malone has given added strength to this belief in political circles.

HARRISBURG, March 19.—The hearing on the Pittsburgh Metropolitan District charter, scheduled originally for today, probably will be held here one week from today.

There were no new developments here as far as the charter bill is concerned, save a repetition of the statement that W. L. Mellon is not committed to the text of any charter but to the Metropolitan District principal. The prevailing opinion is that a charter bill of some kind will be passed this session.

Senate Votes Police Pay Referendum Bill

HARRISBURG, March 19.—The Mansfield bill providing a referendum on the increase of the pay of Pittsburgh police and firemen passed the Senate as amended last night.

It was recalled from Gov. John S. Fisher after being approved by both houses when he made it known he would not sign it unless the provision making it compulsory for Council to raise the salaries in the event the people voted in favor of the increase was eliminated. This change was made. It will come up in the House for final approval today.

NEW MOVE MADE FOR BLUE LAW HEARING

HARRISBURG, March 19.—A renewed effort is being made here to get action on the proposals to modify the Sunday "blue laws" of 1794 to meet modern conditions.

Mrs. Ella C. Adams, chairman of the House Law and Order Committee, which is keeping a tight hold on the bills, is polling the members to see if they desire to grant a hearing to supporters of the modification proposals.

Representative M. A. Musmanno, sponsor of the bill that would permit municipalities to have local option on the Sunday laws, issued a statement declaring that the movement for modification did not end because of the unfavorable action of the committee last week.

Expressing his hope that the members of the committee would reverse their action and grant a hearing, he pointed out that hearings have been granted freely on almost every topic under the sun.

"I cannot conceive that the entire Legislature would deliberately justify a stifling and throttling of that vast body of citizens who are at least entitled to explain the sentiments of their communities on this proposition," he said.

FATHER COX IS LANDED SAFELY

I noticed that we weren't following the river and Rutledge said something about being off the course.

OVER CHESAPEAKE BAY

"Well, from there we flew over town after town that I didn't recognize. And then we hit a lot of water again. It was Chesapeake Bay. We landed on the other side of it, on a pasture outside of Chester.

"A farmer nearby gave us our directions and he happened to have lots of gasoline, so we bought some. We weren't out of gas but we bought it anyway.

"From Chester into Middletown it was just so much flying. We finally hit the Susquehanna River and sailed right over it. We landed at Middletown at 12:30, almost two hours after we left Chester. We went about 100 miles out of our course."

The passengers left Pittsburgh at 7:30 a. m. in a Ryan ship, modeled after the famous "We" which Col. Lindbergh flew to Paris. Father Cox explained it was necessary for him to make the trip by air because he had to be back in Pittsburgh tonight.

WILL FLY BACK

Rutledge said the return trip was scheduled to start at 3 o'clock. Weather conditions for flying were reported as good.

Anxiously awaiting Father Cox in Harrisburg were the Rev. Albert E. Day, pastor of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, and the Rev. Dr. Samuel F. Goldenson, of Rodef Shalom Temple, of Pittsburgh, who were to join in the protest against the Governor's bill.

The protest being made in the name of the American Civil Liberties Union, was to set forth that the Governor's bill was not strong enough in its stand against the activities of these police.

Plan to Keep County Out of First Class

HARRISBURG, March 19.—The population limit of first class counties is raised from 1,500,000 to 1,800,000 in a bill introduced last night by Senator Mansfield, Allegheny County. Philadelphia is the only first class county in the state. Purpose of the bill is to increase the population requirement above the figure which Allegheny County is expected to reach in the 1930 census, that laws now affecting Philadelphia will not apply to Allegheny County also after that time.

To Fly

RUTH NICHOLS

Fourteen of New York's socially-elect today are flying to Washington to attend "Air" Secretary of War F. Trubee Davison's luncheon in honor of Miss Nichols, society aviatrix. Tuesday she will take off on a 12,000-mile four-month flight through 38 states to arouse interest in the formation of aviation country clubs.

BOY UNWORRIED IN 'HEX' DEATH

ALLENTOWN, Pa., March 19.—(INS.)—"I have nothing to fear," was the repeated declaration of Frank Mastris, alias Masters, Easton youth, as state police grilled him today regarding the mysterious death of pretty Verna Octavia Delp, alleged "hex" murder victim.

"I knew the girl about six months," he said. The girl's adpoted parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Derhammer, of Green Pond, had named Masters as the girl's sweetheart, but said he had been missing for four months. They refused to reveal the contents of love letters passed between the girl and youth.

District Attorney Ethan Allen Gearhart today still stuck to his assertion that the girl was a "hex murder victim." Either she was killed by a practioner of the art or "hex" played a prominent part in the crime, he insists.

The girl had known for a long time of her condition, Gearhart said. "She couldn't tell her family; she couldn't tell her pastor so she sought solace from the pow-wows and her hex doctors." He believes the poison found in the girl's stomach was given to her by a "hexer" as "medicine," not with murder in view.

ANTI-DAM BILL HELD OVER

HARRISBURG, March 19.—The bill of Senator Harry H. Lamb, Venango, which would prevent the construction of dams more than 100 feet in height, was held over when it came up for final passage in the Senate last night.

Senator Lamb plans to amend the bill to reduce the height to 75 feet. It will prevent the construction of two enormous dams at Mill Creek and Foxburg by the Clarion River Power Company. Thomas Liggett and other representatives of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce have declared the proposed dams would be dangerous to life and property in Pittsburgh and other Allegheny River cites and towns.

23 OF COUNTY UNIT OPPOSE MOTOR BILL

By W. I. GRUNDISH,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 19.—The decision of Republican organization leaders to force a four-cent gasoline tax through the Legislature has not ended the battle against the increased levy.

Additional confirmation that the organization leaders have determined upon a four-cent tax came today when it was learned that Deputy Attorney General William Schnader is preparing the necessary legislation. The Governor admitted today that it is likely such a measure will be presented.

State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis, who has been leading the battle against the boost, remained defiant today in the spite of efforts of other leaders to convert him.

APPEAL TO MOTORISTS

C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, continued his efforts to crystalize sentiment against the increase by a statement urging motorists of the state to demand that their legislators vote down the proposal. Allied with the decision of the higher-ups to raise the gasoline tax, was their decision to pass the Griffith Motor Vehicle code, which increases license fees and the Talbot bill, placing the collection of the gasoline tax in the hands of wholesale distributors.

The motor code was reported favorably in the Senate today and advanced by one reading.

Opposition to both measures appeared in the House last night, one sensation coming when the Allegheny County delegation voted almost unanimously against the new motor code. It passed the House by a vote of 145 to 33. Of the negative votes, 23 were cast by Pittsburghers.

STADTLANDER FOR BILL

William F. Stadtlander, North Side, supported the bill, his being the only favorable vote in the delegation. Against it were Baldrige, Bell, Davidson, Dietrich, Goehring, Hagmaier, Grenet, Grimes, Hoffman, Howe, Lynch, Marcus, McClure, Michael, Muldowney, Musmanno, Purucker, Rhodes, Riddle, Soffel, Steedle, Storer and Wettach. Not present at the time were Dunn, McCann and Sullivan.

"I suggest that the members get alarm clocks to wake them up," declared Davidson after the result was announced.

Hundreds of protests against the increased fees in the motor code caused the Allegheny countians to rebel, Joseph C. Marcus, delegation leader, explained afterwards. By some, the attitude of the delegation on that bill was indicated as reflecting their opposition to the increased gas levy.

TALBOT BILL FUSS

The Talbot bill also had some rough sledding. Representative Robert S. Spangler, York, attempted to amend it to eliminate the provision to pay the distributors a commission for collecting the tax and forwarding it to the State Treasurer. Spangler persisted in his efforts in spite of attempts of Stadtlander to have him ruled out of order. The debate ended when it was discovered that Talbot himself was not present and the bill was held on second reading.

The additional 1-cent tax is expected to bring in about $9,000,000 annually; the increased operators' and vehicles fees in the Griffith motor code about $4,250,000 more and the change in the method of collecting the gasoline tax about $1,000,000 on top of that.

The program does not include a provision for returning part of the license fees to the municipalities from which they were collected. A bill providing for a return of 50 per cent of the fees to Pittsburgh was presented by Marcus last night. The Governor has announced his intention to veto it.

New Store Opens Tomorrow

Hills, Inc., a new store dealing in mens wearing apparel, is being opened tomorrow at 518 Wood street by Morry Goldman, local business man. The new store occupies the three floors of the building and is to include a department for men's accessories which is sponsored by Jules Gillette, of New York.

VOTING MACHINE BILL'S PASSAGE SEEMS ASSURED

HARRISBURG, March 19.—The passage of a voting machine bill at this session of the Legislature seems assured.

Harris

The measure will be known as the Davis-Harris bill but, according to reports, is based almost entirely upon the measure presented by Senator Frank J. Harris, Crafton.

The Elections Committee of the Senate, of which Senator Albert Davis, Scranton, is chairman, is scheduled to meet at 8 o'clock tonight to receive this bill from a sub-committee headed by Senator Bertram G. Frazier, Philadelphia.

Frazier said the sub committee would recommend that the bill be approved and reported with an affirmative recommendation as quickly as possible. This is in line with the decision of Republican organization leaders to get behind the measure. Senator Harris expressed himself as confident that the bill would pass and be signed by the Governor.

Mr. Wilkinson has had a saving account for 30 years. He has made it one of his rules of life to deposit money in the bank every pay day.

"The only way to have money," said Mr. Wilkinson, "is to do without things you do not need for your happiness. If I bought everything that took my fancy, I would not have a bank account. But one can do without a lot of things, and still be happy. There is happiness in the thought that one has the means to obtain things that are really needed."

A $5 deposit has also gone to Charles R. Clair, 17, of 802 Rossmore avenue, Brookline, holder of bank book No. 1,210 in the Brookline Savings & Trust Company. He has been saving for some time—and with such good effect that he recently was able to buy an automobile.

P. R. R. REPORTED SEEKING CONTROL OF BIG BUS LINE

CLEVELAND, March 19.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Railroad is to extend its motor transportation interests into the Middle West with the most pretentious bus organization yet undertaken by an American railroad, the Cleveland Plain Dealer says today.

The newspaper says that the Pennsylvania, barred by the Interstate Commerce Commission from operating buses as a part of its railway service, is said to be making ready to share in, if not actually control, the merged Greyhound and Yelloway bus lines, the largest motor transportation system in the world. The consolidation of Greyhound and Yelloway, effected February 14, formed a system representing an investment of $12,000,000, with 500 buses operating in every part of the country under the name of the American Motor Transit Company.

The new plans of the Pennsylvania, according to the Plain Dealer, call particularly for an invasion of the motor bus field in the Middle and Far West. One of the projects said to be under consideration is a western bus service to connect at St. Louis with the western terminus of the railroad.

The Greyhound lines operate through Northern Ohio and it is expected that the Pennsylvania will support development of this system, making Cleveland an important radial point for long distance bus travel to the East, West and South. The railroad already shares in the operation of motor coaches in the East which touch at Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Atlantic City and New York.

The Plain Dealer says an announcement of the railroad's plans is expected to be made soon.

RALLY PROPOSED FOR TAX PROTEST

HALL OFFERED IN REDUCTION DRIVE

Pittsburgh, having pronounced official protest against the high tax on earned incomes through a resolution adopted by City Council, today looks forward to a great mass meeting to relieve the burden borne by the country's wage earners.

J. L. Hernon.

Manager John L. Hernon, of Motor Square Garden, today offered Motor Square Garden without charge for a meeting of professional men and women, salaried people and all wage workers to formally petition Congress for the downward revision of the tax on earned incomes.

OFFERS AUDITORIUM

"The tens of thousands of citizens of this community who have signed the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph petitions should have an opportunity to make a demonstration of their strength," said Mr. Hernon, "and the best way to accomplish this is to call them together in a meeting to be addressed by speakers of national reputation who understand the subject. My personal interest in lightening the load on the shoulders prompts me to offer the hall without charge, and beyond this I realize that the movement is spontaneous and the people have not organized for a systematic campaign. In a mass meeting they would have an opportunity to give a formal expression to their views, and this would be effective in having Congress give instant heed to their appeal.

"Motor Square Garden belongs to the people of Pittsburgh for an income tax protest on any evening next week after Tuesday, March 26. The Garden management is glad to do this to aid a cause of such wide interest and importance."

PITTSBURGH LEADS

Pittsburgh is the first city in the United States to express officially its protest against the tax on earned incomes. At the regular meeting of Council yesterday afternoon President James F. Malone presented a resolution placing that body on record as recommending to Congress action for the downward revision of taxes on earned incomes. After a brief debate in which the majority of the members expressed their approval of the action, the resolution was adopted. Its text follows:

Whereas, the federal income tax law imposes an unfair burden on those who are taxed on earned incomes, and

Whereas, under the present schedule of rates the government is placed under a large expense in collecting the tax from a vast number of citizens earning but a modest wage; therefore, be it

Resolved that the Council of the City of Pittsburgh, through the medium of this resolution, go on record as recommending that Congress take up the question of a revision downward of taxes on earned incomes."

CITY BIG CONTRIBUTOR

"Pittsburgh is one of the largest per capita contributors of income tax," said President Malone, "and it is fitting that this should be the first city in the country to make official appeal to Congress in behalf of our citizens who are now carrying a heavy burden. It may be expecteed that many cities will follow Pittsburgh's example."

While Council acted formally for Pittsburgh the individual Pittsburghers were signing hundreds of petitions placed in hotels, drug stores, cigar counters and other public places. Readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in increasing numbers sent their petitions clipped from the paper. The campaign is gaining momentum as the people are learning of the effect of the country-wide movement for relief.

LATINS CALLED BAR TO U. S. IN WORLD COURT

GENEVA, March 19.—(AP.)—The United States was but two steps away from adherence to the World Court today, but League of Nations observers saw a possibility that at least one step might never be taken.

The two steps involve ratification of the protocol agreed upon yesterday by the Commission of International Jurists, ratification by the American Senate on the one hand and by the 40 nations which comprise the League of Nations on the other.

SENATE O. K. SEEN

Little opposition to the protocol is expected in the American Senate since it is believed that Elihu Root, its author, conferred with the jurists here with the sanction of President Hoover and Republican leaders.

Approval by member nations of the league, presents a different matter. A single nation's disagreement will be sufficient to prevent American adherence to the court under its terms.

LATINS FEARED

It is believed possible that one state or two may rebel against according a privileged position to the United States.

Such disagreement, which is feared particularly from Latin-American League members, probably would have the effect of forcing an international conference at which a further threshing out of the matter would be in order.

AIRPLANE CRASH KILLING 14 DESCRIBED BY FLIER

NEWARK, N. J., March 19.—(INS.)—With five corps of investigators digging into every detail of the ill-fated flight of the sight-seeing plane which crashed here ate Sunday afternoon with a death toll of 14, it was expected today that the cause of the catastrophe would soon be agreed upon.

Lou Foote

The death of Delmont Parsons of Brooklyn, who was riding with Pilot Lou Foote at the time of the crash, left only the pilot alive. He gasped out the disjointed story of his experience to his wife in a hospital here and she gave her husband's version of the events preceding the crash as follows:

"My right motor cut out suddenly, I was bucking a heavy wind with a full load of passengers, about 1,000 feet up. If I had turned back to the landing field we would have gone into a tail spin.

BLAMES WIND

"My only chance was to keep going straight ahead. The two other motors could not keep me up to capacity and I kept dropping in that wind. The plane was loaded.

"I tried to make a 'sit down' landing when I was over the marsh. I tried to drop in there, but the wind wouldn't let met.

"I tried to clear the cars, but the load was too heavy and the wind was too strong. I guess the plane was a 'washout.'

NOTHING OVERLOOKED

Mayor Jerome T. Congleton summarized the progress of the city's investigation into the fatal flight. He said that apparently every possible measure to safeguard the passengers had been taken.

"The city authorities have checked carefully the record of the company, the plane and the pilot involved and there is nothing so far to indicate that any detail was overlooked," Mayor Congleton said.

"On the contrary there seems to be absolutely nothing that could have foreshadowed this disaster. The pilot was a man of 10 years' experience. The plane was a great tri-motored machine of the finest type, the angine being recognized as one of the nearest to perfection yet built."

Dudley E. Rowland, chief of operations of the Colonial Airways, owner of the plane, has produced records to show that the plane had been fully gassed and oiled before its final flight, and that it was not overloaded.

PILOT TRIED OUT

The pilot, he said, was regarded as highly competent, having flown more than 2,500 hours in the last 10 years, starting as a World War pilot.

Edwin Weatherdon, chief pilot for the Colonial Airways, said that he had flown the Ford every day since November 1 and had never had trouble with it. He flew the plane in from Miller Field, Staten Island, to the Newark airport Sunday morning, he said, and went up with Foote four times, flying about the airport and New York, to assure himself of Foote's competence. It was the first time he had met Foote, he said, although he knew of him by reputation, and this was why he went with him on the four flights, instead of turning the plane over to him after the first.

Adam Torkowski, mechanic of the Ford, said that when the plane went up on its last flight the motors were working as well as they ever had. He said he could not submit records of his inspections as they were contained in the log book aboard the plane and that all these records were taken from the wreckage.

Water Blamed For Starting Hill Fire

Water was blamed for starting a fire today.

The water seeped in upon unslacked lime in a contractor's supply shed at Wylie avenue and Morgan street and heat that resulted from the reaction with the lime set the shed afire.

Several firemen suffered slight burns from particles of unslaked lime that floated in the air. The firefighters donned slickers and gloves to protect themselves and poured more water on the lime to check the work of the first flow of liquid, which came from a nearby gutter.

LINDY TO TEST BIGGEST PLANE

LOS ANGELES, March 19.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, after less than five hours in Los Angeles, took off yesterday for Santa Barbara, and landed there at 6 p. m. He will return here within a day or two and is expected to fly the 20-passenger tri-motored Keystone passenger liner Patrician to the Oakland, Cal., airport the latter part of the week.

During his five hours here he inspected this largest of American passenger airplanes; had luncheon with Edgar N. Gott, president of the Keystone Aircraft Corporation; Cliff Henderson, Los Angeles airport manager; W. E. Thomas, president of the Los Angeles Pilots' Association, and others, then sped to his plane at Rogers Airport, flew to Grand Central Airport, Glendale, inspected facilities there and finally took off for Santa Barbara.

Reppert Would Hire Engineer, Draftsmen

U.S. INCOME TAX RECEIPTS TOP ESTIMATES

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP.)—Income tax collections today were continuing to exceed estimates by Treasury experts, although Secretary Mellon still refused to say how much was expected to be received in the first quarter's payments on 1928 incomes.

Last week the secretary said the collections were running four or five million dollars more than the estimates and yesterday he declared that from present indications there would be a surplus at the end of the year. He pointed out, however, that unexpected expenditures might change the situation. The last estimate, he added, placed the probable surplus at $26,000,000, but explained this figure had been changed immediately by developments and as a result of that he did not care to predict what might be expected by July 1.

Income tax collections for Friday, the last day for filing returns, amounted to $15,700,156, an increase of $1,100,000 over the same day last year. The total for the month of March received from the income tax reached $72,504,506 on March 15, an increase of $6,411,000 over the same period last year.

For the fiscal year beginning last July 1, however, the collections have been $14,000,000 less than for the same period in the previous year.

Wounded Policeman Identifies Shooter

John Justice, Negro, of 6497 Washington boulevard, arrested in connection with the shooting of Motorcycle Patrolman Frank Scott, last Friday, was committed to jail by Magistrate W. J. Soost in Frankstown Avenue Police Station today, pending Scott's recovery. Detectives testified that Scott, in Mercy Hospital with a bullet wound in his thigh, had identified Justice as the man who had shot him while he was seeking prowlers among parked cars in Washington boulevard.

War Cross Winners To Get Diplomas

NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP.)—Thirty thousand American heroes, holders of the French Croix de Guerre, now can obtain special diplomas. Count De Cinanelli De Serane vice president of the Croix de Guerre Association and a member of a party of French veterans visiting this country as guests of the American legion, announced yesterday that if the American veterans will communicate with him, he will deliver the diplomas. Families of veterans who won the Croix de Guerre and are now dead also are entitled to the diplomas. The Count will be at the Hotel Lafayettte for a month, he said. Letters should contain credentials and dates of citations.

Nicaragua Bandits Routed by Marines

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 19.—(AP.)—United States Marines have come off victorious in two more contacts with bandits in the northern area, according to information received yesterday by Brig. Gen. Logan Feland, commanding the Marine Corps here. A patrol of Marines engaged a minor group of outlaws on March 14, killing one bandit. The following day in the same vicinity a combined patrol of Marines and Nicaraguan volunteers killed four outlaws and captured three. There were no Marine casualties.

COURT FORCES RELEASE OF TWO

Threatened with a court attachment, Police Inspector James N. Hoey has freed two prisoners alleged to have been held in jail illegally for over a week. Hoey, it is charged, persisted in holding the pair even after a writ of habeas corpus for their release had been granted.

The prisoners, Helen Miller, 907 Wylie avenue, and Tony Germinnara, 55 Tunnel street, had been arrested over a week ago, the woman on a charge of keeping a disorderly house and the man on a charge of being a suspicious person. At a hearing, Magistrate A. D. Brandon held them over and police refused to admit them on bail. After a week Attorney Albert Martin obtained a habeas corpus writ and had them freed on bond but after a second hearing yesterday at which Magistrate Brandon again continued the case, Inspector Hoey took them into custody a second time.

Attorney Martin then threatened to get a court attachment against Hoey but the police inspector forestalled the action by releasing the prisoners on $1,000 bond.

Two Workers Caught In Cave-In; One Dies

KOPPEL, Pa., March 19.—Arman Vell, 19, of Ellwood City, was buried alive, and Louis Fall, 35, of 500 Third avenue, Ellwood City, was bruised and crushed yesterday when a sewer excavation caved in. Vell's body was recovered from the bottom of a nine-foot ditch. Fall was removed to the Providence Hospital, Beaver Falls.

'Early Birds' Oppose Daylight Saving

Council has been reminded of the approach of spring by receipt of letters from non-residents protesting against the adoption of daylight saving time for Pittsburgh in 1929. The most recent objectors were Mrs. Helen Portraus, of Swissvale, and A. J. Ransil, of 2717 Fairview avenue, Mt. Oliver.

Daugherty Defends Harding, Self

"President Harding was a greatly maligned man," Daugherty said with feeling in his voice. "It is bad enough to attack a man when he is alive, but it is a terrible thing to attack him when he is dead. They waited until he was dead."

PROUD OF RECORD

Daugherty declared that while he personally played an important part in the late President's life, he "never craved power." He never wanted to be attorney-general, he said, but when he did accept the office at the personal solicitation of the President, he "did the job honestly and fearlessly." He pointed with pride to his record, regardless of the fact that a senate committee investigated the conduct of his office. He said the investigation was inspired by his enemies.

Daugherty declared he never saw and was never inside the "mythical little green house in K street" in Washington and that President Harding was never in it.

Daugherty added he is preparing to "unwind this ball of yarn," and that shortly there will be written for him a book or magazine articles that will "tell the truth."

SCOFFS AT CHARGES

Daugherty scoffed at the charges of fraud and connivance that were leveled against him while he was in public office, declaring:

"I never knew anything about that Teapot Dome transaction. I never knew of the Harry Sinclair-Teapot Dome transaction. I never knew of the Harry Sinclair lease until I read it in the newspapers."

Discussing the "little green house on K street," Daugherty said:

"I never was in it. Harding was never in it and I never heard of any member of the Harding cabinet being in it. If there was such a place I never heard of cabinet members holding conferences there. I wired Senator James A. Watson to that effect a week ago, because I just thought I'd stir the monkeys up a bit.

"I cannot understand why members of the Harding cabinet were not quick to repudiate the public attacks and the underhand whisperings directed against President Harding after he died. I was so close to Harding that a defense of him coming from me did not seem to be the thing that was needed.

"ADMINISTRATION SUCCESS"

"In my opinion it was a high honor to be a member of the Harding cabinet. I observed, however, that no member of the Harding cabinet had a word to say in the dead president's behalf.

"Why, his administration was a wonderful success. It needs no apology. His plans and policies, having been carried out, have made the country happy and prosperous.

"This book that was published was built on a foundation of falsehood. Why, it pictured the President as having become intoxicated in the little green house, of having played cards there with me and with others and, what is worse, it brought in a fictitious woman."

His voice rising in indignation, Daugherty declared:

"STORIES IMPOSSIBLE"

"None of that could have occurred to either the President of the United States or to the Attorney General. There were always at least half a dozen persons, secret service men, who knew my every move, and the President's every move. The whole thing is ridiculous.

"No one lived more decently in Washington than he did, or than I did. I can understand these attacks. I made plenty of enemies and they blamed Harding for anything I did they disliked.

"I have always been an advocate of sobriety, although I had no aversion to taking an occasional cocktail. I never could drink in the day time and work. I couldn't drink at night, because it would keep me awake.

"WRONG IDEA OF HARDING"

"Many people may have a wrong idea of President Harding. It was true that he was a genial, charming and peace-loving man, but he was more than that. He had a strong character. He was the President of the United States and no one else. He may have accepted my advice on occasion, but it was he who made the final decision.

"Harding had a keen mind. He had a great cabinet, for he believed in surrounding himself with big men.

"But when Harding sat at the cabinet sessions they knew that he was President of the United States. He had a cabinet whom he allowed to speak its mind, but he, himself, decided the ultimate policy.

"The little green house myth was the start of a story that grew like a snowball rolling down hill. Once it got started, the story was added to in a fantastic manner. It was bandied about so much that many people actually believed it."

"The American people, unfortunately, do not study government. They think of sports, of automobiles, dancing and various diversions. They are susceptible to scandal stories. I was never afraid of a lie. A falsehood will ultimately be run to earth, even though a lie is harder to catch up with than the truth, and is more likely to be believed. I wouldn't tell a lie to the public and I never intend to. I will, in my own time and in my own way, tell the American people the full facts about the Harding administration, and they can then judge for themselves."

(Editor's note—The second installment of James L. Kilgallen's interview with Daugherty will be published tomorrow.)

Battles 2 Thieves In Runaway Auto

A battle between two thieves and a motorist in a runaway automobile ended when the car crashed into a steep terrace in Berkshire avenue and overturned. George Decort, 25, of 103 South Twenty-second street, saw the two thieves riding in his machine two hours after it had been stolen. Leaping on the running board, he began struggling with the bandits. The driver lost control and the machine crashed. All three escaped injuries, the two thieves taking to their heels after the wreck.

ERIE TERM RUM CASES ESCAPE JONES LAW

ERIE, Pa., March 19.—It is not likely that any bills charging violations of the prohibition laws under the Jones law will be presented to the March grand jury, it was announced by John D. Meyer, U. S. district attorney, late yesterday when that body began its deliberations. His explanation was that none of the cases which have been made by the government since the new law was signed by former President Coolidge are in readiness. There are a dozen persons in western Pennsylvania now facing action under the drastic new law.

Under the new act all cases affected by it will be presented first to the grand jury, thus eliminating the filing of a complaint before a United States commissioner as was done previously when dry law violations were classed as misdemeanors. Now the violation is a felony.

EIGHT GET PENALTIES

Eight Erie persons, including one woman, were given jail sentences ranging from 15 days to 65 days and fines ranging from $100 to $300. The sentences were as follows:

Ernie Baker, proprietor of the Green Garden Inn, 60 days; Roy Bierbauer, proprietor of a gas filling station, Fairview, 45 days; Herman Marquad, proprietor of a Parade street restaurant, 45 days; Alvin Coberg, a waiter, 15 days; Solborto Delporto, arrested in a raid on a wildcat brewery, fined $300; William Raub, a waiter, fined $250; Edward Markle, fined $100; Mrs. Grace Munson, who claimed moonshine and cognac seized by agents was for home consumption, fined $100. The sentences were imposed by Judge R. M. Gibson.

20 CLUBS PADLOCKED

Twenty padlock cases were heard by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker. All of the cases were the outgrowth of raids on clubs in this city in November and December.

Judge Schoonmaker, after hearing the government evidence, held that in all of the cases violation of the prohibition statutes had been marked and ordered the owners of the buildings to post $1,000 bond each with the privilege of applying for reopening of the case in event a suitable tenant was found.

The court also ruled that under no condition would the places be allowed to reopen and be used for violation of the prohibition laws. It also was stipulated that before application for discontinuance of the padlock order is made, the government must be satisfied that all bar equipment is destroyed.

Drops Claim on City For $2,000 Verdict

Council has received an ordinance authorizing the city to cancel claims of $573.84 presented by S. T. Yimin, a policeman hurt on duty, in order that he may receive $2,000 awarded in a court verdict.

Doctor Found Women and Children Sick More Often than Men

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 years' practice, he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and placed it on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a public success as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us it helped when everything else failed.

While women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, its mild, gentle action is promptly effective on the most robust constitution and in the most obstinate cases. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it willingly. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

SORLIN, MUSIC DIRECTOR, WEDS FAYETTE WOMAN

Predicting to Pittsburgh friends a month ago that he would "get foolish," John S. Sorlin, 56, of New York City, a well known former local musical leader, has sprung a surprise by being married. The bride was Miss Mary Hines, 43, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Hines of Connellsville.

The ceremony was performed by Deputy City Clerk Joseph J. McCormick in Gotham's city hall, where the couple obtained a license Saturday morning.

Mr. Sorlin, born in Sweden, came to Pittsburgh in 1905 as musical director for the Fort Pitt Hotel at the time of its opening. When the William Penn Hotel opened in 1915, he filled the same capacity for both hotels, resigning the position six years ago to make his home in New York City. He was president of the McKeesport-Texas Oil Company during the McKeesport oil boom. He was head of the Swedish Glee Club here for many years.

This is Mr. Sorlin's second marriage. In 1917 he brought his first bride here from New York. This marriage with Mrs. Evelyn Sorlin was dissolved here in January, 1919, his former wife returning to the East.

Robber Gets Only $2.50 in 3 Houses

A thief who ransacked three Springdale homes got $2.50 for his efforts, county detectives were notified today. The homes entered were those of Mrs. A. L. Turner, Alex Maxwell and John McFee. The man first knocked at doors and when no one answered entered the house, detectives were told.

STOLEN WATCH USED AS GIFT

How a retired Regular Army soldier was robbed of a watch presented to him by his buddies upon his retirement after 35 years of service by a woman who gave it to her "boy friend" for Christmas was revealed in Morals Court this morning, when Wanda Hugo, 22, of 907 Cedar avenue, suspected of the theft, was held for court on a larceny charge by Magistrate A. D. Brandon. The alleged "boy friend," Leo Schultz, 22, of 103 North Main street, Sharpsburg, was held for receiving stolen goods.

They were arrested Sunday after detectives had traced the watch to a pawnshop, where Schultz, police say, had pawned it.

It was testified in court that the Hugo woman met John Fitzsimmons, 65, a former inmate at the Old Soldiers' Home at Washington, D. C., late in December, went out with him and took the watch, valued at $150, and $60 in cash, and after erasing the inscription, she gave the watch to Schultz.

"Don't COUGH Your Energy Away"

Stop hacking Coughs that wrack your whole system

DOCTORS advise coughs should be checked quickly. They sap vitality—put a terrific strain upon the vital organs. A cough can wrack your whole body—tear at the delicate tissues of the throat—leave the muscles of your chest and stomach sore from sheer exertion. Your health demands that coughs be checked, before exhaustion or serious infection sets in.

At the first sign of a cough or throat irritation, take PERTUSSIN. It helps Nature free the air passages of germ-laden mucus, soothes the irritation and quiets the cough. PERTUSSIN has been prescribed more often for coughs than any other advertised remedy.

PERTUSSIN is safe even for small children and convalescents—a good remedy for "coughs that hang on." It is free from dope—does not upset the stomach and can be taken as often as necessary. At all druggists.

FLOODS RECEDE, 30,000 SUFFER

ATLANTA, March 19. — Flood waters were receding in the Southeast today, revealing appalling spectacles of death and devastation in their wake.

In ravaged portions of Alabama, where something like 30,000 persons are homeless, rehabilitation has started in scattered places. However, a few other Alabama areas are still in peril.

An official estimate by Gov. Bibb Graves' office put the Alabama casualty list at more than 100.

Later, after making a 600-mile tour of the stricken ends of the state by airplane, the Governor declared an additional number of dead were reported at Brewton, Ala.

He said when his plane flew over Brewton a big "K" was displayed on the Red Cross field there. This signal means "persons killed." No numeral accompanied the sign.

Forty-one deaths have been confirmed in the states of Alabama, Georgia, Florida and Mississippi. The list by states is: Alabama, 24; Georgia, 15; Florida, 1; Mississippi, 1.

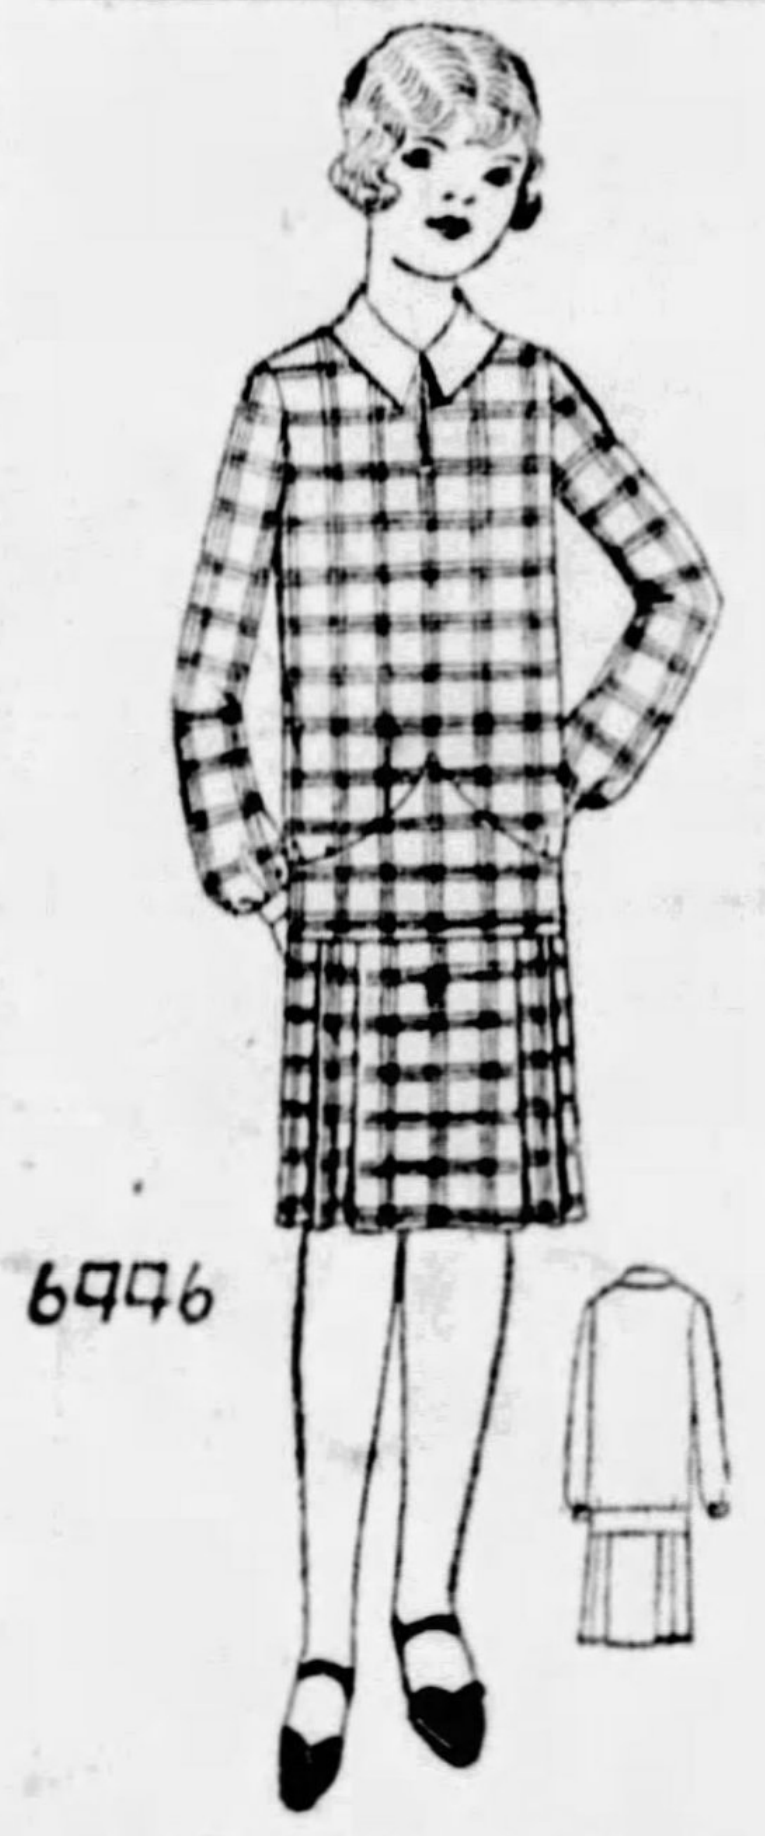
Squadrons of airplanes from Montgomery, Ala., and Pensacola, Fla., today continued to drop provisions, blankets and clothing to isolated communities.

HORST SEARCH AGAIN FAILS

WOOSTER, O., March 19.—(AP.)—An official searching party which spent all yesterday tracing clues to the whereabouts of Melvin Horst, 4, who disappeared from Orrville on December 27, returned here today unsuccessful in their quest.

The officials had the assistance of Detective Ora Slater who returned here upon request of the searchers.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern



A GOOD STYLE FOR A SCHOOL DRESS

Plaid woolen in brown tones was chosen for this attractive model, with plain woolen in a biege shade for collar and cuffs. This is also a good style for jersey, crepe and for cotton prints. A hip band shaped in a split curve in front, joins the waist, and the skirt which is arranged in plaits to form a wide panel over the center front and back. The sleeve is full above a band cuff. The neck is finished with a rolled collar.

The pattern for this pleasing model is cut in four sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. To make the dress for a 10-year size will require 2¼ yards of 36-inch material. For collar and cuffs of contrasting material ¼ yard is required 36 inches wide.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned, respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services.

We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed and they seldom have a new opportunity for the accumulation of savings which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers, salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income as distinguished from earnings on capital, and, since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on earned incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor, Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation of our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

GEORGE STEINLE

Penn. Mother Tells Story

Nature controls all the functions of our digestive organs except one. We have control over that, and it's the function that causes the most trouble.

See that your children form regular bowel habits, and at the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness or constipation, give them a little California Fig Syrup. It regulates the bowels and stomach and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act as Nature intends them to. It helps build up and strengthen pale, listless, underweight children. Children love its rich, fruity taste and it's purely vegetable, so you can give it as often as your child's appetite lags or he seems feverish, cross or fretful.

Leading physicians have endorsed it for 50 years, and its overwhelming sales record of over four million bottles a year shows how mothers depend on it. A Pennsylvania mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Steinle, 221 South Ithan St., Philadelphia, says: "George was terribly pulled down by constipation. He got weak, fretful and cross, had no appetite or energy and food seemed to sour in his stomach. California Fig Syrup had him romping and playing again in just a few days, and soon he was back to normal, looking better than he had looked in months."

Protect your child from imitations of California Fig Syrup. The mark of the genuine is the word "California" on the carton.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away go indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c, 30c, 60c.

PRINCE OLAF

PRINCE'S BLUE GLASSES HIDE ROYAL TROTH

OSLO, Norway, March 19.—The way in which Princess Marthe, of Sweden, and Crown Prince Olaf, of Norway, kept their engagement a secret may now be revealed on the eve of their marriage on Thursday.

Crown Prince Olaf traveled incognito from Oslo to Stockholm last January for the purpose of officially meeting his bride-to-be and having their engagement officially delared. He wore a pair of blue spectacles and succeeded in reaching Stockholm without being recognized by the railway employes or officials along the route.

Being first cousins, the happy pair have known each other since youth. But their romance only started two and a half years ago, when the sisters, Marthe and Astrid, the latter now the crown princess of Belgium, visited the Norwegian royal family with their father.

A red carpet had been laid over the railway station platform and the young princess stepped from her car onto it, where Prince Olaf and his father and mother, king and queen of Norway, awaited her.

Looking Over Amusements of Week With Critics as Your Guides

STAGE AND SCREEN -:- FEATURE -:- PLAYERS SHOWN HERE

"DRACULA" ISN'T KILLED YET, BUT WALKED THE STAGE AT THE NIXON AGAIN

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

GEORGE SEIBEL

ALTHOUGH they have driven a stake through his heart six nights in succession and twice during matinees, the undead dead spirit of "Dracula" walked again at the Nixon Theater yesterday evening, while dogs howled in the moonlight and the fly-catching maniac talked unaccountable sense every time he got loose. Bram Stoker's uncanny fiction, transferred to the stage by Hamilton Deane and John L. Balderston, has the fascination of pseudo-science, on which hundreds of charlatans grow fat even in this twentieth century. And it is well done, which strengthens the illusion. The Dutch doctor, played by Edward Van Sloan, almost persuades us that the superstitions of yesterday do become the science of tomorrow. Thank heaven for the white mouse that crawls over the keeper's arm and frightens the maid! Here is something we can believe in.

The authors have thrown so many ingredients into their witches' cauldron that the broth is good and strong. Werewolves and bats, vampires and specter brides, a moving chair and a shattered mirror are among the tricks of the trade used to induce a few agreeable spinal perturbations in the spectator. The Society for Psychical Research would find it a hard case to solve. With hypnotism and holy water added to the other elements of the gruesome melodrama, the atmosphere is thick enough to stifle skepticism.

BUT THEY DO LAUGH

The powerful appeal of the play is evident through the fact that the audience laughs only once during the horrid suspense of the three acts. But they do laugh when Count Dracula holds his fair victim in his arms and proceeds to quaff her blood. And a good healthy laugh is potent enough to drive away almost any kind of ghoul or spook. Laughter is the real wolfsbane to exorcise such creatures.

"Dracula," however, creates an illusion more convincing than the innumerable mystery plays that have passed in a long procession across our stage in the past few years. Here at least is an effort to use actual folklore and ancient superstition in a workmanlike manner. Poe could have made more of it, but Poe is dead. Bulwer-Lytton could have made more of it, but Bulwer-Lytton is dead. And so we must be grateful to Bram Stoker, although he too is dead, for having left us this antidote to realism—not as strong as Poe or Bulwer-Lytton, but good enough to afford us a few chills and creeps, and to induce a pious hope that a dogcatcher might be hired to reinforce the white-capped nurse hovering in the rear of the theater.

THE CAST BELIEVES

Evidently the cast believes it all. There is Grant Stewart, who has as jolly a reputation as the poor Yorick who poured a flagon of Rhenish on a gravedigger's head. He plays the father of the lovely victim, and he hasn't a smile left in his system—he believes it all. And there is Bernard Jones, who has played the lunatic over a thousand times—he surely must believe in himself by now. And Raymond Huntley, who has appeared two thousand times as Dracula—he ought surely to sleep in a coffin by day, as the divine Sarah used to.

Put together with considerable dramatic ingenuity and acted with much histrionic emphasis, the piece has a clammy grip upon the audience that will not let go. Perhaps not a few are glad when that stake is driven through the heart of the Vampire. And they hope that "ashes to ashes, dust to dust," is really Dracula's finish. Alas and alack! To those timid souls the awful truth must be broken. The undead thing will walk again tonight and every night this week and two matinees. It is hard to kill a Vampire!

"IRON MASK" DASHING IN PENN

No player can do a dashing role on the screen with just the same spirit as Douglas Fairbanks. He proved that especially in the part of D'Artagnan in "The Three Musketeers" several years ago and he demonstrated it again in "The Iron Mask," which provides good entertainment on the Penn screen.

"The Iron Mask" combines two Dumas tales, "The Man In the Iron Mask" and "Twenty Years After" in a production that is consistently beautiful throughout if not consistently lucid as to story at all times. Coherence has been sacrificed to action at times and the tale is lacking in the love element. But the fault is that of Dumas and not of the redoubtable Doug, who serves his royal masters, two kings, "for the glory of France," and finds plenty of adventure, in which he is sustained by the immortal trio, Athos, Porthos and Aramis.

IN FINAL ADVENTURE

And all go to greatest adventure of all in the end, which is not titled "The End" but "The Beginning." As a kind of triumph for the picture these four great fighters are sent on their long journey without leaving any sting—only slight regret—for it is made to appear that they continue on "for the glory of France."

The picture has comedy as well as romance of the flashing sword and it is very well acted. Some of the palace scenes inspire awe with their beauty and majesty. Marguerite De La Motte, Dorothy Revier, Nigel De Brulier and Ulrich Haupt have prominent roles.

The stage show, headed by Teddy Joyce, is "Carnival Cocktail," in which a pot pourri of music, dancing and comedy is presented in a novel setting. Moore and Pal, comedy acrobats, and Joe Besser, rotund funster, cause many laughs. Frances Wills amazes in an act combining grace and suppleness. Ethel Dallon sings and the Foster girls make a pleasing dancing ensemble.

Aldine Offers German Drama

Two men and a woman—the eternal triangle again—are responsible for many dramatic moments on the Aldine screen this week. The picture is "Homecoming," another production made by the German cameras of the UFA Company. The characters around which the story revolves are Dita Parlo, who plays a wife, Anna; Lars Hansen, as Richard, her husband, and Gustav Frohlich, as Karl, who figures prominently as the third member of the triangle.

Dita Parlo.

The two men, German soldiers, are Russian prisoners of war. They attempt to escape from the Siberian wastelands. Karl gets back to the Fatherland. But the husband, Richard, is picked up by Cossacks. Karl looks up the wife, Anna, hoping—since the war has ended—that Richard may be there. But the husband hasn't returned. Karl stays on—he falls in love with his friend's wife. Then husband Richard turns up.

SUBTLE TREATMENT

But it all doesn't result in a cheap shooting affray. There's too keen an emotional touch to these German movie makers for that. Instead of violent physical action, neat camera shots develop the mental attitude of the two men, who are found in such a difficult position. And, in the end, one goes to sea and the other is left to go back to the woman.

The photoplay offers some impressive photography, a story that is unfolded with sincerity and thought, and acting of the A-1 type.

Enright Gets Talking Nagel

Conrad Nagel is appearing as a talking gangster on the Enright screen this week. He marries the social butterfly, Lois Wilson, and after some romantic moments and gun-battling episodes, the final fadeout and the happy-ever-after idea are reached. The title of the production is "Kid Gloves." A number of sequences have dialogue.

Lois Wilson

Dick Powell, versatile young fellow, again dominates the stage presentation, "Chasin' Rainbows." Mr. Powell this week toots the cornet in a solo number. He also keeps his band busy and spends the rest of his time introducing the featured entertainers on the bill: White and Manning, comedy dancers; Al Samuels and his two brothers, who prove a trio of peppey steppers, and the singing young miss, Bobby Gorman. The Enright Rockets, an ensemble of dancing girls, are prominent.

Endurance Mark Set For Primary Planes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 19.—A new world's endurance record for primary government training planes was made yesterday by Lieut. Joe T. Shumate, of the Arkansas National Guard, who remained aloft 11 hours and 4 minutes. He took off at 5:45 a. m. and landed at 4:49 p. m. His 130-gallon gas supply was exhausted. The previous record, so far as officials here could learn, was 4 hours 26 minutes, set by Shumate and Lieut. L. R. Hewitt, of the National Guard, here.

A silver cup recently was offered by Lieut. Stafford L. Lambert, secretary of the National Guard Air Association, to the flier keeping a plane of this type in the air for the longest period.

Bundle in Car Moves; Kidnaping Suspected

After a Pittsburgh Railways Company watchman had reported seeing a white bundle that appeared to move in the tonneau of a touring car police last night searched Ardmore boulevard and intersecting roads for a possible kidnaper, but found nothing. The watchman reported that the driver of the car had inquired the way to New York.

FUN PICTURE STANLEY BILL

The whack of the slapstick has lost nothing of its effectiveness as a mirth-provoker when reproduced in the talkies. A shining example of the success of a rough-and-tumble comedy done in pictures and sound is found in "Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City," a picture which gets the big type in the Stanley's announcements this week. Yesterday's audiences laughed long and heartily at the lines and smacks that jumped out of the loudspeaker as well as the grotesque scenes pictured on the screen.

FUN IS GLORIFIED

It is essentially slapstick stuff with a side line pulchritude, being a comedy built around the vicissitudes of the Cohens and Kellys who happen at the seaside resort during a beauty pageant. One thing in favor of this film is that it is not long. It glorifies the fun of George Sidney and Mark Swan.

Man Silent 45 Days, Divorce Denied Wife

LOS ANGELES, March 19.—(AP.)—Mrs. Marie Flugrath, step-mother of Shirley Mason and Viola Danna, film stars, believed she had sufficient grounds for a divorce because her husband would not speak to her "for 45 days." The court thought differently. The judge said:

"Some women would be very thankful if they had a husband who was equally taciturn. Mrs. Flugrath will have to have better grounds before she can get her divorce."

The Flugraths were married in 1925. They separated two months ago.

Great-Grandson of Vanderbilt to Wed

NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP.)—Frederick Vanderbilt Field, great-grandson of the late William H. Vanderbilt, yesterday obtained a license to wed Miss Elizabeth G. Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Brown, of Duluth, Minn. Field is 24 and is a grandson of Mrs. Henry White, widow of the former ambassador to London. He graduated from Harvard in 1927.

Featured

Grand Offers Child Actor

Little Davey Lee, cute movie youngster, talks baby talk and sings a verse or so in "Sonny Boy," photoplay current on the Grand screen. What he sings is a bit from the "Sonny Boy" song that was a hit in Al Jolson's "The Singing Fool." Davey, too, you recall, was a hit in that production.

Davey Lee

Thus the purpose of the new picture is obvious. It is an effort to cash in further on the popularity of the Jolson song and on the child actor. The picture is no monument to movie achievement. It is just another entertaining photoplay—a comedy of the farcical type. It isn't a monument to the child actor either—for the story, woven to exploit him, doesn't do anything more for him than just that.

In the picture Davey's father, who has hay fever (we tell you this so you'll be prepared for all the sound-screen sneezing,) is going to divorce mama. A court order gives him Davey. But before the order can be served, the wife's young sister kidnaps the child. Near the end, while the grownups are getting matters straightened out, Davey goes from the apartment, via a fire escape, and sees a picture show—yes, Jolson's "The Singing Fool." Returning, Davey sings "Sonny Boy" to his reunited papa and mama.

The picture has a number of dialogue sequences. The cast, a good one, includes Betty Bronson, Edward Everett Horton, Gertrude Olmstead, John T. Murray, Tommy Dugan, Lucy Beaumont, Edmund Breese and Jed Prouty.

Short screen entertainment completes the bill.

MISS HOPPER 62 AND 19 IN DAVIS

History must be revised, for it is clear that when Ponce de Leon went to Florida to discover the fountain of youth, he took Edna Wallace Hopper along with him. The sportive comedienne of olden days might be her own granddaughter. In fact, the Davis Theater management ought to present affidavits that she is not. In gay insouiance and sylphlike figure, Miss Hopper, who boasts of 62 years, certainly appears no more than 19. She shows the women how she does it, and it looks simple enough—a few daily dozens every morning.

FEATURED ACTORS

Another most attractive feature of the vaudeville is the Bird Cabaret of Marzella, which is a tropical forest filled with parrots and macaws and cockatoos that turn somersaults and even sing opera. Two cats who do a brief turn evoked an admiring "ah" from the audience, perhaps because they are vegetarians.

Toby Wilson and a company of four presented a sketch called "Oh Henry," in which he plays an amusing rube at Palm Beach, with interludes of song and dance.

A CLEVER PAIR

Mirth was provided chiefly by Edith Evans and Ray Mayer, a clever pair who gave the audience a new definition of a "cavalier," along with songs and patter that proved delightful.

Several dancing teams are in the bill—Freddie Byron and Eddie Willis being especially agile and speedy. The revue of Carl Swan and Jean Carroll proved a graceful and attractive number.

Larry Rich is there with the usual jazz band, introduced by Satan himself amid sulphurous smoke. Larry's weight and Mlle. Cherie's costume of rhinestones are very impressive—but Satan didn't stay. Probably he was interviewing the slender and tender Edna Wallace Hopper.

Grover Cleveland's Birthday Observed

NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP.)—The ninety-second anniversary of the birth of Grover Cleveland was celebrated last night by the Grover Cleveland Association, with Hoke Smith, Atlanta, Ga., sole surviving member of the Cleveland Cabinet, and Supreme Court Justice William H. Black as the principal speakers.

POPULARPLAY AGAIN IN ALVIN

The romance of Franz Schubert, as portrayed in the operetta, "Blossom Time," in the Alvin, appears to be as deathless as the music of the composer. "Blossom Time" has been in the Alvin frequently. In fact the company playing it now was here as recently as the beginning of the present season, but its presentation of the attractive romance and haunting melodies is just as welcome as if there were no long record of previous successes here behind it.

John Charles Gilbert sings and acts the role of Schubert and Genevieve Naegele has the part of the winsome Mitzi. And Mr. Gilbert really sings and acts. And Miss Naegle really makes Mitzi as entrancing as romance requires, so Schubert comes to life again on the Alvin stage and his pathetic, shy love is made the center of a play that is all prettiness, immortalized in music adapted from the music of Schubert—adapted but still leaving it recognizable as his own.

It is hard to tell whether the music or the story, or both combined, are responsible for the popularity of "Blossom Time," but certainly the music is the kind that never grows old. This is evident in "Song of Love," "Lonely Heart," "Serenade" and others of the group that make up the melodic part of the play.

"Blossom Time," though predominantly in a serious key, is not all gravity, and the comedy is well taken care of by Robert Lee Allen, as Kranz, the jeweler. Baron Von Schober is played by Herbert Lyle. Others in the cast include Ivan Servais, Nancy Sheridan, Elsa Lang and Erba Robeson.

Academy Has "Speed Girls"

May West, in "Something a Little Different," and "Little Egypt," exponent of oriental dancing, are two added features with "Speed Girls of 1929," this week's Mutual burlesque in the Academy. A player in the show of interest locally is Anne Evans, a Pittsburgh girl, singing and dancing soubret. Miss Evans formerly was an usher in the Academy. Fred "Falls" Binder, Yiddish comedian, and Nellie Nice, leading woman, are featured in "Speed Girls." Jim Pearl, comic; Pat McCarthy, singing and dancing leading man; Joan Tanya, ingenue; Millie Kennedy, acrobatic soubrette, and Guy Post, song and dance specialist, are their assistants.

FILMS, ACTS SHOW IN HARRIS

"The Ghost Talks," a photoplay that has sound and dialogue, is one of the features of the current three-day bill in the Harris. The other feature is the vaudeville show that has Tameo Kajiyama, mentalist and caligraphist, who does a lot of writing of a lot of different things at the same time, as its headliner. Florence Kajiyama puts a little music into the act by some classical gestures at a piano. Other acts include Skeets Mayo, who appears as "the distinguished traveler;" Barring and LaZar, in a comedy skit and Briscoe and Paul, novelty entertainers.

PICTURE SPOOKY

Getting back to the picture, it is, as its title indicates, one of those spooky and mysterious sort of things. But in this case, the mystery is tempered with a lot of comedy and some romance. It concerns a young hotel clerk, who imagines he is a great detective; a girl, whose dead father had become involved with some stolen bonds; a pair of Negro honeymooners and several other pairs of wicked looking individuals. The action takes place in a modern hotel and also in a haunted house. Helen Twelvetrees and Charles Eaton, both legitimate stage recruits, top the cast.

An organlogue and short screen entertainment complete the bill.

Minstrel Act In Sheridan

Emmet Welch and his Atlantic City Minstrels are the principal stage attractions in the Sheridan Square the first three days of this week. A complete minstrel first part is offered and then Welch "sandwiches" the vaudeville specialties in what is now known as "presentation" manner. These include Jay Velie in "Songs a la Carte;" Marshall and Shannon and other acts. On the screen is an all talkie comedy, "Sound Your A," as a specialty and "The Ghost Talks," as the feature. The picture has sound, talks, mystery and comedy. It was directed by Lew Seiler and features a cast headed by Charles Eaton and Helen Twelvetrees.

Milton Sills Regent Star

"The Barker," a sound and talk production, is now being shown in the Regent. It has Milton Sills in the title role as a spieler in a third-rate carnival. Dorothy Mackaill is co-starred, and she plays the part of a show girl. Betty Compson is seen as the Barker's sweetheart, and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is the son of the same individual, whose only soft spot is his love for his boy. Sylvia Ashton, George Cooper, S. S. Simon, One-Eyed Connelly and John Irwin are in the cast. Short features, including Vitaphone reels and late news, are on the bill.

THE TELEPHONE BOOKS ARE THE DIRECTORY OF THE NATION

DRY "HOME RULE" URGED BY J. HAMILTON LEWIS

James Hamilton Lewis, Chicago lawyer and formerly United States Senator from Illinois, was asked by the editors of the Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest to give his views on the state of the union as regards prohibition.

His reply was prompt and to the point, expressing his belief, held by countless thousands of other Americans, that the control of the temperance problem should be first a local government function, to meet the intelligent wishes and requirements of local communities and secondly a matter for personal determination.

By JAMES HAMILTON LEWIS.

"The farce and failure—in the execution of the national prohibition law of the United States—is the blister on the body of America. The effort of Mr. Hearst to find a plan to enforce the law or put a law in its place that can be enforced should be aided by all public men.

"As United States Senator for Illinois, I opposed the Eighteenth Amendment on the ground that laws to control personal taste, personal habits or regulate home, school and religion, should be only by local government where the citizen lived.

FOR HOME RULE

"When I was the candidate of the Democracy of this state for Governor, as I came out of the Senate, officers of the Anti-Saloon League denounced my counsel to President Wilson on the Volstead law, which prevented local officers of state and city from enforcing the temperance laws and gave over to the national government the duty which is now prostituted by national bribery, national murder and national lawlessness, resulting in open drunken debauchery.

"As a former member of the House of Representatives of Congress I had advocated and supported the local option temperance laws for the territories and the District of Columbia, representing the principle of home rule.

SEES YOUTH DESTROYED

"The present administration by the national government of our prohibition laws has made a barroom of the parlors of the rich and vice dens of street taxicabs. All this is destroying the youth of boys and girls, and breeding contempt for law and defiance of official authority of officers and courts.

"The publisher sponsor is to be rewarded and the people blessed if some system of temperance enforcement can come out of the prize competition and campaign that will revive respect for law and fix again in the hearts of our countrymen respect for our constitution. Let all our citizens respond to the call of this endeavor in order that some method may be evolved through which we can save America to the honor of its people and the respect of the world."

7 Rules for $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practicable temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize, shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

She failed to arrive at her destination and it was found that the automobile in which she was supposed to have made the trip had never been moved from in front of her home. Sheriff Pursues Desert Rat Into Abandoned Mine For Killing Brett

CHAPTER XXVI.

THE Desert Rat read the warning in the eyes of Pete, the cowboy, who was still kneeling beside the body of Alexander Brett.

"Well, I guess I'd better be moving," he sighed, slowly wiping the blood from his face. He smiled at the boy wistfully.

"Don't go 'way! Stephen, don't go!" The child held him, and tears, which had not come when Pete solemnly said, "He's dead," now welled in his eyes.

"Maybe some day I'll come back. I won't forget you, Alex. Be a good boy."

The group of cowboys waited silently as the old man and the child clung together. No one moved; the story of Brett's persecution of his wife was public property by now, and not one of these men could find it in his heart to blame the Rat, to hold him for the law.

There was no sound except the little boy's sobbing as Pierce turned, a battered figure, thin white hair blowing about his bruised head, and started into the desert. Silently the cowboys watched him go, and the eyes of several were suddenly filmed, suspiciously moist.

Alex wailed, and Pete picked him up in his arms.

"Don't you ever forget that man, sonny," he told him huskily.

By the time Dick and J. B. came galloping up and looked down at the dead man, the figure of the Rat was a mere speck in the distance—a speck that might have been a clump of sagebrush, a little higher than the rest.

"Here's the kid." Pete handed the boy up to Dick, who somberly turned and rode back to Felicia.

"I suppose I ought to feel sorry for Alex," she said simply, dull, when he told her. "But somehow I can't. After all, it was his own selfishness, his own cruelty, that brought his death. All the sorrow and pity I have is for Stephen. Do you suppose he'll be all right?"

Dick patted her hand. "He's back in the desert he loves, Honey—back in the lonely wastes where years ago he found the solace man could not give him when his heart was breaking. He'll be all right."

"I wish I could be sure."

At sunset, a cowboy rode up to the ranch house with a note for Felicia, a note penciled on the back of a ruled sheet bearing the proud marks of Alex's little hand—C-A-T, D-O-G, H-O-R-S-E.

"I only tried to help the boy," Felicia read. "I've brought you misery. I'm sorry. I saw no other way—it was his life or mine. You've been good to me. Can you be kind a little longer—kind enough to forgive, and forget? Stephen Pierce."

The scrawled words blurred as Felicia's eyes filled with tears, and Dick drew her close.

"He thinks he's hurt us," she sobbed, clinging to him, her heart filled with pity for the lonely wanderer. "And he's gone back into that horrible silence to eat out his heart for what he's done. We've got to find him, to tell him—"

"There, dear," Dick comforted her. "We'll find him, we'll bring him back. Don't worry. It was self-defense; we can prove that—"

That night, when Dick came to tell her that the cowboys would start out across the desert in the morning to hunt Pierce, he asked:

"What will you do? There's no longer any reason—any legal reason—why you must stay here."

She moved beside him on the couch. "I shall have to go to New York, of course, but I'll come back as soon as I can. I don't want to leave you, ever, and you aren't free yet, even—" she hesitated—"even if I am."

"Let's take a house, Felicia," Adrienne Henley-Martin suggested. "If we could find just a small ranch—it would be wonderful for Alex."

Her daughter looked at her closely. "Is home where the heart is, mother?"

Mrs. Henley-Martin flushed and Felicia's eyes twinkeld.

"Whose heart do you think I'm talking about?" she teased, and leaned forward and kissed the sun-browned cheek of the woman who seemed to have forgotten there was such a thing as "society" in the world.

Sam Lanier agreed to find them a place and for the next few days Dick divided his time between superintending the sinking of the first shafts at the mine, aiding in the hunt for the Desert Rat and riding with Lanier in search of "just a small ranch."

But, though they rode with the cowboys over miles and miles of desert and mountain trails, they found no trace of Pierce. He seemed to have vanished as completely as though the wastes had swallowed him.

Then one day, as Dick and Felicia stood talking on the veranda, just after Felicia came back from the East, a lean, bronzed man alighted from a car that had just drawn up before the ranch house. He waved at them and passed around toward the corral. Idly, Dick waved back.

Then he started.

"That was Sheriff Stone," he said. "What's doing out here?"

Felicia shrugged. "Campaigning, maybe." But she caught a sudden flash in Dick's eyes, and her own widened into bright pools of fear.

"You don't think he's after Pierce?"

Dick nodded.

"I'll bet that's just why he's here. You know, this is the first murder in Nevada in years, dear—the law isn't apt to let it pass without even asking questions."

"Let's follow him—tell him—." Felicia was springing down the veranda steps, drawing Dick with her, and together they hurried after the sheriff.

They found him questioning Pete, while several cowboys stood around, a little nervously.

"Sure ye couldn't have missed him—gone right past him, on these hunts?" The sheriff was asking.

"Positive!" Pete told him. "Why, I an' these other boys know every inch of the desert and mountain aroun' here—an' Pierce ain't in 'em. We hunted for days—."

"There's one place ye didn't look!" said Stone suddenly.

"Where?" Pete asked incredulously.

"Virginia City's abandoned mines!"

Silence. Felicia's mind swung back to Brett's snarl at the Rat that night on the Tahoe road. "You think you're pretty clever, don't you—with your knowledge of paths through abandoned mines—"

Dick turned to the sheriff. "You think he's there?"

"But those mines are in ruins—crumbling, falling in. No man would risk his life in them."

"Wouldn't? Pierce risked it once—with a boy on his back!" A pause. "Anyway, there's safe spots yet in them mines. It's gettin' along into October—look at them snow caps on the mountains—an' the mines'd be warmer'n the desert.

"Besides," he concluded grimly, "I reckon Pierce'd rather take a chance in them mines than in front of a jury. We don't count murder a nice word here in Nevada."

"But Mr. Stone," Felicia's voice quavered slightly. "If it was self-defense—"

"Yeah. If." The sheriff's tone was ominous. "He'd have to prove that. This ain't Chicago."

Pete shifted his feet uneasily. Felicia stared at the sheriff, dumb pity for the Rat in her eyes. Dick opened his mouth to speak, shut it.

"I'm going to look over them mines, anyhow," said Stone abruptly. "Thank ye for your help," he told Pete, "an' good day." He strode quickly to his car, backed, swung around and vanished up the road.

Depression clung like a cloak about Felicia all that afternoon. Even the trip up the canyon had lost its lure. Dick's efforts to reassure her failed.

Back at the ranch house that night, Dick was called to the telephone. Stone was calling from Reno.

Anxiously Felicia followed him, listened to the small tinny voice that carried outside the receiver as she pressed her ear close beside Dick's head.

"Found him! In the mines! Got him in jail now. Goin' to buzz him in the mornin'. Thought you might want to come in. Courthouse. Ten o'clock G'night."

"Wait!" Dick fairly shouted into the transmitter. "Can't you let him out?—how about some sort of bond? I—"

"Let him out!" The tanging voice jeered. "Say, who do you think you are—Scarface Al?"

The Diamond Dress By LILLIACE M. MITCHELL Daily Short Story

NINA WESTON regarded the two evening dresses critically. Neither one was worth a second glance, but she had to wear something! If she took one to the cleaning shop around the corner, the place where the young man was so obliging, maybe she could manage to sing this one evening and make that extra $10.

Library wages were none too high anyhow and one had to be fairl[illegible]ecently dressed in order t[illegible] place. These evening engagements where she was nearly always paid $10 for three or four songs—well, Nina Weston always called them her "jam" money for the salary at the library barely paid necessary expenses for bread and butter—minus any "jam."

She finally decided on the pale grey georgette although the white slippers she had to wear wouldn't look quite as well as they would with the pale blue. But the blue was too far gone to use again.

"Going to sing some place again?" asked the obliging young man as he made his notation as to name and time of delivery.

"Why—yes," Nina answered hesitatingly. "How did you—?"

"Oh, I was at the Jolly Giraffes the other time you had your blue frock cleaned to wear. I—I almost felt that I had a hand in your singing, having pressed that frock myself. My presser was gone that day."

"I—I liked your singing—just fine," he said in low tones.

Nina nodded. She wished she had a snappy comeback the way the other library girls had. They were a well-bred lot, those other library attendants, but they were never at a loss for something clever to say as she found herself.

And when the long brown paper bag with the dress inside was delivered, Nina decided to be prudent and not open it until the very moment she should don the frock. The georgette was so light that any little spot loomed up like a mud stain and she must look fresh and dainty or there would be no more evening recitals with their comforting $10 fees.

When she was ready to slip into the frock on the evening she was to sing she tore the brown paper bag and pulled out the top of the hanger. There before her astonished eyes hung a crystal beaded dress that looked like a diamond dress in the electric light of her room.

"Why, whatever shall I do!" she said half aloud. "The blue one—why, there's an hour's mending on it even if it were already cleaned and pressed! How did that man ever make such a mistake! I—I just have a mind to try it on and see how I'd look in a really pretty frock!"

And try it on she did, too, standing before the wiggly little mirror, twisting this way and that joyously as she saw how pretty she looked. A tap at the door startled her.

"The secretary of the club where you're to sing has called in her car and she asks you to run right down, for she has to be there exactly on time for the business meeting before the entertainment, Miss Weston—here, let me help you! Wasn't it nice of her to think of your dress getting spoiled in the rain? Your new dress is real pretty—"

Nina found herself enfolded in the wrap and hustled downstairs without having made up her mind as to what should be done. She looked about her timorously when she entered the room; suppose the owner of the dress happened to be there and arose wrathfully to claim her gown! But no one arose, either in pleasure or wrath, and Nina found herself singing with a gay lilt in her voice that she had never before noticed.

She had given her last encore when she saw Him! The young man from the cleaning shop. She shrank back against the wall, trying to make herself smaller. Perhaps he had only just come in and had not seen her. If she left right away—but the treasurer was approaching with a catlike smile.

"We enjoyed your singing so much," she murmured softly, pressing into Nina's hand an unsealed envelope.

"As a club member—what do you pay for singing?" asked the young man, approaching casually.

The treasurer stiffened. "Er—$10, Mr. Thomson."

He laughed: "Ten dollars!" he repeated incredulously, "why, it will cost Miss Weston almost that much to have her frock cleaned and pressed to wear again! Are we so poor that we have to ask charity and beg alms of those who sing for us? Isn't twenty the sum other organizations are paying?"

The treasurer nodded dumbly. "But she—she never asked for more—but I'll speak to the board about it, Mr. Thomson, if you—"

The treasurer gone, Nina faced him squarely. "Well?" she said coldly. "I—I suppose you're going to have me—arrested or—or something for wearing this! But I—I didn't really mean to—I—

He stared an instant and then laughed lightly. "Oh—that!" he said carelessly. "I hope it satisfied you. I was terribly sorry but there was no chance to explain to you. The presser burned a hole in your frock and when the specialty shop sent this dress in—It had only been window-displayed and it was your size—I—I—thought it would do as well. You—you aren't—angry?"

"It's quite the loveliest gown I ever wore," she said simply.

"And stick for twenty," he whispered as the treasurer came up to them again.

But there was no necessity of "sticking." There were two crisp tens in the envelops and the treasurer looked almost respectfully at the diamond gown.

The four men in the quartet were singing now, and it was hard to hear what he was saying to her, that young man from the cleaner's shop, but it turned out later that he was telling her that he owned the shop. And when he asked to take her home in his little roadster with the side curtains later in the evening she knew, somehow, that he was going to talk to her about diamonds some time later on—solitaire diamonds.

And that happened to be the very thing he was thinking about, too!

INSTEAD of exercise

Too busy for exercises or games? Don't worry! Learn the simple secret, millions know—of the exerciser in the vest-pocket box for a dime!

Cascarets give your bowels as much exercise as they get from an hour of boxing. Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives don't act like Cascarets. These things only produce mechanical or chemical action. You have to keep taking them because they weaken your bowels.

Cascarets strengthen the bowels. They are made from Cascara Sagrada, which stimulates the peristaltic action and exercises the bowel muscles. Nothing else does this. That's why Cascarets give lasting relief from those symptoms of sluggish bowels, such as headaches, biliousness, bloating, sallow skin, indigestion, no appetite, etc. Sales of over 20 million boxes yearly prove their merit!

2 bushels of agonizing corns removed last week

There's a new, marvelously easy way to end a corn or callous—you can do it in only 3 minutes.

Just get a 50 cent bottle of Shur-Off of May Drug Co., or of any other good druggist; wet your corn with it. Immediately all pain and soreness stop. Then after two minutes you can remove the corn or callous—root and all.

Doesn't hurt a bit; positively won't make your foot sore. Instead Shur-Off takes out the soreness and pain and you can walk, work and play in comfort.

From the feet of the American people alone, Shur-Off takes out two bushels of corns a week—it must be good

Wouldn't you like to know the secret?

It's really very simple. You just pour a little of this new-type cleansing fluid in your washtub . . . then let the dirt soak out.

Don't rub or scrub. There's no need to use your washboard now. This wonder cleanser actually soaks out the dirt that you used to scrub by hand.

It's an ammoniated cleanser in fluid form called "Old Witch" . . . three times as efficient as ordinary household ammonia. Different in formula action and result from any cleanser you've ever used before.

You simply add a few tablespoonfuls in your washtub . . . use soap as you always do . . . and let this cleanser do the work.

Out come the clothes spick and span . . . sparkling as they never did before. And best of all, "Old Witch" is absolutely guaranteed not to harm the satin-smoothness of your hands.

But please remember Madam, all cleansers are not alike. You'll discover that, the minute you try Old Witch. No other cleanser can make clothes so white or work so easy.

So be sure to ask your grocer specifically for Old Witch. Tell him you want that new-type cleanser that so many women are using. It costs only 35c for a large-size bottle.

SITES SURVEYED FOR TWO FEDERAL NARCOTIC FARMS

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Rapid progress is being made by the Federal government toward construction of the two narcotic rehabilitation farms authorized by Congress.

Dr. Walter L. Treadway, chief of the narcotics division of the United States Public Health Service, has been designated to handle the work. Already he has made a thorough survey f the needs for the institutions and the methods of curing addicts.

Shortly he will leave on a nation-wide inspection tour of proposed sites for the farms.

Preliminary survey has indicated that one farm will be located in the southeast and the other in the Rocky Mountain section.

2,000 PATIENTS

Under the authorization of Congress, all federal prisoners who are addicts will be transferred to the farms for treatment. It also is provided that federal judges may put addicts on probation and send them to the farms to be cured.

There are approximately 1,700 addicts in the three federal prisons today. This will mean that the farms must have a minimum capacity for at least 2,000 patients, 1,000 to each farm.

Public health officials believe the farms should contain not less than 1,500 acres each. An attempt will be made to put the farms on as near a self-sustaining basis as possible by providing industrial activities for the patients.

EXPENSE $10,400,000

The cost to the government during the next four years to build the farms, provide equipment and administrative facilities is estimated at $10,400,000.

To put the farms into full operation, it is figured the cost will be from $3,500 to $5,000 a bed. An additional $200,000 will be required for each farm for industrial and agricultural activities.

Treadway hopes to have the preliminary plans in such shape that he can go before Congress at the regular session in December and ask for funds to begin immediate construction.

SOUTH FAVORED

"In selecting the sites for the rehabilitation colonies, we must bear in mind accessibility and the prevalence of drug addiction," Treadway declared. "Our study has shown that while there are a greater number of addicts in the East, due to the larger population, the prevalence of addiction for each 100,000 of population is greater west of the Mississippi River.

"Therefore, it seems to us that one farm should be located East of the Mississippi and one West. Both farms should be sufficiently far South that the patients can work in the open during the entire year.

"It would appear that the section lying South of Cincinnati, including the states of Kentucky, West Virginia and Tennessee would form an ideal location for the eastern farm. The best location in the West would seem to be either in Colorado or the mountain states immediately adjacent."

STORE HELD UP, MAN INJURED BY BANDITS

John Purco, 30, part owner of a fruit store, at 3600 Butler street, was reported recovering today in the West Penn Hospital of a head injury suffered when he resisted three armed bandits after they had robbed his partner, Ben Gentile, 30, of $30 in a holdup of the store last night.

The three were routed when Purco gave battle as they attempted to search him. The thugs escaped in an automobile under a hail of bullets fired from a revolver by Gentile.

George Craig, 45, of 232 Thirty-eighth street, who was searched, but had no money, told police that he was with Purco and Gentile in the back room when the robbers entered with drawn guns and ordered them all to face the wall.

“PAINS ARE NOW UNKNOWN TO ME;” LAUDS KONJOLA

Suffered Dreadfully From Neuritis and Liver Trouble; Pittsburgh Man Given New and Lasting Health.

Daily the written or spoken indorsements of Konjola, the peerless medicine, increase by leaps and bounds. Daily men and women are telling how they gained their first and only benefits through its use. “Konjola was the medicine I should have had in the first place.” This expression of praise and many others is sweeping throughout the city of Pittsburgh. Wherever this medicine is known it creates a furore among the drug and medical trades as well as the public. Introduced but a little more than five years, it has already earned the name of “the master medicine” and the medicine with more than a million friends. There is a reason for such unusual success and that reason is that Konjola contains real merit—that it does all that is claimed for it. Let the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, this city, tell you how Konjola works, what it has done, is doing and will do for all who suffer. He will point out case after case like that of Mr. Joseph Klein, 1435 Lake Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, who recently made this astounding statement about the work of Konjola in his case:

MR. JOSEPH KLEIN

“Pains, the bane of my life, are now unknown to me—thanks to this master medicine of all medicines, Konjola. What a boon to humanity it has proven to be—what a glorious thing it would be for all sufferers to know of its accomplishments. For some months I suffered from neuritis and liver trouble. Severe and prolonged pains affected my arms. Why, at times I almost was beside myself with the pain. It often was hard to use my arms, and frequently my shoulders hurt dreadfully. From the liver trouble came spots before my eyes and nauseating dizzy spells. My appetite failed me and sound sleep was unknown. Nothing seemed to benefit me and I was ready to give up hope when Konjola was recommended.

“Somehow I had a feeling that this medicine was what I needed. I don't know what caused me to think that, unless it was the sincere indorsements in the papers, or the verbal praise this medicine received. Anyway, it was worth a trial and that is what I gave it. Daily I grew better, daily the aches and pains became less severe and then they disappeared completely. My arms became supple and limber; to use them caused no pain. My liver was regulated so that the dizzy spells and spots vanished, almost over night, I would say. Sound, refreshing sleep was restored to me and my appetite increased remarkably. My case was chronic when I started on Konjola, but the amazing victory this medicine won has convinced me that it is what every one in poor health needs, and I heartily recommend it.”

Thus it is that Konjola works; speedily and surely its wonders to perform. Health, that is what everyone in ill health wants, and in Konjola you will find new, glorious, and lasting health. Konjola asks but the chance to make you well.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

BLOOMFIELD CAR SERVICE CHANGE REFUSED

RAIL OFFICIALS REPLY TO COUNCIL

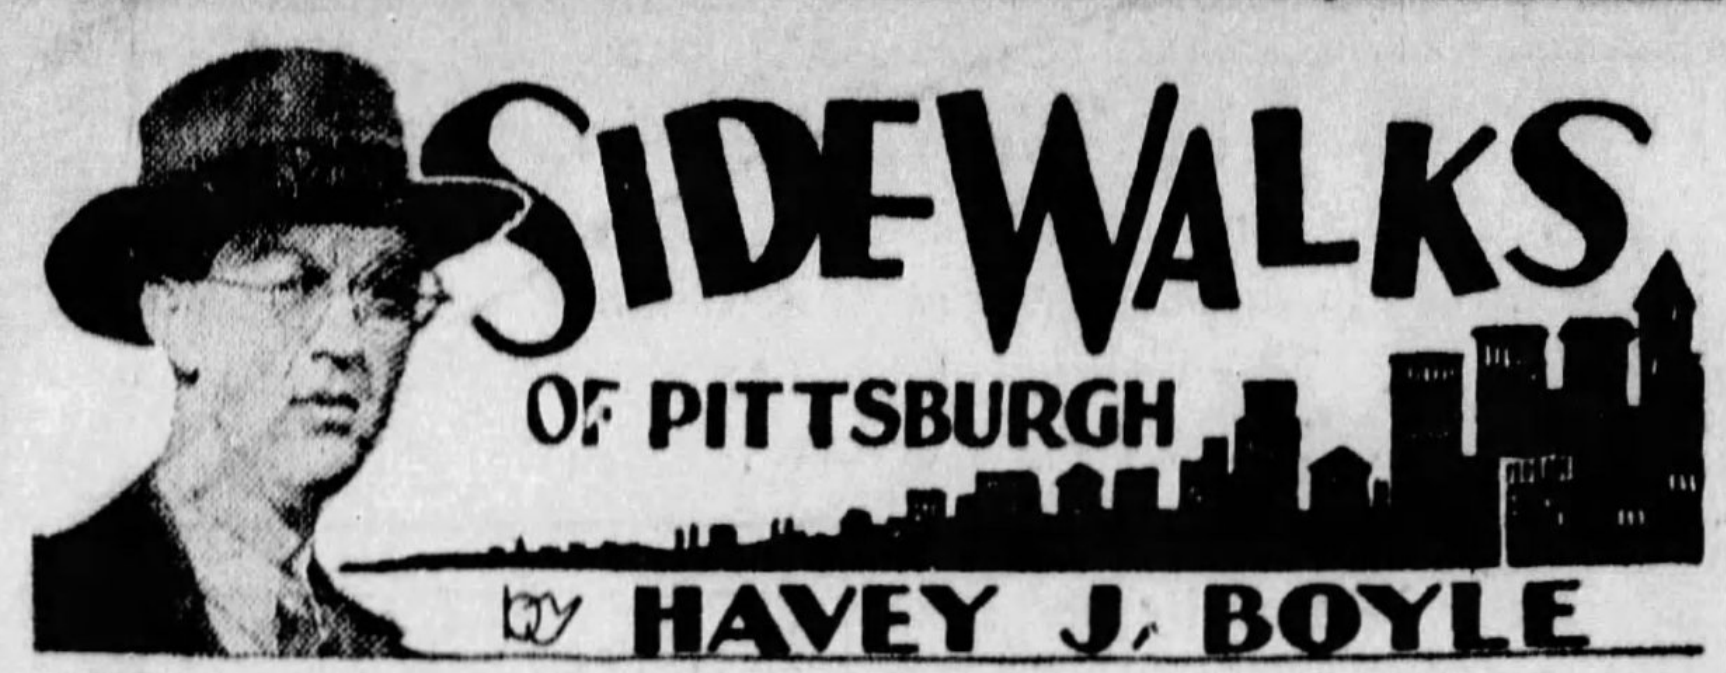
The Pittsburgh Railways Company will refuse to change the present car service to the Bloomfield district, according to a communication submitted to council by railways' officials. The company's communication followed a demand for better trolley service made by the Bloomfield Civic Club at a hearing before council.

The civic club's protest referred in particular to street car route 77, changed some months ago so that one terminus of the line is on the South Side and the other in Bloomfield. This change displaced a direct downtown service and made it necessary for patrons using the line to transfer to other cars in order to reach the downtown district.

City council referred the civic club's protest to the Traction Conference Board, which took the matter up with the railways company. However, the railways officials yesterday notified council of its refusal to change the service.

Persisting in its campaign to procure better trolley service, the Civic Club has continued the committee which carried its petition to City Council and has arranged for an open meeting to be held in its headquarters, the Friendship Park Methodist Church, on April 19.

At that meeting a proposal to operate a bus line from the Bloomfield Bridge to the downtown district will be considered. Arrangements are being made for a number of prominent speakers and a large turnout of residents of the district is urged.



SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

THE night shift that takes to the city streets after midnight is a varied one. The feverish downtown of the daytime is transformed into a scene of quiet. During the early hours of the morning you will see workmen repairing a car track; others digging down to the gas main; street cleaners with a powerful hose at work; and kindred activities that must wait until the slow hours to be accomplished.

While the downtown takes on a quiet after the theater rush, the pedestrian need never be lonely for company. The policeman on the morning rounds is less formal than in the daytime. He is allowed the freedom of his pipe or cigaret and this puts him in more friendly mood than that of his brethren on the day shift.

A few of the all-night restaurants play hosts to late comers who sit long over their coffee and talk glibly. And the all-night drug stores always have a small coterie of the people who hate to go home and go to bed.

* * *

Such avenues as Fourth and Oliver are gloomy and forbidding after the late hours. Dissipating the lonesomeness of such dark canyons are the private watchmen who shuffle from one door to the other testing the locks.

* * *

THE shadows of Chinatown, lightened occasionally as a noiseless door opens to allow a silent figure to exit, heighten the romance of that small section. The windows and doors display signs advertising this and that innocent merchandise company, but the romantic imagine—and hope, perhaps, that on a couch within the house will be a figure puffing away and dreaming of mountains of gold and fields of poppy.

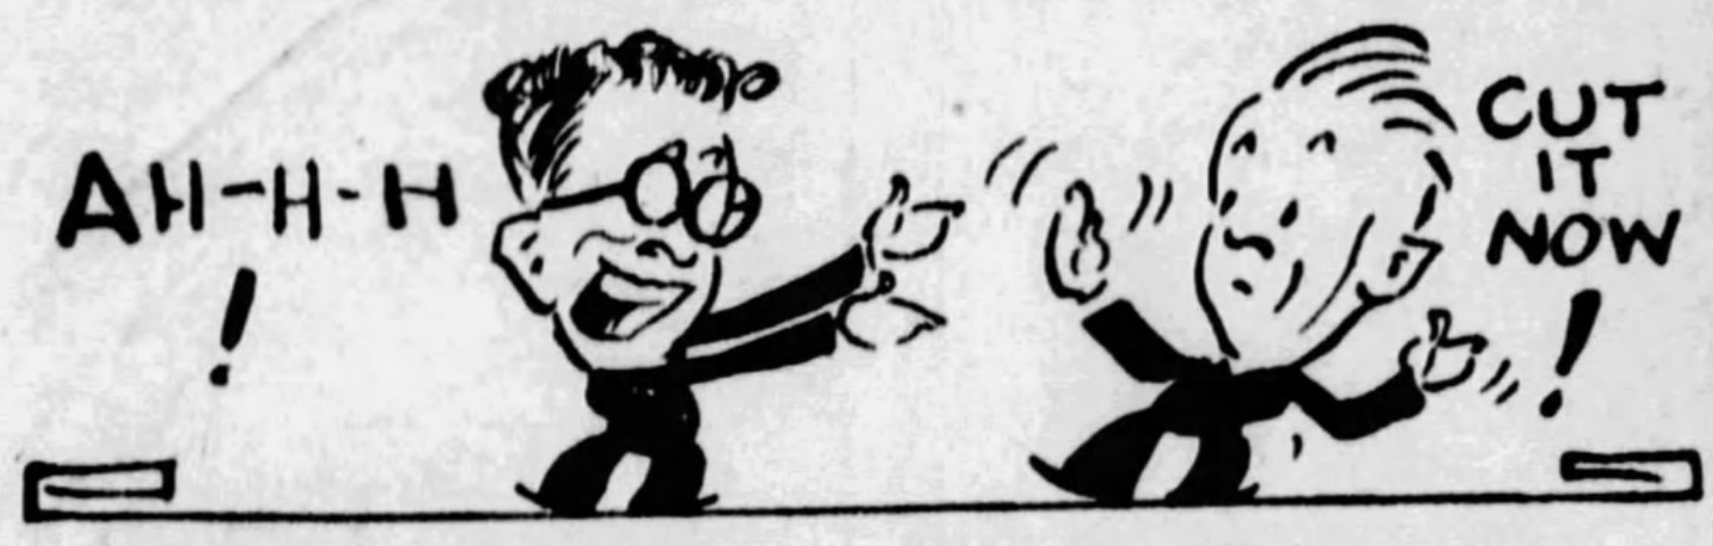
Charlie Ferlin, a reporter, is organizing a tour to France. He is going to take a party of Pittsburghers to France and show the members the haunts of Bohemian life in that city.



AH-H-H !
CUT IT NOW !

He spent two years there as a news-writer, which experience allowed him to get a line on some of the places that are not in the conventional guide books.

He is such a Parisian now that a lot of the other reporters are complaining about the way he insists on kissing them every morning and evening. I hasten to add Charlie doesn't go into the society room at all.

* * *

IN SPITE of all the cartoonists and jokesters, after a dutiful search I must report that the colored section of town fails to reveal (a) a colored man craving watermelon; (b) a colored man rolling his eyes at the mention of a fried pork chop. But there must be something in the white belief that colored people do like long words, with a recklessness as to their fitness. In the Vanguard, a local colored paper, for instance, there is this warning to readers:

"This thing of splitting verbs and bursting adverbs, using the participles for nouns and stopping the sentence on the top of a preposition must be stopped at once because Dr. Rufus was on a street car and heard some of his members disgrace the English language. This thing of trying to use big words in a conversation when U can't even pronounce the word is awful. Take your time and talk plain English and quit knocking one word out with the other one and leaving half a word in your throat or nose or mouth while you are trying to fish the other one up. Take your time and talk plain English."

Bigelow Sewer Being Considered

Construction of a sewer on Bigelow boulevard, from Humbolt street to an existing sewer on the boulevard at an estimated cost of $26,000 is authorized in an ordinance to be considered today at a meeting of the public works committee of Council.

HEALTH, BEAUTY CITED AS TYPICAL GIRL ATTRIBUTES

The Typical American Girl is primarily healthful and beautiful—emphatically beautiful. Anne Morrow must be typical of American girlhood, because she chose Colonel Lindbergh for a husband and he is certainly the Typical American Man of today.

"This girl of yours must have culture. Every girl has a chance nowadays, and, if she applies herself, she can get an education for only 3 cents a day, by reading the daily papers.

"Through the newspapers she can get whatever of culture she wants. And she wants all she can get. Yes, the Typical American Girl is cultured and beautiful.

IS ATHLETIC

"And athletic! She can dance and swim and ride. She plays tennis and golf. That is why she is beautiful, of all things—she takes care of herself, physically, and does nothing that will destroy charm and femininity."

This was the picture of the Typical Girl drawn for the Quest Editor by Miss Edna Wallace Hopper, the "perennial flapper." Miss Hopper was 62 several years ago. "I stopped there," she says, "and if I live to be 100 I'll never be older than 62!"

Miss Hopper continued by saying that the Typical American Girl is tolerant and broad-minded, retaining a very large degree of independence. "She works if necessary, but should not work at anything in which she is not intensely interested. She is morally up-to-date," Miss Hopper continued, "and exults in all forms of pleasure. She follows the styles, is the last word of youth and beauty.

OVERCOMES ENVIRONMENT

"I think," she said, "that, if there's anything wrong with the girls of today, it should be blamed on their mothers. Environment is the cause of her defects. But today the Typical American Girl is able to rise above her environment if she sees she must, and that's why we have such a fine modern generation of girls."

Tolerance is the principal attribute stressed for the Typical American Girl in the letters that come to the Quest Editor. Beauty, sensibility, culture are also frequently mentioned. The jury award will soon decide who is the Typical American Girl, and many indications point to Pittsburgh as her home.

Send in your nomination now, making some friend of yours eligible for the trip to New York, the $5,000 prize, and the title of the "Typical American Girl."

EDNA WALLACE HOPPER

Miss Hopper, 62, says that the Typical American Girl's activity keeps her fit and beautiful. Education, tolerance and independence are important attributes, says Miss Hopper, playing at the Davis this week.

Rules of the Quest

1. This is a selective search, not a motion picture popularity or beauty contest. It is an honest and sincere effort to find the Typical American Girl.

2. A National committee of judges appointed by Smart Set, will make the final decision and award the $5,000 prize in New York at a date set by the publisher of Smart Set Magazine. This committee is composed of Rosamond Pinchot Gaston, Vina Delmar, Jesse L. Lasky, John Golden, Guy Hoff and Margaret Sangster, editor of Smart Set and a representative of the Hearst newspapers.

3. A local committee of judges appointed by each co-operating newspaper will select the regional winner.

4. A candidate cannot propose herself. She must be proposed by some individual or some club or organization. This proposal must be sent to the Quest Editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

5. Each candidate's proposal must be accompanied by her photograph, biographical sketch, listing age, weight, height, coloring, education and her social, business and athletic activities. Her qualifications will be considered by the Quest Editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, who will notify her if she has been selected.

6 The minimum age is 17.

SERGT. EAGAN AND HIS 42-YEARS' COLLECTION OF DEADLY WEAPONS

In 42 years on the Pittsburgh police force, Sergt. James Eagan, Mt. Washington Station, has collected these criminal weapons and tools of vice, which he calls "The Fates That Kill." In those long years, he has been bodyguard to four presidents.

PATRICIA EAGAN AND GRANDDAD'S GUNS

Patricia, 18 months, likes to play with her granddaddy's guns, each of which was confiscated after a murder! The collection includes those of American, French, Spanish, Italian, and Croatian manufacture.

MOSES' LEGAL FEES PUT AT $145,000

Ben L. Moses, druggist, paid $145,000 in fees to Washington and New York attorneys in criminal litigations involving himself and the Union Drug Company, in which he was a partner, according to testimony before Watson B. Adair, referee in bankruptcy. On several occasions Moses ran amuck of the law for violating the prohibition act, and recently he was sentenced to 60 days in jail, but spent most of the term in a hospital as a government patient.

The statement concerning the attorney fees was made by James N. Sullivan, of Boston, Mass., a special agent of the intelligence unit, Bureau of Internal Revenue, in a hearing before the referee of a government claim of $18,957.94 in the bankruptcy case of Moses, trading as the Young Drug Company, for alleged income taxes for 1920 to 1926, inclusive.

The government avers that Moses in 1920 to 1922, inclusive, filed income tax returns that did not show his correct share of profits in the Union Drug Company. The government contends that profits from the business went partly to counsel fees. Operations of the concern resulted in Moses and others being charged with conspiring to violate the national prohibition law, for which Moses was fined $10,000 in the Federal Court at Washington. A more recent violation of the prohibition laws by Moses resulted in an injunction being granted against his drug store (the Young Drug Company) and Moses being sentenced 60 days in jail by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker.

In the litigation to recover the alleged income tax, the government is represented by Attorney John A. McCann, Pittsburgh representative of general counsel, Bureau of Internal Revenue. The hearing will be resumed March 25. Records of the Union Drug Company could not be located by government agents and are believed to have been destroyed, it was said.

2 FACE ACTION IN ARSON PLOT

Meyer Letwin and Harry Frank, convicted members of an arson ring, who have been at liberty for three months on the strength of an appeal which the supreme court refused to consider will be brought into court this week, District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner announced today.

The reason for the delay in the case of Letwin and Frank was that the district attorney had never been notified of the Supreme Court's refusal of the appeal, District Attorney Gardner said.

"The men will serve their time and the longer they put off starting their term, the longer they will have to serve," Gardner said.

Letwin and Frank were trapped along with two others in Mrs. Carrie Devert's East Ohio street millinery shop after they had plotted to collect her insurance. She gave the plot away to police and Fire Marshal Thomas Pfarr.

19th Ward Women To Study Metro Bill

The Metropolitan Plan Bill will be discussed by the Nineteenth Ward League of Women Voters at its meeting to be held in the Brookline Public School, Woodbourne avenue, Brookline, tonight. Mrs. Elizabeth Motz, organizer of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, will be the principal speaker. Mrs. C. L. Buckley will preside. Members and residents of that community are urged to attend and get acquainted with the widely discussed charter.

ONCE GUARDED PRESIDENTS, IS POLICE SERGT.

Orphaned at the age of 13, with his mother, he supported and paid for the education of his nine brothers and sisters—

Newsie, patrolman, detective, bodyguard to four Presidents, lieutenant and captain of detectives, and, by his own request, demoted to rank of sergeant of police because he couldn't conscientiously serve in a more active post—

Such has been the life of Sergeant of Police James Eagan, 67, of the Mt. Washington Police Station. With the force since 1877, honors for service all go to him. It is said he can look back on the most varied career of any member of the squad.

MONEY NEEDED

The Eagan brood needed all the money it could scrape together when Mr. Eagan senior died, so young Jim held a job as newsie and roller in a puddling mill until the family was able to help itself along. Then he struck out and donned the blue suit and brass buttons of the patrolman.

The Fourth avenue beat was soon given to him, who was soon one of the most trusted men on the force. But he quickly became a detective and as a detective achieved his greatest distinction. He was detailed to represent Pittsburgh as bodyguard at the inauguration of Cleveland and again at the inauguration and funeral of McKinley.

GUARDS PRESIDENTS

When Roosevelt became President and decided to go West, Detective Eagan acted as his body-guard for six weeks. On the trip, it was part of his duty every morning to douse the President with four buckets of water. Then the famous "Teddy" was fit for his daily work. "Roosevelt was the most likeable and friendly President I ever met," Sergt. Eagan explained.

In 1913, the sergeant broke his leg in three places while chasing a pickpocket. Finding himself lame, he was demoted, by his own request, from a captaincy to sergeant of the Mt. Washington Police Station where he still reigns.

During his years of service, Sergt. Eagan has collected an assortment of guns, knives, bullets, bombs, black-jacks, and all manner of weapons commonly used by felons. He calls his collection "The Fates That Kill" and takes pride in showing it to the curious.

RIVERMAN WED 50 YEARS

COURT MAY DECIDE IF MAN OR WIFE DIED FIRST IN FIRE

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, sitting for its spring term here, today had before it an appeal involving the question of whether a husband or his wife, who perished together, had died first.

The appeal was taken from Allegheny County Common Pleas Court by Christ Baldus, administrator of the estate of Karl Kegler and is opposed by Otto M. Jeremias, administrator of the estate of Kegler's wife.

The action was upon a $5,000 life insurance policy held by Kegler, in which his wife was beneficiary. If he died first, her estate inherits. If she died first, his estate benefits.

They were burned to death in their bedroom at 2018 Monongahela avenue, Swissvale, May 6, 1925, following an explosion in a fruit store next door, which set fire to the Baldus Building in which they lived.

Only two of eight persons in the building escaped with their lives—Helen Baldus and Milred Gierscher, who were thrown into the street by the explosion. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Baldus and their seven-year-old son and Mrs. Helen Jeremias were burned to death. The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Kegler were last to be taken from the ruins.

One witness testified that he had heard the voice of a woman coming from the Kegler room crying: "Oh, my, oh my" while the fire was raging. This was virtually the only testimony showing that Mrs. Kegler had survived her husband. The insurance company, admitting liability, has placed $5,175 at the disposition of the court.

4 HELD ON GIRLS' CHARGES

Four Side Side men were held for court by Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court today after three girls, two aged 15 and a third aged 13 testified that they had made frequent visits to the photographic studio of John Petraitis, 50, at 1213 Carson street, where they posed for immoral pictures in the presence of the four men.

The men held are Petraitis, Henry Schmidt, 25, of 1705 Carson street; Carl Hubert, 25, of 706 Sarah street, and Joseph Lidzinski, 27, of 1817 Sarah street. They denied the allegations. Because of their extreme youth the Sun-Telegraph will not publish the name of the girls involved.

McKeesport Police Head Emulates N. Y. Namesake

His name is Whalen—John Whalen.

He recently was appointed chief of police in McKeesport.

Last week he issued orders that patrolmen must "obey rules or get out."

Saturday Patrolman Thomas MacDonald released a prisoner on a small forfeit and failed to appear to prosecute the case. Whalen suspended Patrolman MacDonald.

Sunday Patrolman Gustino Liberatore was tardy in making calls from his patrol box. His explanation was that his father's illness was on his mind. Whalen suspended him.

Breaks Leg in Fall, Asks City to Pay

Mrs. Sadie F. Brown, Obey avenue, has filed suit for $25,000 damages in Common Pleas Court against the City of Pittsburgh, charging that she tripped over ice and snow on the sidewalk in Obey avenue near the Mansfield road December 22, 1927, and suffered a broken leg. She charges the city with negligence in not having the pavement cleaned.

Today's Flagism

On this date in 1690, the call went forth for the first Congress of the struggling American colonies. Less than 100 years later, the self-government urge had crystalized and the new republic was an accomplished fact, with the American Flag its standard. Settlers who had come to America to obtain liberty had secured it.

NEW YORK, March 19.

Tammany Hall is in a mess. It's been uneasy ever since Smith insisted that they clean up and get respectable for that election. They are in a hurry to get back to normal.

They are proud down in Alabama, and my friend, Gov. Bibb Graves, wouldn't ask for relief if he didn't need it, so help. I will admit they are Democrats, but after all they are human beings.

Mixed in with the war notes was the following: "Heflin was St. Patrick's Day speaker at Brockton, Mass."

No reasons for her disappearance could be given by the parent, police said.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Man Is Nature's Pet

THE only grounds you have to give for wanting a divorce over in Russia is that you are married.

* * *

All a woman need do in order to get a decree is to mention that she WANTS one—and the judge says, "Why, certainly. Just help yourself. They're right there on the counter."

* * *

You don't even have to buy a package of cigarets to entitle you to the blue certificate.

* * *

HELEN ROWLAND

* * *

Because, alas! according to that same cute little law, a man need only run in on his way down to the office and order a nice, fresh decree of absolute divorce and, behold! he's free before lunch!

* * *

* * *

It's all very well when you want to trade in your last year's battered and faded old husband for this year's model—but not so good when you find YOURSELF being swapped off every few years for a flapper.

* * *

Even over in darkest Russia, the women are beginning to discern the bitter truth, that you can't leave love and marriage to old Dame Nature, or men will always get the icing off the cake, while women will get only the little scraps.

* * *

MAN IS NATURE'S PET! She has given him a carefree soul, a love of adventure, and a lightning change heart, which make a change of mates as acceptable and easy to him as a change of neckties.

* * *

She has endowed him with a trick memory, which never reminds him of anything or any women he wants to forget, and a trained conscience, which lies down and goes to sleep the minute after he has kissed his wife goodby mornings.

* * *

She has left him free from all inhibitions and emotional complexes and filled him with a spirit of the chase, which makes every day just "another day" to him, and every woman just a brand new experiment.

* * *

And she has imbued him with a sweet self-complacency, which sustains his confidence in his fatal charm for women and in his power to conquer ANY woman, all the way from the cradle to the grave.

* * *

On the other hand, she has given woman a ONE-MAN heart and a passion for HOLDING ON to any man she's got. She has shackled her with a sentimental soul and hobbled her with an inferiority complex.

* * *

She has made love the whole feast in a woman' slife—but only a side dish in a man's life.

* * *

And when the law makes the marriage joke a light and airy affair, which can be thrown off like a chiffon opera cloak, it is WOMAN who finds herself shivering, out in the cold.

* * *

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Memories Recalled to Madge by Lillian's Reference to Savarin

"ROBERT—"

The name so hesitanaly dropped from Lillian's lips was like a flashlight illuminating a dark corner. Robert—Robert Savarin, ideal of her youth, ardent suitor of her middle age, the great artist whom I knew she had loved—here was the secret reason for her fear that Marion would never get over her aversion to her stepfather.

For Marion, to whom Harry Underwood had been but a vaguely understood name in those years when Lillian's recreant husband had been a fugitive from military justice, had adored Robert Savarin—her "Uncle Robert" she used to call him. She had begged her mother more than once to "give her a really truly father" by marrying the man whose deep love for the child was second only to the worship he gave Lillian.

Marion had been too small then to understand that her mother must obtain a divorce from Harry Underwood before she could reward the famous artist's devotion. But I had believed in those troubled years that it was the fear of a divorce scandal shadowing her child's life—she would have cared nothing for herself—which had kept her from putting Harry Underwood out of her life and welcoming Robert Savarin into it.

I wondered now, however, as I had wondered many times since the spectacular return of Harry Underwood, whether I had not been mistaken in that past premise? It was entirely possible, I told myself, that Lillian's feeling for Robert Savarin had been a mixture of the reminiscent romantic halo which surrounds a girl's first love—especially for a man older than herself and in a more exalted position of life—and the maternal compassion excited by his years of exile and mental darkness! Had Harry Underwood's long absence given her a subconscious realization that after all he was more nearly her mate than the artist whom she had so long idealized?

With a mental salute to my husband, I remembered a comment of his to the effect that "Harry was the lad for Lil, not that archaic old Turk, Savarin," and I began to suspect that Dicky under his nonchalant exterior had been planning for years to bring these two valued friends together again.

But I had no time for speculation upon Lillian's emotions. I knew that her tremulous comment concerning the impossibility of Marion's ever loving her stepfather, as she did Robert Savarin, was in reality an anxious question, and I made my answer emphatic.

"That's about as foolish a speech as I ever heard you make," I told her. "Marion's love for Robert Savarin was that of a tiny girl for an indulgent man who humors her every whim. How long do you think Marion's affection would have stood the discovery that Robert Savarin wanted first place in your heart? You know as well as I do that he would have been jealous of your love for the child, while Harry—"

I stopped purposely, and she loked up with a lighted lamp behind her eyes.

"I know," she said softly, "Harry told me that he would always play second fiddle to Marion."

"But to no one else"—I put it quickly, lest my courage fail, for I knew that I was skating on exceedingly thin ice. Lillian very rarely speaks of the things nearest her heart or permits anyone a glimpse of them.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

"Boy Friend's" Duty

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it proper to eat a club sandwich with the fingers when cut in four parts?

2. Is it proper to ask the "boy friend" to help you on and off with your coat when the waiter makes no attempt to do it?

3. Should pickles be cut or eaten with the fingers when served with a sandwich?

4. Is it proper to telephone and thank one's friends for greeting cards received? READER.

IT is far better to eat the club sandwich with a knife and fork. A club sandwich is usually a fairly moist affair and demands the most helpful of utensils. And increasingly so, now that more stories are being added to its already tall height.

2. Of course the "boy friend" is the one to help you on and off with your coat. He never should leave this social privilege to the waiter. If he doesn't see his responsibility you might make a very important struggle to get into your coat—and he will, I am sure, see that the "Help!" signal is hoisted.

3. They should be cut.

4. No, it is better to write a note or card of appreciation.

Appropriate Gifts

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been "keeping company" with a young lady for about six months. Of course, it is not "steady company."

A few days ago I received an invitation to attend a surprise party given in her honor. Do you think it is proper for me to take a gift? If so, just what kind of a gift should I take? A.

SOMETHING thoughtful, but not of great consequence from a monetary point of view—a book or several books, a box of candy, a lovely corsage, a box of letter paper, an accessory for her desk, a decorative pencil, some phonograph or player piano records.

Salad Sandwiches

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please inform me the correct way to eat combination and salad sandwiches—with a knife and fork, or with the fingers? F. L.

WITH a knife and fork. This is the correct way, because it is more convenient and means that the sandwich can be eaten with great [illegible].

ONLY a few short weeks now and then—their own home! Magic word, indeed, around which all the dreams of high and holy happiness are built. When Love builds a home it is the finest mansion in all the world, for it is watched over by Dan Cupid, who guides and instructs the occupants so that naught may mar the beauty of the hearth. True, it may be but a bit of a bungalow with a tiny garden filled with rambling flowers which reflect the joy of the love that tends them. Again, it may be the highest and mightiest palace in the world—and even though Love dwell there, it is no better than the bungalow. But whichever way it may be, all the hopes and dreams which two have put into it make it a veritable bit of Paradise.

So when you see two heads poring over a catalogue of real estate, then you can know that two hearts are planning a world of dreams and looking forward to the day when they'll enter their very own home. What a lot of fun it will be fixing it up! What a picture he paints of the Dearest in all the world waiting for him at the garden gate!

Oh, it's a wonderful thing, this Home for two. Especially when Love takes his abode there. For it is a home that is always filled with the joy of loving and being loved. And this is what brings heaven near to the earth.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Health and Wealth, Protect Them Both

COLDS, colds, colds. Everybody has, or just has had, or is about to have a cold.

To my desk come great numbers of letters. Many of these ask about colds and how to avoid them. It is a subject of importance to every family, to every individual.

DR. COPELAND

Government spends lots of money to control the corn borer and to exterminate animal and vegetable pests. I don't begrudge such appropriations. But when it comes to human diseases, particularly so common a disease as the cold, it is extremely hard to get money.

Will you explain to me why men will spend endless sums of money to protect property, but are so indifferent to disease?

I am told that the owner of "pre-war liquor" guards it as carefully as his wife guards her diamonds. He takes no chances on losing it. The business man who suddenly realizes he forgot to close his safe, will walk back two miles to lock it. He will take no chance on a robbery.

But the poor body! Everybody takes a chance on what may happen to it.

As I view it you have no moral right to hazard your health. It is wrong to take chances on your physical welfare.

No one lives to himself alone. There are dependent members of the family who will suffer, if the breadwinner or housekeeper becomes ill.

If you are a wage earner you are not honest with your employer if you lack physical ability to do your work thoroughly. You are cheating if you make a pretense, going through the forms of work without accomplishing a full day's work.

Wet feet, cold hands and shivering body, loss of sleep, abuse of the digestive organs, lack of fresh air, sunlight and exercise, exposure to infection—these are important factors in the production of colds. It is probable the list is not complete, but it embraces many things that are disregarded by too many persons who are willing to take a chance on taking cold.

The skin has several functions. One is to act as a heat regulator. It is a sort of thermostat, acting through the nerves and blood vessels to control the circulation of the body.

If the feet are wet and the hands cold, or if the whole body is shivering with cold, the blood vessels of the skin are contracted. The surface of the body is white and cold. The blood is driven into the interior of the body. The nasal tissues, the throat and the lungs are congested, taking up the extra blood which belongs in the skin and outer tissues. This leads to trouble.

When I was a boy they talked about "hardening the skin." There was sense in that idea. By accustoming the skin to reasonable temperatures, it does not suffer unpleasantly when exposed to the weather.

GAVE GLORIOUS HEALTH TO HER

Oakdale Lady Wants to Tell Others How Ten Herbs Ended Long Suffering.

"I have derived so much good from Ten Herbs that I want others to know how your medicine benefited me," was the statement of Mrs. Glenn Adams, 273 West State Street, Oakdale, Pa., to the Ten Herbs Man, at May's Main Store, recently. "For years I had suffered greatly with stomach trouble," Mrs. Adams continued. "I had to be very careful what I ate, as food would ferment and then my system would fill with gas, causing me considerable pain—sometimes the pain was terrible. Unless I used physics, my bowels would get in very bad condition. I had dizzy spells and lacked energy and ambition. At night I would have to arise four or five times. My nerves were in such a state that the least noise would frighten me. There were such rheumatic pains in the muscles of my arms that I could not raise my arms above my head.

MRS. GLENN ADAMS

"I heard so much about Ten Herbs that I thought surely it must have merit. I started taking your medicine and I want to say that it has made me feel like a new woman. My appetite is fine, and I can eat anything without having any bad after effects. I no longer have to use physics, for my bowels are regular. Rheumatism has left my arms. My nerves are a great deal better. I sleep soundly and seldom have to arise during the night. I have more ambition and energy. I certainly am glad to add my name to the list of persons who have publicly recommended Ten Herbs."

Thousands throughout this section vouch for the success of Ten Herbs in relieving disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Most users state that this medicine has a remarkable cleansing action on the whole system.

Ten Herbs is being introduced at May's Main Store, Fifth Avenue and Liberty Street, and sold at all May's Drug Stores.

OLD BEFORE HER TIME

Nervous Breakdown Changes Pretty Young Wife Into Pitiable Invalid

Mrs. J. Lupo, of McKeesport, Pa., who has now entirely recovered her health and happiness, tells her astonishing experience in the following letter:

"I was reared in the country," she says, "and until we moved to town I was always a picture of health. We had good, plain food, mostly grown right on our own place—not the canned and packaged substitutes some town people have to put up with. They call such things food, but it seems to me that all the life-giving power of real food is lost from some of them, in the factories and packing houses where they are canned or manufactured. Shortly after we moved to town I was married. I was happy for a little while. But a few years of living here, as the food and climate did not agree with me, weakened my nervous system. I had terrible headaches, followed by sleepless nights, when I would toss and toss in pain. I grew thinner and weaker each day. I would break out in sudden perspiration, without any reason at all. My hands trembled so bad I spilled my food when I tried to eat.

"Naturally my married life was a failure. I could not give my good husband the love he craved and deserved. Black doubts and fears took hold of my mind. I became suspicious of every one. I distrusted even my own husband and falsely imagined he was unfaithful. It was he who saved me when everything was at its worst. One night he brought home a bottle of World's Tonic—the new remedy compounded from roots and herbs grown in their natural state and gathered from different parts of the world. I was better after the first dose. The wonderful powers of natural plants are preserved in World's Tonic. I continued taking it and at the end of a few weeks I was well again like I had been in the country. Our married life is now happier than I ever dreamed it could be. I owe it all to World's Tonic."

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Glen Osborne Girl Will Be Maid of Honor at Eastern Wedding

THE spring bride is coming into her own, and news about her and her plans supersedes nearly everything else, just now. Girls who select dates during the next three months always, it seems to me, have lovelier settings for their weddings than at any other time of year. April, of course, is much too uncertain, and usually much too chilly and rainy, for an outdoor ceremony even to be considered, but May and June—there are the wedding months for you.

Most of the dates we're announcing at the present are for April weddings, and if all the rumors I hear are to be believed, there are going to be many more than I have told you about so far. A few May and June dates are being made public, but not so many here in Pittsburgh, I notice, as in other cities.

One of these out of town ceremonies, is set for June 14, and a Sewickley Valley girl, Catherine Crutchfield, daughter of the James Crutchfields, of Glen Osborne, will be maid of honor. This is the wedding of Frances Toby Kremer, daughter of the John Kremers, of Overbrook, Philadelphia, and Robert Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwards S. Dunn, and it will take place at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in St. Asaph's Church, Bala.

Mrs. John Kremer, Jr., sister-in-law of the bride, is going to be her matron of honor and the bridesmaids will be Mary Ross Flowers, of Montgomery, Ala., and Priscilla Stockwell, of Philadelphia. After the ceremony, there will be a reception at the house, I believe.

And while we're still over in Philadelphia, let me tell you about the dinner dance which Mr. and Mrs. John Barnes, of "Four Winds," Haverford, are planning for June in honor of their daughter and her husband, the junior Thomas Morrisons, who were married in October. Mrs. Morrison was Sarah Barnes, you remember, and of course you don't need to have me identify Mr. Morrison. This party is set for Saturday evening, June 8.

The Morrisons, by the way, are moving this week to their new home in Ardmore. They are planning to entertain at dinner there, I hear, before the Easter ball, to be held in the Bellevue-Stratford, Philadelphia.

FOLKS are beginning to leave town for Easter holidays. Mrs. Edward O'Neil, of "Wistaria," Sewickley, is planning to leave tomorrow night for New York, where she will remain with her daughter, Mrs. George K. Reed, of Forest Hills, Long Island, over Easter. Later, Mrs. O'Neil is going to visit her grandson, Edward O'Neil II, at Princeton, and on her way home will stop for a few days to see her sister-in-law, Mrs. William G. Naylor.

Back home again, though, are Mrs. Charles Frederick Holdship and her daughter, Margaret, of Sewickley. They have been spending several weeks in the South. And still out of the city is Mrs. Pitt O. Heasley, of Pembroke place. Mrs. Heasley is out in Del Monte, Cal., for an indefinite stay, and with her is Mrs. Horace Stoeb, of Pottstown.

Wilkinsburg Women Publish "Newspaper"

A UNIQUE program was given by the Woman's Club of Wilkinsburg yesterday when the members published their annual "newspaper." Mrs. Albert J. Dawson was editor-in-chief, under whose direction editorials, news, advertisements and various other features of a newspaper were presented. To open the program, the club choral, under Mrs. J. L. Hickernell, sang an Irish song of Mrs. Dawson's writing, the words of which were descriptive of a club meeting. The "Tomorrow" column, and the "lovelorn and club worn" were also the versatile Mrs. Dawson's work. Mrs. R. T. Kintzing, Mrs. E. H. Wells, Mrs. Howard K. Jones and Miss Helen Pershing introduced the personals, in which was much friendly and humorous gossip, and Mrs. S. H. McKee was news gatherer for the charter members, while Miss Elizabeth Davison "reported" the activities and scholarship plans of the educational department. In clever rhyme, Mrs. Joseph Hargrave told of the juniors' programs and Mrs. W. C. Graham acquitted herself creditably as the staff poet, while Mrs. L. H. Sprowls added "A Slice From the Drama Department," an original and witty bit, to the "columns." To Mrs. R. H. Dibble, as political editor, was assigned the task of "covering" the political situation in the borough, and in the fashion department, the editor, Mrs. E. E. Cole, brought "the last word" in ensembles and frocks suitable for the various members.

A REVIEW of last fall's political campaign and those factors which defeated the Democratic candidate was most interestingly given yesterday before the Twentieth Century Club by Dr. William Starr Meyers, of Princeton. Incidentally, Dr. Meyers remarked that the woman's vote had made itself felt for the first time. Smith's campaign was perfectly managed in New York City, in the state it was fairly well managed, but in the rest of the country wretchedly so, Dr. Meyers stated. "Smith did not understand the rest of the country nor did it understand him. New York City thinks it is the entire country and it knows that is most important, but is so provincial and ignorant that it doesn't know anything. Smith was defeated for the presidency in 1923 when the New York Legislature brought in the enactment for repeal of prohibition enforcement. N. wet has a ghost of a chance for any office in this country that voted dry, no matter how it drinks," he declared, reminding his audience that prohibition was no war measure but had its beginning when Maine went dry in 1851. The religious issue was illegitimate and unpardonably and deliberately introduced by Tammany, and the final thing that ruined Mr. Smith, Dr. Meyers said, was the radio. Smith was praised by the speaker as an able man, a remarkable man, and one of the best governors New York has ever had, and Herbert Hoover was said to be the best prepared man ever made President of the United States. Dr. Meyers concluded with a word concerning the problems of the present administration, which will be economic, he believes.

NEARLY 100 members and guests attended the spring musicale given yesterday in the Woman's City Club by the Pittsburgh Literary and Musical Club. Mrs. W. S. Trosh, president, greeted the guests and introduced the musical director, Mrs. Mary J. Cowley, who presented the program. The vocalists were Mrs. William L. Stone, Mrs. Brabazon Rutherfoord, Mrs. Elizabeth Stephens Cross, Mrs. Arthur B. Siviter and Mrs. Adele Eggers Furniss; the pianists, Miss Marie Hinkel, Mrs. Gertrude Robinson Dodds, Mrs. J. R. McGregor, Miss Ruth Simons; Miss Marie Kleyle gave violin solos and Mrs. T. C. Weinkaus, Mrs. Herman Zeil, Mrs. William H. Patterson, Mrs. J. Lawrence Hunter, Mrs. Dodds and Miss Simons were accompanists. Mrs. Will Earhart, president of the Tuesday Musical Club, led assembly singing and Mrs. Trosh and Mrs. Cowley presided at the tea table.

* * *

LANGDON DAVIES' talk on "Problem Parents and the Unadusted Mother," given yesterday before the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club, was largely a discussion of education. America is the only country in which there is talk of the 'problem child,' for whom "problem parents" and their immature emotions are largely responsible, the speaker said. American children grow old too fast, he remarked. He spoke also of the danger of too much standardization and specialization in education and play.

LONGER SCHOOL HOURS FOUGHT

A letter to the Board of Education protesting against longer hours for school children was in the mails today. It bore the signature of Mrs. David Stuhlfire, acting as secretary for 30 parents who assembled yesterday at the home of Mrs. D. L. Singleton, of 3360 Perrysville avenue, and formed plans for a city-wide mass meeting to oppose the curtailment of children's recess and lunch periods.

At the meeting it was asserted that pupils were being kept in school beyond the authorized hours and that their energies were being so overtaxed as to impair their health.

A bill cutting the school day to a maximum of five and one-half hours was offered in the Legislature last night by Representative Joseph Marcus, of Allegheny County.

Weather Conditions.

There is considerable cloudy weather over the country this morning, but they are largely of the upper cloud type, and are producing little precipitation. The rainfall for the last 24 hours was light and occurred only in scattered places in the upper Mississippi Valley, the central plains and in Texas. A heavy downpour occurred at Miami, Fla., where 3.48 inches was recorded.

The temperatures are rising slowly, except over the northern plains and northward over Manitoba and Saskatchewan, where there was a change to colder.

A low pressure area is centered north of the lakes, and extends southwestward to another center in the far Southwest, while high barometer overlies the Southeast, with a ridge extending northwestward to a high over the far Northwest.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling rapidly. Stage at Pittsburgh is 17.2 feet; Dam No. 2, 9.5; Dam No. 6, 17.7; Dam No. 9, 18.9, and Dam No. 12, 18.4. The dams are down.

SENATE FETES MRS. VARE, ONLY WOMAN EVER MEMBER

HARRISBURG, March 19.—(AP.)—Mrs. Flora M. Vare, of Philadelphia, the only woman ever to sit in the State Senate, last night was presented with a sheaf of red roses by her former colleagues.

After being tendered a dinner by Senator Frank J. Harris, of Allegheny, Mrs. Vare appeared in the Senate and was escorted to the rostrum. She received the oral tribute from Senator John G. Homsher, of Lancaster, dean of the upper branch of the Legislature.

The widow of Edwin H. Vare, former state senator, was the last of the Vare family to sit in the State Legislature. She was defeated for reelection last November by Lawrence F. McCrossin, Democrat.

Mrs. Vare thanked the members for their reception.

"I want to assure you that I miss you and I sincerely hope that you all miss me," she said.

Kellogg Peace Work May Win Memorial

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 19.—(AP.)—Construction of a memorial here to honor Frank B. Kellogg, St. Paul, secretary of state, for his work in connection with the treaty to outlaw war, was proposed last night at a meeting of representatives of local civic, welfare and social organizations.

One proposal called for a "V"-shaped mall to extend from the State Capitol Building here to the business and residential sections. Another was for a monument incorporating statues of Mr. Kellogg, Premier Briand, of France, and others. A north-south highway across the United States to be named the Kellogg-Briand Memorial Highway, also was suggested.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair, and how to darken it with a home-made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

1929 TITLEHOLDERS

Here is the Homestead High School basketball squad, which has just won the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League championship and will vie with Sharon High, the Northwestern Pennsylvania champion, in the Pitt pavilion tonight, for the right to represent Western Pennsylvania in the state championship tournament on the same floor Friday and Saturday nights. Left to right in the group are: Back row—Manager McCartney, Kalupson, Miller, Berger, Sullivan and Coach Bill Campbell. Front row—Birch, Delaney, Capt. Oates, Johnston and Sertich.

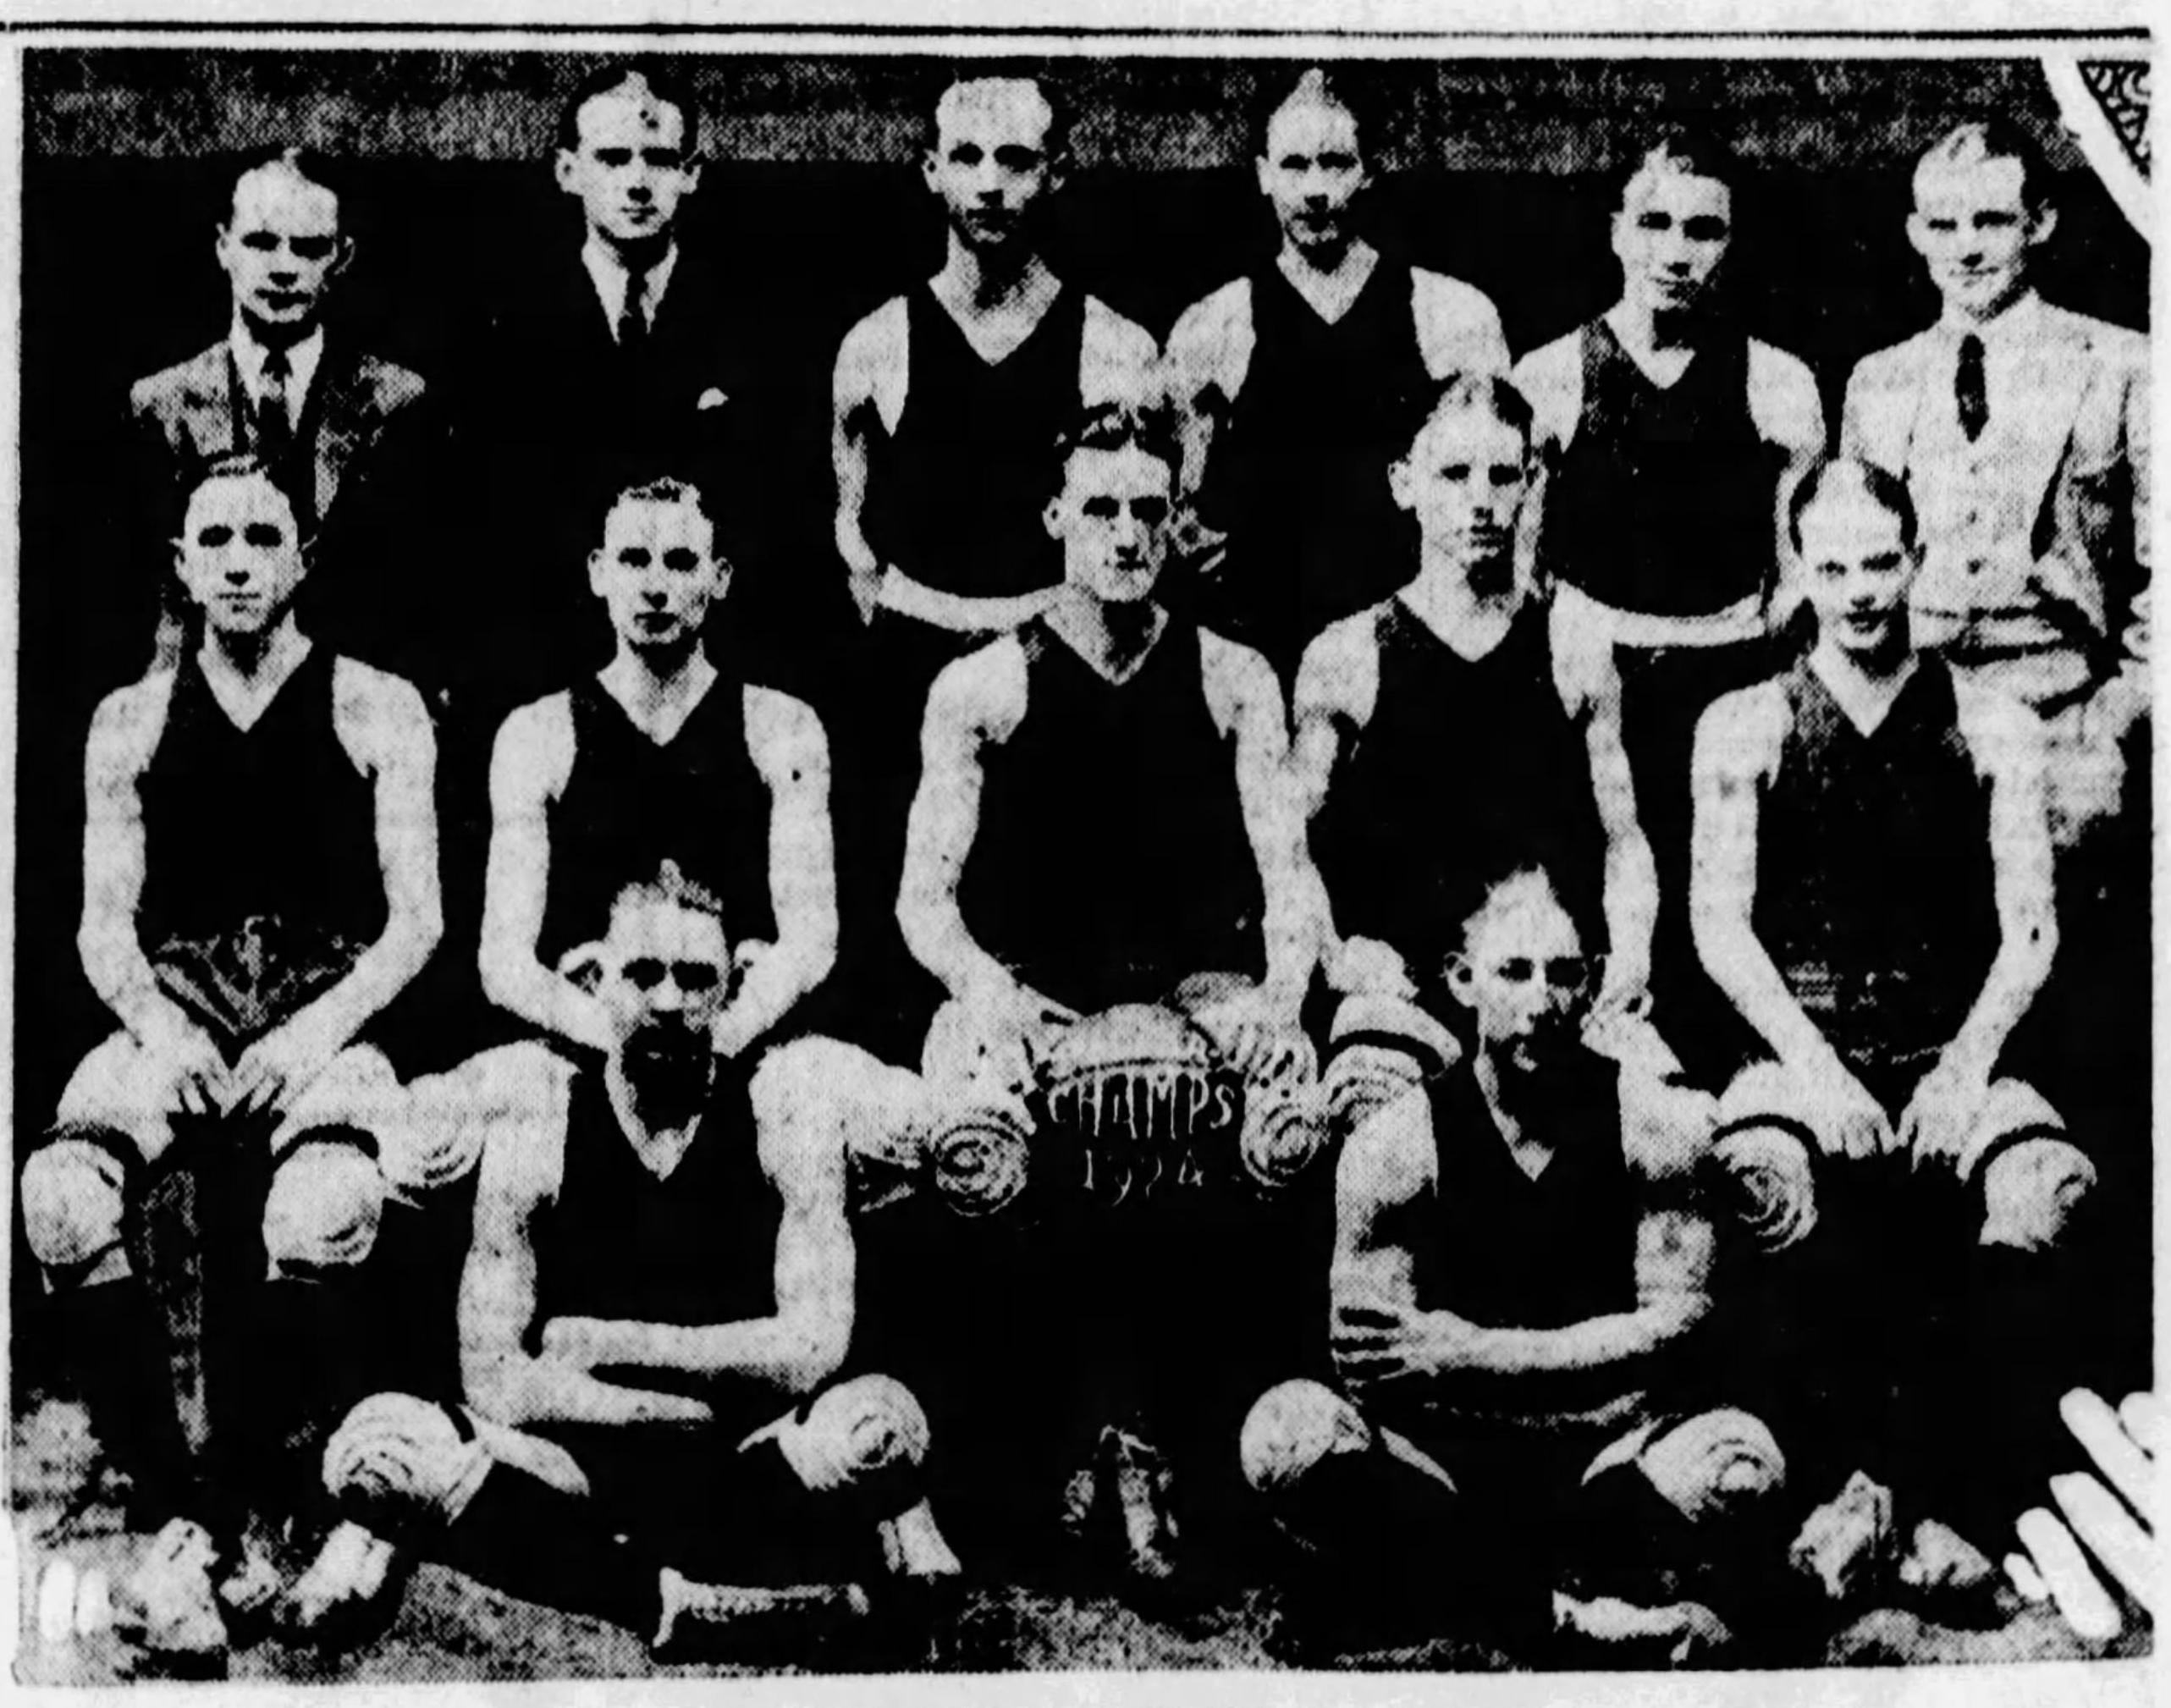
Birch, guard, is the individual star of the Homestead High School team. His work was an outstanding feature of the quintet's victories over Monessen, Ford City, Fifth Avenue and Bellevue High schools in the W. P. I. A. L. series.



1924 COURT KINGS

Homestead High School won its initial W. P. I. A. L. championship in 1923, when the title first was awarded to Monessen High because of a protest over the age of Roy O'Donovan, of Homestead, but a reversal of the decision gave it back to Homestead. The next year, Homestead again copped the laurels. Above is the 1924 aggregation. Left to right in the group are: Back row—Lester Fix, faculty manager; Manager Lorden, Wolf, McGeever, Pfieffer and Coach George Gould. Middle row—Neenie Campbell, Parry, McClain, McGill and Evans. Front row—Morgan and Hepps.

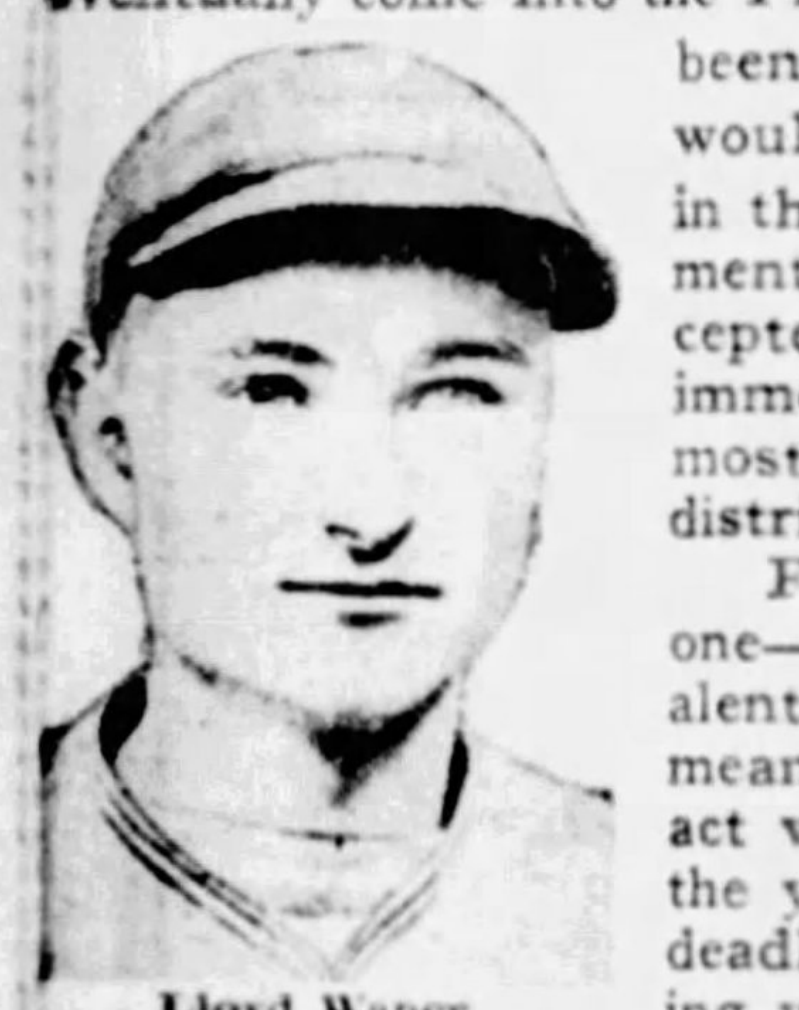
COMPROMISE IS TOO LONG DELAYED

THOUGH no experienced baseball follower had ever doubted for a minute that the holdout Waner brothers would eventually come into the Pirate fold, and from the start it had been only a question of time until they would be found back at their old posts in the Pittsburgh lineup, the announcement late yesterday that Lloyd had accepted terms and would join the team immediately nevertheless came as a most pleasing news to the fans of this district.



Lloyd Waner

For the acceptance of terms by the one—and acceptance of terms is equivalent to the signing of a contract—means that the other half of the brother act will not be far behind. Now that the younger of the pair has broken the deadlock and arrived at an understanding with President Barney Dreyfuss, it may be expected that similar action on the part of Paul will not be long delayed. It has been rumored that the brothers were holding out under an agreement whereby both had to be satisfied before either would consent to sign, and if that is true the fact that Lloyd has come in may be taken to mean that Paul will be right at his heels.

IN other words, the signing of one amounts practically to the signing of both, so that it won't be long until the remainder of the holdout, like all such annual disputes in baseball, also becomes a matter of history.

All well and good as far as that part of it is concerned, and it comes as a welcome relief to some of the fans who worried over the situation in spite of the long-established fact that holdouts are always settled before the club needs the players for opening day and before the players are in danger of missing any paydays.

BUT one feature that is not pleasing is that the argument was prolonged until this late stage of the spring training proceedings when it could just as well have been settled much earlier.

Sensing that there would be a compromise in the end, Pirate supporters began to ask some time ago why steps toward such a compromise could not be taken then instead of later.

IT is to be regretted that the sides to the controversy did not act on that suggestion more promptly. Lloyd has lost some valable training time and Paul will lose even more. It is a loss for which there is no good excuse, and one that could have been avoided very easily. Perhaps the brothers will not miss the training, and will be in tip-top shape when the season opens four weeks from today, but there is a chance that they will not be in their best stride and the risk should have been avoided. It is beyond understanding why these baseball squabbles that can be compromised in the latter part of March or the first part of April cannot be compromised in the same manner weeks earlier. Both sides carry the game of bluff too far.

Hib Milks

THE finish of the National Hockey League's regular season finds Hib Milks, center and wingman, displaced as leading scorer of the Pittsburgh club for the first time since the Pirates were admitted to the pro circuit four seasons ago.

Final statistics on the individual scoring race reveal that Jerry Lowrey who came here from Toronto on February 16 when Harold Cotton was traded to the Leafs, finished in front by a big margin, with Frank Frederickson, another newcomer to Pirate ranks, grabbing second honors. Frederickson came here from Boston on December 22 in exchange for Mickey MacKay and a bundle of cash.

LOWREY, who was pacing the International Group in the matter of assists when he was obtained from Toronto, continued to set a blistering pace as a Pirate, and finished with 12 assists and five goals for a total of 17 points. Frederickson turned in seven assists and six goals to place second with 13 points, and Milks and Harold Darragh followed with 12 and 11 points, respectively. The wingmen

By CARL W. SHATTO.

Ice hockey's world series, the play-offs for the Stanley Cup, emblematic of the world championship, is to open tonight in three cities. PHILLY SIX COPS TITLE

Philadelphia Company captured the West Penn Amateur Hockey League championship last night by defeating the Hornets, 6 goals to 3, in the final game of the title series, in Duquesne Garden.

It was a late rally that won the game for Lorne Campbell's squad. The defeated sextet took a two-goal lead in the first period, only to be tied in the second stanza.

The deadlock was broken after three minutes had elapsed in the third and last frame, and shortly after the Philly Company skaters added three more markers.

HOMESTEAD PLAYS SHARON TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER

Homestead and Sharon will fight it out tonight in the Stadium Pavilion for the right to slide into the semi-final round of the annual P. I. A. A. title series, to be staged this year by the University of Pittsburgh in the Pavilion Friday and Saturday nights.

Tonight's contest is one of four tri-final games being played between the winners of the eight districts of the P. I. A. A. One game was contested last night, Reading and Williamsport battling it out at Harrisburg. In addition to the local contest, Hazleton and East Stroudsburg meet at Easton and Altoona and Meyersdale at Johnstown. The winners of these games will be drawn for semi-final round competition here Friday.

BOTH FIVES STRONG

Homestead and Sharon scored decisive triumphs to win the Western and Northwestern district titles last Saturday night, Bellevue and Erie being the respective victims. Sharon is rated a strong foe by those who have seen the Mercer Countians in action. Homestead appears to be in for another tough evening, especially as Sharon, with the rangy Jimmay Murphy at center, figures to have at least a 70-30 hold on the tip-off. Gene Oates will have to get up in the air tonight, and no mistake. The probable lineups:

Homestead.		Sharon.
Delaney	F	Deems
Johnston	F	McCamant
Oates	C	Murphy
Birch	G	Laycock
Sertich	G	Mitchell

The contest is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock sharp. There will be no preliminary.

PLAY FOR NATIONAL TITLE

Two Pennsylvania schools and one West Virginia team will see action in the annual Loyola University, of Chicago National Catholic interscholastic tournament, which will get under way tomorrow. Hazleton Catholic High, North Catholic, of Philadelphia, and Clarksburg Catholic, of Clarksburg, W. Va., are entered.

The North Catholic team of Philadelphia, won the first annual state tourney staged by Duquesne University here two weeks ago and will have its expenses paid both to and from the Chicago event by the local institution.

Wheeling High School, the West Virginia champion, will compete in the National championship tournament at Chicago, April 2-6.

DONOHOE DIRECTS MEET

Twenty teams of the Mountain section of the state have entered the third annual scholastic tournament of St. Francis College at Loretto, Pa., Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Bill Donohoe, former Carnegie Tech star, is the tournament director.

The West View High School boys' and girls' teams will play for the county junior championships this evening. The boys oppose Stowe Township at Bellevue and the girls play Aspinwall Junior High.

READING IS VICTOR

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 19.—(AP.)—Reading High School, champion of District No. 3, defeated Williamsport High, District No. 4 winner, here last night, by the score of 64 to 42.

The victory automatically qualifies the winner as one of the four teams which will participate in the state championship final round of the P. I. A. A., which opens at the University of Pittsburgh on Friday.

JIM CLINSTOCK WINS: LONDOS HERE NEXT

Next week—East Lynne. Er, that is, Jim Londos.

This was the announcement that was made at the end of the first show of Promoter Ray Fabiani's wrestling revival program in the Moose Temple last night. Ray is a game guy. He took it on the whiskers last night for some hundreds of dollars, but he'll be back. And bigger and better, he says, with Jim Londos, the Greek champion, who is one of the most popular performers in the mat game.

Not more than 300 persons turned out for the exhibition of pushing and hauling and the gate was less than $500. Fabiani's rent was $200 and he had to pay for his permit, police protection, the officials, Joe Keally's bill-posting and carfare for himself and wrestlers, not to mention the maintenance of his local representative, Leon Balkin, and the services of the wrestlers.

"They'll come later," he said, meaning the customers. "I know. I've built up the game in other cities, and I can do the same here. I expect to lose on the first few shows. Later, Motor Square Garden won't be big enough to hold the crowds."

RESORT TO SLUGGING

Jack Washburn, of Chicago, who was peeved because he wasn't introduced as hailing from California, and Jim Clinstock, the Indian, both well over the six-foot mark and scaling more than 220 pounds, were the main-bouters and went at it hammer and tongs, even injecting fist fighting into their work before Clinstock finally broke loose from a long-held and punishing hold and punched and gouged his opponent and then put on a body scissors that squeezed all of the resistance out of his hefty rival and forced his shoulders to the mat after 29½ minutes.

It was tough going for both men, and Referee Charley Reinecke once stopped it and was on the verge of disqualifying Clinstock for slugging. He gave him another chance when the crowd insisted that it wanted the bout to go on. Washburn had all the better of the struggling until the sudden finish. He bears a marked resemblance to Strangler Lewis, while Clinstock looks and spars not unlike Mickey Walker.

Gino Garibaldi, a strong Italian youth, who knows plenty of wrestling tricks, won the decision of Judges Frank Brown and Red Robinson over George Zacharias, the Greek, in the 45-minute semi-final. This bout also had its fighting moments and threatened to develop into a free-for-all at the 35-minute mark, when Zacharias developed a penchant for kicking his opponent playfully in the stomach.

ZBY EASY WINNER

Stanislaus Zbyszko, the Polish veteran and former champion, made quick work of Mike Katchoff, the Russian, in the opening bout, scheduled for 30 minutes. It was all over in 4 minutes 25 seconds, a combination head and wrist lock winding it up.

HARRY KECK.

OTHER MAT RESULTS

At New York—Kola Kwariani, Cossack, won decision over Marin Plestina, of Chicago, 1 hour, 6 minutes, and Joe Mendt, of Colorado, won decision over Joe Stengel, of Germany.

BUCS' HURLING STAFF TO BE HARD TO CUT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—Donie Bush has so many promising pitchers on his staff, he is sure to have a problem as regards starters after the season gets under way. It isn't likely he will have more than five bona-fide regulars and right now he has at least eight who look like winners.

Grimes, Kremer, Hill, Meadows, Dawson, Swetonic, Petty, Fussell and French are all close to top form. Meadows is showing rare form, despite the cold weather. Manager Bush and his lieutenants are quite confident that the Southerner will be able to continue on the mound.

WILL BE REAL PROBLEM

"I think we will have the best pitching staff in the league," said Chic Fraser yesterday as he fanned with Bush and others before the game. Chic was a star pitcher in his day and he, being a conservative fellow, it follows that the present staff impresses him deeply.

Fraser figures that Bush will have quite a puzzle to solve in sorting out the first-choice workers. Chic has a lot to do with conditioning the sharpshooters and he is tickled over the way they worked at Paso Robles to get in shape.

Bush, himself, feels that the slab staff will be a corker. The lefthand section this year is much different than a year ago. Petty seems to have the pole among the southpaws, but Fussell and French are ready to crowd the Silver Fox. Fussell, in particular, shows rare form. Fred is a resourceful flinger all the time.

HOME RUN KING

Speaking about the Pittsburgh pitchers, Bush's hurlers will all be glad when they say farewell to Smead Jolley. The giant with the Abe Martin moniker has made our flingers look like twilight leaguers. Sixteen major league clubs are passing up a great home run king and natural drawing card in allowing this young Hercules to stay in the minors.

The Seals have won three out of four with the Pirates, but it might be added that they are in better shape. Their pitchers are all on edge and the other players are just about at mid-summr form.

The Coast League season opens a week from today, which is why the players of the circuit are in such a keen physical state.

Burleigh Grimes and Steve Swetonic showed the Seals some rare pitching. After relieving Grimes in the sixth, North Side Steve pitched three hitless rounds and he seemed strong in the eighth when the excitement started.

Local Cue Star Wins in Tourney

MILWAUKEE, March 19.—(AP.)—Percy N. Collins, of Chicago, has successfully overcome the first challenge to the national amateur 18.2 balkline billiards title he holds, by winning his match with Arie Schaap, of St. Louis, 300 to 276, in 27 innings last night. Schaap, who is the Missourie state champion, was also beaten in the open day's play by M. P. McClure, of Pittsburgh, 300 to 173 in 23 innings.

M. C. Walgren, Everett, Wash., Pacific Coast champion, ended his match with an unfinished run of 33 in defeating Ray V. Fessenden, Madison, western champion, 300 to 290, in 30 innings.

SCHMELING CASE UP

BERLIN, March 19.—(AP.)—The first definite steps toward ending the open conflict between Max Schmeling, young and promising German heavyweight boxer, and his manager and countryman, Arthur Bulow, were taken today by an investigating committtee of the German Boxing Association. The committee summoned Schmeling to attend a meeting here on Thursday and cabled Bulow to name his proxy.

Traynor to Have Ailing Hip X-Rayed

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—The Pirate medicos have ordered an X-ray examination of Pie Traynor's ailing hip. The Pirate captain is scheduled to go to St. Francis' Hospital today to have a picture taken.

Traynor injured himself in Philadelphia last summer and the spot still bothers him. Meant'me, Sparky Adams will prevail in the shortfield.

Jim Stroner was hit yesterday with two terrific fast pitches served by Deacon Jones. Luckily, the ill recruit was able to take the jolts in such a manner as to prevent any injury. Jim has been hit three times in two games.

BROTHER ACT SMEARED AS LLOYD SIGNS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—With Lloyd Waner reported speeding toward his team and a warm welcome, the Pirates today were all excited over the status of Brother Paul, who all along has been figured as the most stubborn of the holdout brothers.

News of Lloyd's acceptance of terms yesterday furnished the Pittsburgh players with lots of chatter, but inasmuch as the officials of the club did not care to go into detail on the agreement with the little centerfielder, nobody here, aside from the owners, knows what figures will be on the contract which the youngster is scheduled to sign, about Thursday.

That Lloyd will draw down $10,000 is the understanding here.

MAKES FAST PROGRESS

The centerfielder is said to have drawn down something like $7,500 last season. In the event that he has succeeded in getting $10,000 in his new contract he may be said to have made fast progress, inasmuch as he has had only two years of major league experience.

The fact that Lloyd came to terms with Brother Paul still without the fold, came as a big surprise to many. It was felt by these folks that neither would budge until both were satisfied. Well, there is a chance that something is brewing concerning Paul, although the officials of the club insist they have not heard from him. Barney Dreyfuss may have pulled a neat stroke in getting Lloyd all set for action.

BUSH ELATED

The two brothers took part in a semi-pro game in Oklahoma a day or two ago. Their batting feats in this contest would indicate that both are close to good condition, but, as Donie Bush observed when he read the account of the contest, "those two kids could hit with broomsticks."

In any event, Bush is glad that Lloyd is on the way to this city. There is a chance that the little fellow will be pressed into service here Sunday when the Buccos end their long stay.

Bush is likely to switch Adam Comorosky to right field to make room for Lloyd. Either Grantham or Brickell will perform in the left garden. Comorosky's all-around actions are high spots in the play of the club in the present series.

The Seals, with Smead Jolley doing the honors again, spanked the Pirates yesterday in the ninth inning to win a hard-fought game. Two were out and the score was tied when Smead rapped out another homer, his drive breaking a tie and producing three markers. The score was 4 to 2.

The game was a shutout affair until the eighth, when Sparky Adams, Comorosky and Carl Frey merged their efforts to score a big counter. Two were out in the eighth before the home team broke out with enough force to produce four runs.

FUSSELL TO HURL

Thurston and Jones worked for the Seals, and both had a big edge on our boys, who made only eight hits.

Fred Fussell and Joe Dawson, the same pair that stopped the Seals in their tracks at Monterey a few days ago will go back to the mound this afternoon, according to present plans. Pie Traynor, ailing with a bad hip, probably will remain on the bench again.

LLOYD GETS $10,000

In a telephone interview from his home in Oklahoma City last night, Lloyd Waner, recent Buc holdout, admitted that his new contract will amount to $10,000, and that he would leave to join the Pirates today.

Paul Waner said he expected to be approached by the Dreyfuss management in the near futured and that if the terms are satisfactory, he, also, is ready to jump into harness. If not, he plans to continue his holdout tactics.

TWO RING UPSETS

PHILADELPHIA, March 19.—Two ring upsets occurred at the Arena here last night when Maxie Rosenbloom, of New York, defeated Leo Lomski, of Seattle, in 10 rounds and Pinkie Kauffman, of Hartford, Conn., technically knocked out King Tut, of Minneapolis, in two rounds. Both of the latter pair were on the floor in the first round.

AT LAST--REAL PRIZES FOR AMATEURS!

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Credit Harry Hainsworth, athletic director of the new Keystone Athletic Club, with inaugurating a few necessary reforms in amateur boxing in this city. Here only a few months from Buffalo, where he formerly was employed, Hainsworth has been gradually shaping the policies of the new local organization, and one of the departures that is certain to prove popular is that of rewarding the simon-pure boxers with worth-while prizes for their efforts.

For his show Saturday night of next week, Hainsworth has purchased $40, 17-jewel gold watches for the winners and $25 watches for the runners-up, while the third-place boxers will be given valuable consolation awards. These are quite different from the tawdry prizes that have been the rule at the other clubs.

Hainsworth's plan of conducting his shows on a one-night tournament basis also is a new wrinkle hereabouts. For his program next week he will have 12 boxers, divided into three classes. The winners of the first two bouts in each division will meet in the final. Thus the spectators will see at least six of the boxers in two bouts each and will have considerable sport trying to figure out the likely winners after seeing them in their first appearance. Nothing like the old competitive stuff to make a show interesting.

RANDALL'S FIRST 10-ROUNDER

When Tiger Joe Randall, clever Negro boxer, of Elizabeth, halted the winning career of Dominick Profio in the Moose Temple the other night he was engaging in his first 10-round fight, which accounts for the fact that he had to rate himself carefully through the last two rounds after having the bout sewed up barring the possibility of a knockout.

Randall's victory gave his manager, Jim Buchanan, of Charleroi, a record of five straight victories over James (Red) Mason in battles between their men. Buchanan has yet to have one of his proteges drop a decision to an opponent handled by Mason. He has had Willie Davies whip Johnny Hamm, Young Rudy beat U. S. Carpentier, Joe Colombo defeat Young Rudy after the latter went with Mason, Rudy Ceder defeat Cuddy DeMarco and Randall win over Profio.

Plans are in the making for the erection of an outdoor boxing bowl within the limits of Pittsburgh which will vie with the Meyers brothers' bowl in North Braddock. Work is proceding quietly on the project. It will not be as large as the Meyers Bowl, but will be sufficiently roomy to house weekly crowds at popular prices.

SPORTS ENJOY BOOM

Take it from Chappy Couch, manager of the local Spalding store, sports of all sorts are doing a big comeback this year, which is indicative of a general improvement in industrial conditions. More baseball leagues are being formed than for some years past and the other sports are keeping step. Boxing clubs throughout the district are doing a land office business and everything is hotsy totsy.

If boxing promoters want to give their fans fast, exciting bouts they will take a tip and make their rings smaller. The McKeesport ring is a few feet smaller than the regulation size, and so is the Moose Temple square, which is confined by the limits of the stage. The result is that these two clubs have put on some of the best matches ever witnessed in these parts. There is less room for the boxers to run around and stall. The close quarters force them to keep fighting.

THE SOLMEN MYSTERY

One of the mysteries of the boxing game in Western Pennsylvania is why Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, does not box on the cards at the Jolly Bowl in his home town. There is not a more pleasing performer around here and there are few better hitters. The workmanlike manner in which he disposed of Hugh Haggerty in a few punches here last week still is a subject of conversation among the fans who witnessed the bout.

C. & I. CHAMPS RISK TITLE IN SERIES

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The series for the Commercial-Industrial League basketball championship gets underway tonight at the South Side Market House when Kaufmann's, winners of the first-half laurels, meet Duquesne Light, victors in the second round and last year's champion, in the inaugural battle.

The two clubs include in their lineups some of the best basketball players in this section of the state and followers of the contestants are looking for a close battle tonight. The teams boast large followings and indications point to a capacity crowd at the Market House tonight.

The second battle of the series will be staged at Columbus Temple next Thursday night, and the third, if necessary, will be played on the same floor a week from tonight.

Both teams will take the floor in the opener with all their stars in the best of physical condition.

Y. M. H. A. VS. COLLEGE STARS

The Young Men's Hebrew Association basketball team, A. A. U. and Institutional League champion, will meet the College All-Stars tonight on the Y. M. H. A. floor in the first of a series of games arranged to raise funds with which to send the champs to the national Y. M. H. A. tourney in Atlantic City.

The College All-Stars boast an attractive lineup headed by Charley Hyatt, noted Pitt flash and leading collegiate scorer in the country for the last two years. Others who will wear the uniform of the All-Stars are Les Cohen, Milton Cohen and Puss Ferraro, of Pitt; Fox, of Carnegie Tech, and Lubic and Rosenberg, of Duquesne. Interest in the game is high and preparations have been made to handle a large crowd.

WEST PENN SERIES

The Knickerbockers, last year's champions and winners of the first half laurels in the West Penn League, and the South Side Falcons, winners of the second half, meet at Forresters Hall tonight in the first of a series of games to determine the championship of the circuit.

O'DONOVAN ELECTED

Dundee to Defend Welter Title June 24

DUKES TO PLAY IOWA, COLGATE

John D. Holahan, graduate manager of Duquesne University, has been making up his basketball schedule for the season 1929-30 and with the past campaign barely ended, has lined up 18 games. It appears the Dukes will play one of their longest basketball schedules on record next year.

MEET IOWA, COLGATE

The outstanding additions are games with Iowa and Colgate. Both will be played away. Holahan is leaving for Chicago to complete plans for rounding out his trip to Iowa by securing several major opponents in that direction.

The Colgate game will be played on the annual jaunt to New York. New York City College and Manhattan College will be the Dukes' other opponents on this trip.

Games with American and Catholic University, annually played in Washington have been definitely carded. Another Capital City quintet may also oppose the locals.

EIGHT TRI-STATE TILTS

Alfred and Ashland College have been placed on the Bluff card, making the non-Tri-State Conference battles already settled eight. Meeting Westminster, Bethany, Thiel, Waynesburg and Geneva twice each, the Dukes have 18 of next season's basketball tilts cinched. The schedule, when finally completed, will include at least 22 games.

Roger Smith was the leading scorer among the defense men. He tallied four goals and had two assists for six points.

MILKS, although he was dethroned as scoring leader, finished with a fair share of laurels, pacing the skaters who played as Pirates throughout the season and adding to his "iron man" record. Hib has not missed a regularly scheduled game since he started playing league hockey in Ottawa in 1913, and his consecutive game string now extends well beyond the 500 mark. Howard Bruce

BY reason of the fact that an American-bred horse, Billy Barton, owned by Howard Bruce, of Baltimore, is conceded to have a good chance to win, far greater interest than usual is being shown in this country in the 1929 running of the Grand National Steeplechase, scheduled for next Friday over the famous Aintree course in England.

This race is called the most uncertain in the world because of the difficult and treacherous nature of the course. The latter, which has been described as "a stretch of hell," is four miles, 856 yards long. There are 16 obstacles, 14 of which must be crossed twice, making a total of 30. The dangers are so great that it is an exceptional year in which more than one-eighth of the starters can be found still in the running at the finish.

THE course begins with a 500-yard straightaway, wide enough for the horses to run abreast, narrowing to a thorn fence, five feet in height and two feet in thickness. Then is encountered a two-foot guard rail that is a warning of another thorn fence, five feet high and more than three feet thick, on the other side of which is a six-foot drop and Becher's brook, five feet wide.

Then comes the dangerous Calan Turn, with a six-foot ditch on the take-off side, a thorn fence and a water hazard, and even if you get past these you still have the hairpin turn to reckon with next. The water jump measures 15 feet over all with a fence in the middle. In front of the stands is Valentine's Brook, a fence, a water jump of 12 feet and an upward slope. These are only the most dangerous of the total of 30 jumps, but any of the others may spell disaster.

LAST year only two horses finished out of 42 starters. Billy Barton looked like a sure winner but fell at the last fence, and victory went to Tipperary Tim, a 100-to-1 shot. Only two out of 22 finished in 1913, only one out of 26 came home in 1911 and only one out of 35 in 1921. At each jump men are waiting with stretchers, and first-aid kits, together with signal flags for ambulances. A red flag calls an ambulance for a horse, a yellow one for a man. Though it has been stated that Billy Barton, if victorious, will be the first American-bred horse that ever won the Grand National, veteran authorities insist that one previous winner, Rubio, was bred in this country. It is said Rubio was shipped to England as a racer but failed, was sold for $75, hauled a hotel bus for a year and then won the big race in 1908. Two American-owned horses, not bred in this country are listed among the winners—Stephen Sanford's Sergeant Murphy in 1923 and A. Charles Schwart's Jack Horner in 1926.

Joie Schaaf

JOIE SCHAAF, captain and star forward of the University of Pennsylvania basketball team, which won the championship in its Eastern intercollegiate group, is an exceptional athlete. He stands out in his studies as prominently as he stands out in the court game. Schaaf's class as a player is shown by the fact that he lead the Eastern college ranks in scoring both in 1928 and 1929 with totals of 125 and 114, respectively.

But he was not neglecting his scholastic work. He is one of four Penn seniors who have just been granted unlimited cuts in their studies because of their high scholastic standing. To receive such recognition a student must make an average of 85 per cent or better. Schaaf has been the scholastic leader of his class ever since he entered Penn. And it might be remarked in passing that he is working his way through. Quite an example, from all angles.

KUCHLER LOSES CHANCE IN A.B.C. PLAY

CHICAGO, March 9.—S. Kuchler, of Pittsburgh, overlooked an opportunity to place among the 10 leaders in the singles event at the American Bowling Congress here yesterday afternoon when he failed to come through in the final session after starting with games of 244 and 214. He wound up with a lowly 178 total, getting only two strikes in his last game. His 636 total led the Pittsburgh Keglers. B. Boff and M. Schmidt being the others to score better than 600 in the singles.

BASS TAKES SECOND PLACE

H. Hollands and H. Hotchkiss, of Detroit, placed fifth in the doubles by turning in a 1,254 score, and H. Wittenberg and W. Hunt, La Crosse, got sixth with 1,249. J. Riley and R. Lambke, of Kansas City, held their lead in the event with a 1,301 count.

A. Ary, Kansas City, and A. Mayer, of Omaha, tied for ninth and tenth positions in the all-events with a score of 1,848 each.

SINGLES

S. Kuchler	244	214	178	636

Outfielder Goslin Joins Washington

TAMPA, Fla., March 19.—(INS.)—Goose Goslin, who led the American League in batting last year, has at last come to terms. He signed a 1929 contract last night after several weeks' dickering and bickering with Clark Griffith. Two Senatorial rookies, Ed Kenna, catcher, and Elmer Yoter, infielder, have been released to Minneapolis.

Ft. Wayne Nears Pro Loop Title

FORT WAYNE, Ind., March 19.—(AP.)—Fort Wayne today had virtually clinched the second half championship of the American Basketball League following a one-point victory over Brooklyn here last night. The score was 30 to 29.

Brennan's great shooting in the second half almost pulled the game out of the fire for the visitors. He sank the ball six times from the floor and wound up his night's work with 13 points.

F. A. Vance Cops Indoor Tournament

F. A. Vance was victor in the 18-hole medal play tournament held by the Triangle Club of Pittsburgh at the Downtown indoor golf links, Smithfield Building, last night, when he scored a 41.

H. R. Rowland won second prize with his 43, and R. A. Vance was third with 44.

About 50 members and guests of the club participated. A women's tournament is scheduled for Thursday night.

DAVIES CLAIMS STATE TITLE AGAIN

Willie Davies, Charleroi star, is claiming the State flyweight boxing championship again, as a result of a runout perpetrated by Midget Wolgast, of Philadelphia, who was to meet him in the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night and has notified the club he cannot go through with the match.

The New Castle promoter has been after this bout since before last Christmas and it is said that Wolgast expressed a willingness to make it and was set to go until he heard Davies would take the bout, when he pulled out. As a result, Jim Buchanan, Davies' manager, has accepted another bout with Frisco Grande at Hamilton, Ont., Monday night and plans to file a claim with the State Athletic Commission of the flyweight title which formerly belonged to him.

Davies and Wolgast have fought four times, Wolgast winning three decisions, one here and two in Philadelphia. Davies defeated him at Atlantic City. The Midget is a ghostlike, dancing, light-tapping boxer who has given most of the stars trouble. In his last meeting with Davies, the latter fought through the last eight rounds with one leg crippled. Davies still can make the flyweight limit of 112 pounds easily, and, in fact, often scales around 110 pounds.

MORE BOUTS BOOKED

Promoter Francis Flynn has completed his card for the Moose Club Friday night with the exception of landing an opponent for Buck McTiernan in the semi-final. Cuddy DeMarco, of McKeesport, and Tony LaRose, of Cincinnati, are in the 10-round windup, and Bobby Burns, of Swissvale, meets Georgie Tomosky, of Wilmerding, in the second number, while Johnny Michaels, of Swissvale, will engage Jackie Griffiths, Negro newsboy of the Hill, in the opener.

Chuck Zelnack, of Glassport, and Red Ryan, of Washington, Pa., have been matched for the second bout on the Johnny Mellow-Ray Newton card at McKeesport Thursday night, and Ken Hargraves of New Kensington, will meet Chet Smallwood, of Akron, in the semi-final.

Four local amateur boxers, Mose Butch, A. Andrucci, George Chambers and George Bretsch, left last night or New York, where they will compete in a show in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night and at the Cresent A. C. Thursday night. Billy Linder, former local amateur star, is in charge of the party.

Pittsburgh will be represented in the Middle States amateur tournament at Gary, Ind., Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights by four of Duke O'Hara's protege of McKeesport. They are Tony Marino, flyweight; Dan McCabe, lightweight; Milo Poporic, welterweight, and Billy Windso, middleweight. They will depart tomorrow night.

SEIFERT MEETS WIGGINS

Sandy Seifert, North Side heavyweight, boxes Chuck Wiggins at Indianapolis tonight. Young Rudy meets Johnny Kusic and Johnny Dunn boxes Mickey Dugan in eight-rounders at Oil City. Amateur bouts will be staged under the auspices of the Westinghouse Factory Clerks' Association in the East Pittsburgh Cafeteria, inter-club battles are booked at the Pittsburgh Lyceum and a boxing smoker will be staged by the Dormont Baseball club of the County League in the Dormont Masonic hall.

Rene DeVos, the Belgian middleweight, meets Johnny Gill at Los Angeles tonight. Jack Britton, former middleweight champion, is on the same card. Socko Treneman and Joe Proctor are billed for 10 rounds at Cumberland.

LINGO BEATS RAY NEWTON

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 15.—Terry Lingo, who now claims Columbus, O., as his home, gained the edge on Ray Newton, the Blond Tiger of Massilon, O., in their eight-round battle here last night, being awarded the decision. The milling was terrific most of the way, with Lingo gaining his advantage in the infighting. Lingo had a good weight advantage, scaling 138 pounds and Newton 132½. Newton landed a number of good solid wallops, but lost his advantage in this respect at close range.

Lermond Turns Tables on Conger

HARTFORD, Conn., March 19.—(INS.)—Leo Lermond, Boston A. A. runner, today had squared accounts with Ray Conger, the Illinois A. C. crack who beat him in the "mile of the century" race at New York Saturday night. Lermond reversed the tables on Conger in the mile race at the National Guard track meet here last night, winning in the slow time of 4 minutes 21 seconds.

CITY LEAGUE TO MEET TOMORROW

By TOM BIRKS

With the City Baseball League meeting scheduled for tomorrow evening in the offices of the Reliance Insurance Company, Farmers Bank Building, sandlotters in the district are becoming curious regarding the team selected to take the place of the Hermes-Grove or Liberty Dairy team, which, Tom Carson, manager since its inception, stated last night, will not be on hand to retain its franchise.

It is not often a champion fails to return to fight for its laurels, but in this case the Milk boys are not coming back.

What team will be the eighth club? It is said that the Beckmans and Boyer Motors are eager to get in the league, and Jock Collette, genial manager of the W. L. Reinekers, has told the world that the club from Malone Field on Herron Hill is also soliciting a berth in the organization. Jock pointed with pride to the record of the Hill club.

Gossip started to circulate Sunday that a dark horse was also considering taking the step but without actual proof, it would be unfair to mention the name of the team.

The other seven clubs are all set: Stowe, Pleasant Valley, St. John's, J. L. Thomas, Reliance Life, Book Shoe and the North Side Civics.

A president will be elected to fill the place of the retiring prexy, and other important business is to be thrashed out. So fans will await with interest the doings of the City League at its session tomorrow evening.

Bill Goehring, sandlot pilot from around West Newton, dropped in to say "Hello," and passed the word along that Jack Jones, West Newton boy, who starred with West Newton and Beaver Falls Elks last season, had left for a tryout with the Binghampton club of the New York-Pennsylvania League, and that the fans up the Youghiogheny

DUTCH MASTERS

When we say that Dutch Masters is "fine as any imported cigar" we are not just talking taffy. Try out a Dutch Masters alongside of any imported cigar you please. We believe that you will agree that the biggest difference between the two is the price.

We often wonder why no cigar manufacturer has fallen for the current advertising vogue of publishing glowing testimonials from the great and near-great. Maybe it's because the big men who smoke cigars are too big to be interested in seeing their pictures in the paper.

No single quality alone makes a good cigar. Neither mildness nor fragrance nor "body." But a just right proportion of these qualities makes the kind of cigar that grows on you. Hence the increasing number of smokers who say: "There's nothing like Dutch Masters."

Market Broadens

Wall Street Quotations

RAILS IN LEAD AS MARKET BROADENS

NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP.)—Railroad shares were brought forward by speculators for the advance today as the new leaders of the upward movement of stock prices. The buying movement assumed broad proportions with the copper, office appliance, railroad equipment, farm implement and public utility shares, also presenting several oustanding points of strength.

High money rates continued to hamper bullish operations. Call loans renewed at 8 per cent, as against 7 yesterday, and rose to 9 by early afternoon. Wall Street hears talk of 12 per cent call money before the end of the week. Little time money was available below 8 per cent. Wall Street expects no change in the rediscount rate this week, apparently basing its opinion on the statement of Gov. Young last week that a rise in rates would be "the last resort" in the board's effort to curb the excessive use of credit for speculation.

NEWS BULLISH

Trade and business news continued to have a bullish tinge. Lead prices were advanced $5 a ton, another series of favorable 1928 earnings statements were published, and the American Surety Company started dividends at $6 annually on the new stock, which is equivalent to $12 on the old which paid $10.

Rails have been lagging behind the general list for the past two months. Wall Street believed that market sponsors of those issues were waiting for the St. Louis and O'Fallon decision, indirectly involving billions in railroad valuations, or an outline of President Hoover's railroad consolidation policy. Meanwhile, current railroad earnings and traffic statements were extremely favorable. Bringing forward the rails as leaders today was regarded as a strategic move by "bull" traders who have had some difficulty in attracting a following in other issues. Canadian Pacific was quickly marked up 4½ points, New York Central 3 and Union Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, Erie and Western Maryland moved up 2 points or more.

Radio issues, which ran into heavy selling at the opening following yesterday's drastic decline, rebounded with the rest of the list in early afternoon. The new stock covered most of its early 5-point ...ne.

COTTON MARKET

...YORK, March 19.—Cotton opened today at an advance of 4 to 12 ...n response to relatively firm Liver...ables, but met considerable realizing and some local and southern selling. This soon supplied the initial demand and after selling at 20.90c at the start, May eased off to 20.82c. The new October contract reacted from 20.21c to 20.17c.

Business tapered off on the setback, however. The market was comparatively quiet and steady at the end of the first half hour and active months were about 5 to 10 points net higher.

Private cables reported covering trade calling and a renewal of speculative buying in Liverpool and said there was fair cloth inquiry from India, although prices offered were disappointing.

The market was quiet later in the morning. Apparently traders were inclined to wait for the report from the Census Bureau on ginnings from the 1928 crop which is scheduled for publication tomorrow morning. There was some covering and trade buying, however, which gave the market a generally steady tone. May sold up to 20.92c, with active months showing net gains of about 10 to 14 points at midday.

Chain Store Expansion.

Chain store organizations added 6,876 units during the last six months of 1928, according to a survey made public today by the Chain Store Research Bureau. During the first half of the year nearly 6,232 units were added and the expansion rate during that period was 7 per cent ahead of 1927. The last six months' openings have kept to that same pace, openings for the year aggregating 13,108 units or 12.2 per cent of total chain store units operated at the beginning of the year. "Chain expansion at the present time," William J. Baxter, director of research for the bureau states, "finds its center of activity in the mid-west states, particularly the border states immediately west of the Mississippi River. Grocery and variety chains are now adding many units throughout the Southwest, especially in Texas and Arkansas, where larger market food stores prevail. On the coast, California is again receiving the bulk of chain expansion, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Hollywood experiencing peak developments in the chain field. The character of the stores operated has changed to conform with distribution trends throughout the country. In the grocery field, the selling area of the chain unit has increased tremendously, stores with selling space from 1,750 square feet to 2,000 square feet being prominent among recent openings in this field. The fact that 22 per cent of grocery chain units operated or 15,250 units are now equipped with meat departments throws some light on the large store development in the food field. The one other outstanding change in the character of the chain unit has been the wide-spread addition of large soda fountain and luncheonette counters, especially in the straight candy, variety, junior department and bakery chain fields."

Trade Pace Accelerated.

Business activity shows no present sign of slowing up, but rather seems to be accelerating at a pace which seems too fast to be held throughout the year, according to The Brookmire Economic Service, Inc. Money conditions are growing basically firmer. Little adverse influence on general business is to be expected in the immediate future but in the longer view it means constriction of enterprise through a reduction in new capital available to industry both at home and abroad. Brookmire believes that the present year may see the peak of the business cycle; that pronounced and even hectic activity is not improbable for an indefinite period, but the seeds of over-expansion and subsequent decline are discernible. The stock market situation is delicate, but not yet alarming in spite of the fact that the banks, under Federal Reserve instructions, are bringing pressure to bear against loans. The important offsetting influence is the growth of general business and the fact that trade is reasonably well supplied with credit. Brookmire believes that investors should carry certain common stocks but should keep their accounts close to an outright basis.

Studebaker $7,000,000 Ad Campaign.

The Studebaker Corporation is launching its new 1929 advertising program, the largest ever organized by the company, calling for an expenditure of $7,000,000, half of which will be used in newspapers. The other half of the appropriation will be divided among various forms of advertising including radio programs, magazines and direct by mail. "This extensive advertising program is proof that I am bullish on this country," A. R. Erskine, president, stated. "The United States is entering upon the greatest period of business development in its history, both in domestic and foreign trade. High wages established by American industries during the last decade have given us the greatest mass consumption any country has ever enjoyed, and consequently the home market of the United States is the biggest, richest and most coveted of any national market. Studebaker is going to be a leader by telling this rich audience all about its improved product."

Field Work Abroad Delayed.

Spring field work has been delayed all over Europe by the late spring, according to the foreign service of the Department of Agriculture. Gradual thaws were general over the southern part of the continent during the week ended March 13. Recent reports on crop conditions in Germany and France are favorable. Winter cereals in the Danube district have suffered, however. European grain markets, especially those in Central Europe, exhibited a stronger tone during the week ended March 12. Wheat and rye prices in Germany advanced 2 and 2.5 cents per bushel, respectively.

Family Stores Stock Increase.

Stockholders of the National Family Stores, Inc., ratified a plan to increase the authorized no par common stock from 200,000 to 500,000 shares. The purpose of the increase is to allow for the acquisition of W. T. Farley, Inc., and E. J. Farley, Inc., chains, operating 42 apparel stores. Common and preferred stockholders of National Family Stores, Inc., are being offered the right to subscribe, until March 18, to 64,000 common shares in the ratio of 1 new share for each 2½ shares held at $30 per share. Cash from the sale of the new stock will be utilized in addition to a block of common stock for the acquisition of the Farley organizations.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP.)—A decline of 1-32c occurred in raw sugar early today under increased offerings. The only sale reported was 25,000 bags of Cuban afloat to a local refiner at 3.71c, duty paid.

Raw futures opened 1 point higher to 1 point lower, with some covering and buying of new crop deliveries by houses with Wall Street connections. Demand was supplied by houses with European and Cuban connections, and fluctuations thereafter narrow. The list at midday was unchanged from initial figures.

Uncertainty over developments in Cuba tomorrow, when another meeting will be held to discuss the sugar situation, and the decline in the spot market seemed to check operations. Except for a little activity on the call, trading was extremely small.

Refined was unchanged at 4.90c for fine granulated. Withdrawals were fairly liberal, but new business was light and supplied through second hands at prices below those quoted by refiners.

How Local Enterprise Was Made Popular With Town.

By B. C. FORBES

OMAHA, Neb., March 19.

IS IT possible for an executive to take hold of a corporation that is hated by its community and transform it into the most popular of all local enterprises—yet raise it from weakness to strength, from poverty to profit simultaneously with reductions in the prices charged for its product? I knew before visiting Omaha that it had such a corporation because this corporation had won a national silver cup for these achievements. How can such a feat be accomplished—and by, of all companies, a public utility?

LAST week the Nebraska Power Company announced a voluntary cut in rates, using a half-page newspaper advertisement. It is an ardent believer in frank and full publicity. These new rates, I'm assured, are absolutely the lowest for home consumption in America notwithstanding that the power has to be generated by steam. The old rate was 5½ cents per kilowatt hour regardless of quantity used. If more than 10 kilowatt hours per room is used, the rate for the next 160 hours is now only three cents and beyond that consumption only a cent and a half. The old rate for the smallest consumption stands, so that not one bill will be increased.

Omahans accepted the announcement as nothing tremendously unusual since James E. Davidson—affectionately known as "Davy"—took over the management 10 years ago.

"BEFORE you can cut rates, other things have to be done," President Davidson explained under quizzing. "The most important of all is to get your own organization right, to win their enthusiastic loyalty. To train them to give the very best service by making them eagerly want to give the best service. That done, it becomes fairly easy to effect many new economies and efficiencies.

"He would be a poor executive who could not, given these conditions, manage to reduce rates."

THE following facts were furnished by an employe: The company believes in the human touch in its dealings with employes and the public. It is not uncommon for the women employes to be surprised at the noon hour in summer with cold lemonade, grape-fruit, watermelon or the like. Every summer we have an employes' family picnic and every winter an employes' dinner. The various departments also have picnics and other affairs. The day before Christmas the employes gather at noon, give presents to one another and listen to a talk by a prominent citizen. A relief association helps employes in need. Every employe is encouraged to take part in civic actitvities, in neighborhood improvement, clubs and do other things to make the city a better place to live in.

The Nebraska Power Company orchestra entertains at many public gatherings. The employes made a tour of all the small-town properties acquired by the company, gave an entertainment and then discussed their problems with the people. Every so often 100 to 150 housewives are called together and asked if the company can improve its helpfulness.

Almost every day groups of women visit the company's modern electric kitchen, get wrinkles on cooking by electricity and are given new recipes. The power rate for cooking approximates 3⅝ cents. Group insurances for employes is provided. A committee of executives gives free legal, financial and such like services.

Organizations for educational and social gatherings are encouraged. Sports are vigorously promoted, and teams enter practically all the city sports leagues, such as baseball, volleyball, bowling, basketball, handball, golf—and incidentally win many championships.

CONSUMPTION of electricity, thanks to the lowered rates and attractive service, has doubled in less than nine years. Every large business establishment now prefers to use the company's power and farm electrification is being energetically pushed. Yet no man in Omaha devotes more time and effort to public-spirited activities than the main spring of this extremely successful company, Jim Davidson.

IT can be done.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP.)—The curb market today duplicated yesterday's session, being forced to absorb considerable selling in the early trading before buying support was rallied to some of the speculative favorites. The advance in the call money renewal rate reflected the withdrawal of checking account funds for income tax payments.

Goldman Sachs trading snapped back to 118¼ from an early decline. Ford Motor of Canada reduced its early decline of 15 points to 2, and Trans Lux wiped out most of its early loss suffered under profit-taking. Tubize Artificial silk advanced 25 points after several days of steady declines following announcement of price cuts. Firestone Tire extended its gain to a new high at 285.

Utilities were generally higher in anticipation of greatly increased business this year. American Light and Traction moved up 5 points and American Superpower A gained about 3.

Aviation stocks were mixed, and the motors were under pressure. Oils were quiet and traded in at around yesterday's closing levels.

Mining shares were irregular in the face of advances in the price of copper and lad. Nwmont declined 7 points, but later rallied. Noranda was heavy.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Capital Padlocks May Follow Quiz

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(INS.)—Chief of Police Hesse has ordered every police precinct captain to turn in a detailed report on the places in his district where violations of the prohibition law now occur or have occurred in the past. If the order is literally interpreted and literally carried out, the Pennsylvania wags observe that there may be padlocks put on some of our best known government buildings.

WHERE TORNADO KILLED FOUR

RUINS WHERE HOME STOOD BEFORE TWISTER STRUCK

Preceding the highwaters in the South, a tornado twisted through Liberty, S. C., and wiped out sections of the hamlet. Four were killed when a little home that stood in the midst of this scattered wreckage was wiped out in the blast.

SCREW & BOLT YIELDS UNDER PROFIT TAKING

Prices were somewhat irregular on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange during the early market today, but the recently active favorites held their positions well in the face of moderate profit-taking.

Announcement that the plans of the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Company stockholders had approved plans for the acquisition of the Colona Manufacturing Company brought additional buying into the stock today but the initial bulge in the shares attracted enough selling to cancel the advance during the first hour. Standard Steel Propeller Company, also involved in the Screw and Bolt expansion program, sold in the curb market at 29½. In addition to the propeller already manufactured by the company, it is understood that patents have been acquired on a new blade, known in the trade as a wind-suction propeller, which is expected to meet favorable reception in the industry. While no dividend was announced on the shares of the reorganized Screw and Bolt shares, it is reported the directors will meet Thursday and inaugurate payments.

The D. L. Clark Company shares were admitted to the official list today, but there was no demonstration in the stock. The price held close to 18, the figure at which it has been pegged for some time.

Price changes in the heavy industrials were mixed. Witherow Steel dropped back more than a point at the start of business while United Engineering showed no change, selling at 42 in the forenoon dealings. Allegheny Steel was unchanged at 82. The ireproofing issues were also handled at the figures quoted yesterday.

Fuels were steady to firm. Lone Star Gas, selling ex-dividend 50 cents a share, made up the dividend deduction on the first sale at 72. Arkansas Gas was narrow. Western Public Service held firm around 27 with a good demand noted at that level.

ASSETS

The Pro Forma Balance Sheet of the National Erie Company as of December 31, 1928 shows Net Tangible Assets, after deducting First Mortgage Bonds and Current Liabilities, of $1,985,619. LOCAL MARKET HEADED FOR RECORD

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

The Pittsburgh Stock Exchange continues on its merry way to make the year of 1929 the greatest in its history. The transactions so far this year have been record-breaking and never before has there been such a diversified list of securities to trade in. Officials of the Exchange recently elected promised themselves they would make a mark that would stand for a long time and there is every indication that this will be done.

The value of the realty upon which the Exchange stands and which is owned by the Exchange has increased considerably since the erection of new buildings in the vicinity of Fourth avenue and Wood street. Many wonder if the Exchange will outgrow its present quarters. Some guess that it will in the next five years, but as the exchange is only a one-story building there is plenty of room on top for needed space and incidentally for rental purposes.

The market has pretty well demonstrated that the line of least resistance has not ceased to be upward. At the same time it is apparent that the dominant leadership of the market is in the hands of the most reckless group in the Street. Also the possibility of an increase in rediscount rates in markedly increasing, and not lessening. Stiff money alone cannot kill off a bull movement while business profits are sensational, and an advance in rediscount rates might not of itself signal the exact peak of prices. Nevertheless, a 6 per cent rediscount rate would be fundamentally significant, should it come. It is time for the cold-blooded analysis of all securities, says The Trader in Barron's Weekly, whose opinion is widely read in Pittsburgh.

L. V. Vogelstein, chairman of the American Metal Company and one of the keenest judges of the future of the non-ferrous metals, copper, lead and zinc, is optimistic regarding ability of producers to hold price of copper around present level of 20 cents a pound delivered. He also believes that the lead situation is quite indicative of higher prices and considers the zinc situation strong. In every way he thinks the nonferrous situation very encouraging.

Mr. Vogelstein added that he was confident that the Mexican situation would not interfere materially with mine operation south of the border. Mr. Vogelstein said that he considered that good consumption of copper is assured to end of the third quarter of 1929, so that there should be no decline in price, at least until fall.

American Sugar Refining 6 per cent bonds, many of which are held in Pittsburgh, recently sold at 101½, the lowest in a long time. They are due in 1937 and only $24,700,000 of them are now outstanding, $5,000,000 having been called January 1.

Interest charges amount to only $1,482,000 annually. Earnings available for interest last year were $8,364,000. Cash on hand and loans at the close of the year aggregated $49,000,000. In addition there were $25,800,000 of investments, to say nothing of an inventory of $11,000,000 and a property account of $64,000,000. Against these assets you find current liabilities of only $6,600,000. Better secured bonds are few states an authority.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Market Ignores Money Jump.

A sharp advance in call money rates failed to deter the bull element on the stock exchange today, and prices surged forward in the late trading after having suffered a moderate setback early in the day. The rise was led by the copper group and a selected list of industrial specialties, among which were Baldwin Locomotive, Texas Gulf Sulphur, National Cash Register, Radio and numerous others. Steel common pushed ahead and took several of the independent steels with it. Differences of opinion as to the future course of money rates and contention over the course pursued by banking authorities in their effort to curtail use of credit in the securities markets left the so-called public, or average observer, very much in the dark as to just what is in store for the market. There is a vaguely defined feeling of apprehension, however, and a great many of the in-and-out traders are proceeding with caution despite the appearance of bull enthusiasm on the surface of the market. The money market will meet its real test probably at the end of this month. The tight market today was attributed to withdrawal of funds to meet income payment checks, and this volume of money will return to the regular channels of finance shortly. At the end of the month there will be another enormous corporate dividend distribution and, while there will be comparatively small mortgage interest or bond coupon payment, the amount of cash necessary to handle the turnover will be large enough to test the money structure under present conditions.

N. Y. Bank Loans Lower.

The Federal Reserve Board March review states there has been considerable reduction in bank loans to brokers in New York during the past month and a shifting of speculative loans from banking to non-banking sources. Total of securities loans by reporting member banks at end of February were largest on record, amounting to $7,573,000,000, or a billion dollars above a year ago. In addresses before the Economic Club at New York last night, Gov. W. P. G. Harding, of the Boston Federal Reserve Bank, and Dr. B. M. Anderson, economist of the Chase National Bank, advocated higher rediscount rates. Former Gov. Stokes, of New Jersey, spoke in opposition to such course.

Dr. Anderson declared that the credit situation called for a 6 per cent re-discount rate (the present rate is 5 per cent).

Governor Harding referred to a statement showing an expansion of credit amounting to 8 per cent while there had been an expansion of production and distribution of only 3 per cent. He said "this difference represents inflation and best time to check inflation is during period of its incipiency. Continued high rates of interest will eventually bring about a slowing down in business and industry." Governor Harding indicated that he preferred British policy of raising discount rates 1 per cent, adding: "Whenever it becomes necessary to administer to a speculative market the medicine of a rate advance homeopathic doses should be avoided."

Coast Oil Merger Looms.

A new California oil merger was reported in Wall Street today to be in the process of formation, with John McKeon, formerly executive vice-president of the Richfield Oil Company, a central figure in the negotiations. Mr. McKeon acknowledged that his own oil holdings, and those of the Italo Petroleum Corporation, were included in the consolidation program, but declined to disclose what other units may be included or to make further comment on the reports. It is understood that the plan calls for a company which will be one of the larger crude producers in California.

Advance Rumely Improves.

The annual report of Advance Rumely Company for the year ended December 31, 1928, will be issued in about a week, and will show net earnings, after all charges, of around $750,000, equal to $6 a share on 125,000 preferred shares. This would compare with a deficit of $340,666 for 1927. Volume of business on the company's books is slightly heavier, although, it was pointed out, this is not a criterion of the full year's results, which are largely dependent on the outcome of the crop situation.

Ford Motor of Canada.

A gain of 33 per cent in labor efficiency and better than a 20 per cent increase in actual daily production beyond previously rated capacity are factors responsible for the materially enhanced earnings of Ford Motor of Canada. Current daily product of 600 cars and trucks is accomplished with 6,900 workers or 2,000 fewer than were required to produce 500 cars and trucks a day last August. The full effect of the efficiency is now being realized and profits on model A will show as wide a margin as on the model T. The production of cars and trucks for first quarter will be 36,500 and 43,000 for second quarter and 79,700 for first six months. The total for 1929 should be 140,000. The previous record year was 106,000 in 1926. The report for 1928 will show net loss of around $2,700,000 due to conditions surrounding the bringing out of the new model A. No dividend is expected this year, but the new stock will likely be placed on dividend basis early in 1930.

W. U. Challenges Radio.

Probability of a merger between the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Radio Corporation of America became more remote today following a statement by Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union. Carlton has issued a challenge to the newly organized R. C. A. Communications, Inc., formed to compete with his company in the field of domestic telegraphy, which the Radio Corporation's new subsidiary proposes to enter, according to an announcement made Sunday.

"There is no known method by which comprehensive system of radio can be made available for the competent handling of a substantial part of a national service," Carlton said. "There appears to be no chance of a merger. The Radio Corporation has nothing we now wish to use, and if we ever need anything they have we can get it from other sources."

Tulsa reports state that, with all wells wide open for gauging purposes, Sunday morning's crude oil production in Seminole and St. Louis pools totaled 480,522 barrels, up 107,000 barrels over Saturday, and indicates this amount is pinched in by operators. Production from these wells for 24 hours ended at 7 a. m. Monday amounted to only 308,086 barrels, as a result of 80 companies observing the Sunday shutdown policy which was responsible for 80,000 barrels additional oil being kept below the surface. The proration situation is well in hand, with co-operation of over 99 per cent of the operators.

Domestic Copper Now 22 Cents.

Domestic copper has been advanced one cent a pound to 22 cents, with a like advance in the export price to 22¼ cents. It is believed foreign consumers will buy this afternoon the full quota of the day at the new price. Such action would indicate further stiff advances in price this week, with 24 cents probable before the end of March unless consumers buy more circumspectly. The advance of one cent a pound in the domestic copper price is the first time in peacetime history of the industry that the quotation ever advanced a full cent a pound in 24 hours.

100% PURE Pennsylvania

HUNDREDS, perhaps thousands of years ago, a far-sighted Nature created vast reservoirs of petroleum here and there, deep under the earth's surface. One of the richest of these reservoirs was deposited under the western half of Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and Northern West Virginia, now known collectively as the "Pennsylvania Field."

This field, of which Pittsburgh is approximately the center, was the first oil field to be opened in America, and for many years it was the only field. Today, it is still the source of a very high grade crude oil and many refiners proudly describe their product as "100% Pure Pennsylvania."

The Waverly Oil Works Company, one of the oldest refiners in the Pittsburgh District, began the refining of oil in 1880. Available at first only in Pittsburgh, their product, "Waverly All-Pennsylvania" motor oil, is now known in many sections of the country. The Waverly Oil Works Company is a depositor of the Mellon National Bank.

DON BARCLAY ON RADIO; WHITEMAN TO BE HEARD

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

STATIONS deviating more than 50 cycles from their assigned frequencies will be barred from the air next winter, it was indicated yesterday in a report to the Federal Radio Commission by engineers studying the problem of interference. Stations are now allowed a grace of 500 cycles.

When the commission nails broadcasting stations down this tight we can look forward to 100 per cent enjoyment of programs for it will mean elimination, first, of "herterodyning" and second, of "cross talk." More than startling was the report by engineers that herterodyning is present now on 50 of the 94 channels employed by broadcasters.

If Don Barclay doesn't come through with some laughs and screams tonight in "Local Boy Makes Good," WCAE at 9, there will be many disappointed customers in Pittsburgh. We overheard two persons talking about the program on a 58 street car yesterday morning, and more than a dozen times in the afternoon and last night we were reminded of the feature.

But it will have to be good, for Don will be competing with Paul Whiteman, WJAS, in the jazz king's attempt to show that he, too, is a medley king. The Little Theater program at KDKA also looks inviting.

HARRY LANGDON TONIGHT

"With male quartet accompaniment" is a new one, but it will be used at 8:30 o'clock through WCAE when Bert Hirsch gives "Auf Wiedersehen," by Romberg, as a violin solo.

Carlton Boxill will be heard with the Orchestradians at 10:30 p. m., KDKA, while Wendell Hall and the Royal Canadians will make the usual Tuesday night "whoopee" from WJAS at 11.

The Five Locust Sisters, the Illini College Band, Vincent Lopez Orchestra, Harry Langdon and others will combine to present the Radio-Keith-Orpheum Hour at 11 o'clock through WCAE.

Friml's "Indian Love Call" is on the WLW program at 10:30 tonight.

The strange and colorful career of Enoch Crosby, American spy for Washington during the Revolution, will be unfolded during the Socony-land Sketch at 7:30 through WGY.

GAS ENGINE CO. IN MERGER

GROVE CITY, Pa., March 19.—The merger of the Bessemer Gas Engine Company here with the plants of the C. & G. Cooper Co., at Mt. Vernon and Hamilton, O., yesterday in New York under the title of the Cooper-Bessemer Company, makes the new concern the largest in its field of operations in the country.

The plants have a combined valuation of $10,000,000, it is said. They are manufacturers of oil and gas engines. An operation schedule eliminating duplication of product has been worked out for the three. The local plant is the largest. It is expected that the present local working force of 1,500 men will be kept employed and that the merger will mean a big industrial boom for Grove City.

The new concern will have 100,000 shares of preferred stock at $50 par value paying 6 per cent interest. There will also be issued 200,000 shares of common with no par value.

Units of 10 shares of preferred with four of common will be offered for $660. The preferred carries warrants for purchase of common at $50 a share within a five-year period. B. B. Williams, head of the Cooper Company, will be president of the new company and Dr. E. J. Fithian, head of the Bessemer Company, chairman of the new board of directors.

Officers of the National City Bank, the August Belmont Company, of New York; the First National Bank of Sharon and officials of the merging companies will be on the new board of directors.

BUGS BAER Says

IT WAS A BALMY WINTER'S EVENING.

NOW that spring is here and gone, it is possible to check up on the survivors of the big blizzard of 1888.

"Bugs" Baer

Up until that time, liars had been only local talent. But after '88, they became nationalized and demanded international representation.

That blizzard started March 12, 1888 and hasn't stopped yet.

My old man used to tell about it in accents firm and unverified. Every time he recited the atmospherical perjury, he stopped to shake the snowflakes from his beard.

Then they started remembering. And when memoirs are thrown into reverse, there is a grinding of biographical gears that would curl the hair on a tiger-skin rug.

The oldtimers will tell you that we do not have winters any more. It ain't the janitor's fault.

The best statistician of the big blizz of '88 was Mr. Miller. He added a foot of snow every year. In June, 1927, he had it 17 feet deep and then got a sunstroke to dig himself out of his own story.

Every boy should believe what his papa tells him. But when my old man said that the blizzarus of '88 was so deep that men didn't have to wear trousers, we grew skeptical.

He claimed that it was no use wearing trousers because nobody could see them. All the oldest inhabs wore rubber boots and a wolfskin hat.

The old man is still living over in Philadelphia and it is still snowing over there.

He showed us proof last week. There was a slight flurry of blizzarootis. The old man stepped out and picked up a snowflake.

He handed it to us to read.

It was dated 1888.

So that is absolute proof that the blizzikus of '88 shall not perish from the earth nor the exaggeration thereof.

We happen to know the real cause of that blizzaroo. We were two years old at the time and aging rapidly.

What made it seem so deep and last so long was civic pride. My old man shoveled the snow off our pavement over onto Mr. Miller's.

Which naturally made the snow seem twice as deep. Each citizen was getting two snowstorms for the price of one.

This municipal competition kept up all winter, summer, fall and into the next season. They kept shoveling and digging until their hands got blistered. Then they took a rest and joined the mother lodge of the Ancient and Uncorroborated Survivors of the Blizzbo's of '88.

Few Men and Few Weeks Needed to Make Our Laws

We are paying too much for our legislation because we have more law-makers than we need. Those we do have are spending more time on the job than they need to. There are 208 Representatives and 50 Senators in the General Assembly in Harrisburg. That number, or anywhere near it, is too many. A dozen men, or less, in a series of conferences held Sunday and Monday, decided what important legislation will be granted to the state by this session.

Among these men were Gov. John S. Fisher, W. L. Mellon, former state chairman of the Republican party; Edward Martin, present state chairman; Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association; Attorney General Cyrus E. Woods; A. Boyd Hamilton, secretary of the Senate; Mr. Mellon's secretary and two or three others, heads of important legislative committees.

Since January our legislators have been going to Harrisburg and back home every week. They have adopted no important legislation. In a few weeks the session will end and only now are the wheels of the law mill beginning to grind. The legislators might as well have stayed at home during the past 11 weeks. It is shown that only four or five weeks are necessary to do the work.

It also is shown that only a few men are necessary to shape our legislation. Why should we pay 208 Representatives and 50 Senators when less than a dozen men do the work? Why should we pay the dozen we do need for 18 or 20 weeks when they can do the work in four or five?

Do not censure the little group that meets in the executive mansion in Harrisburg to make our laws. Thank its members rather than blame them. They are giving us a lesson in efficiency. Our legislators have got tired of thinking and many of us have got tired of thinking. So the half-dozen does it for us and saves us a lot of mental work. So long as we have good citizens willing to think clearly for us we will be all right. But after while this group may get tired or be infected by our non-thinking and quit. Their places may be taken by spoilsmen. Then what will become of us?

The people of Pennsylvania would not have to surrender their right to run their own state to half a dozen men if they elected as their representatives in the Legislature courageous and clear-thinking men.

The voters have themselves to blame for the spectacle of a timorous impotent House and Senate, galvanized into last-minute action not by the force of popular indignation but because half a dozen men think a few important laws should be passed.

Poor Old Rhino

He Is the White Kind, and Fast Dying Off.

A WHITE RHINOCEROS, ALMOST THE LAST OF HIS RACE

You were delighted when your favorite Wild Westerner let the crack of his rifle be heard and "another redskin bit the dust."

On the other hand you were inclined to weep, in sympathy, when Fenimore Cooper described the noble Chingachook, alias the "Great Serpent," a splendid red man, friend of the whites, mourning over his vanishing people.

It really WAS sad to see the poor Indian, tomahawk in one hand, human scalp in the other, driven pitilessly toward the Western sun.

But just think about this poor rhinoceros. This picture was taken when he was only 15 feet from the camera. He isn't beautiful, he isn't intellectual, about the only intelligent thing he ever does is to listen to little rhinoceros birds eat the insects on his back, warning him by their cries when danger comes.

They don't warn him for HIS sake, but simply make a noise because they are frightened.

Half the time, he doesn't know enough to take warning, resembling in that some young white men of this day.

If he knew enough to be warned, he wouldn't be dying out. But he is dying out.

In all the world, according to British authorities, there are only about 100 of these white rhinoceroses left alive.

They are rare, in zoological gardens, and won't be there at all soon, nor will they be visible in the jungle. They soon must go to join the dodo, the great auk, the aurochs, and others that men have killed off.

Don't forget, please, to weep a tear or two, for the poor British big game hunter, and the imitation American male and female big game hunters that think they must KILL something, when they might stay home and DO something.

Isn't it terrible to think that these big game hunters won't be able to kill any more white rhinoceroses?

Also, you intelligent readers, study the head of this rhinoceros, and you will know why he is dying out. Not much you will observe ABOVE THE EARS.

On the other hand, if you look at a human head, you will see that ALL the intelligence is above the ears.

Tales That Are Told

Making Sure

MRS. VERE-HEARE went shopping, accompanied by her maid.

"I want to see some red georgette," she said to the girl behind the counter.

Mrs. Vere-Heare was doubtful. Seizing a pair of scissors, she clipped a small piece off the roll of material and passed it to her maid."

"Here you are, Jane," she said. "Chew that for a minute or two and see if the color comes out."

Settled

"WHERE were you boys an hour ago when I called you to help me?" asked Farmer Brown, at the supper table.

"I was in the barn setting a hen," said one. "I was in the loft setting a saw," answered another. "I was in the bedroom setting a clock," spoke up the third. "And I was in the pantry setting a trap," replied the fourth.

"You're a fine set," remarked the farmer. "And where were you?" he asked, turning to the youngest.

"I was on the doorstep setting still!"

So Small

"Do you mean to say you couldn't see me coming on a straight bit of road like that?" he demanded.

"Well, to tell you the truth," he remarked, with an irritating grin, "I did see your car, but I thought it was only a fly on my windshield!"

A Poser

TOMMY was always eager for knowledge, and one day, while walking in the park with his father, he asked the name of a tree.

"That's an elm tree," his father told him.

"Why do they call it an elm?"

"Oh, why do they call you 'Tommy'?" asked his father impatiently.

Tommy thought for a while. Then he said: "I don't know—why do they call me 'Tommy,' father?"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a man in Philadelphia that had a nice home and a big police dog that he liked. He had a neighbor by the name of Meggs that had a fine library, and Jukers, the first guy mentioned, had borrowed a lot of books to read from Meggs.

One evening Meggs was spending a couple of hours with Jukers, and noticed half a dozen of his books that hadn't been returned for a year, but he didn't want to say anything and spoil the evening.

Jukers was showing off his dog.

"Do you know," he says, "I kinda feel proud of the way that dog trusts me and believes in me."

Says Meggs, "Oh, does he? Did you ever borrow any books from him?"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

ONCE, as a child, I saw a waltzing mouse.

Round and round the little creature whirled in a fantastic dance. Delighted, I laughed. But the man with me did not laugh. Instead he shook his head pityingly. I could not understand. The mouse was so funny—why didn't the man laugh?

"Don't you think it's funny to see the mouse dance?" I laughed.

"No, I don't, dear," he said quietly. "You see, the mouse isn't really dancing. It is sick. Something is growing on its brain which makes it sick and it spins around and around because of that sickness."

It was many years before I understood the significance of brain tumor, but from that day on a door opened for me into a deeper understanding of pain and weakness—and sin.

When I see a hurt life jerking or shuffling grotesquely through the years, I no longer laugh or sneer. I think of that pitiful waltzing mouse. When I find myself growing irritated or shocked by the stupidity or perversity of human beings, I try to check myself—I remember the defective brain which lay behind that tragic dancing.

"Waltzing mice" — our penitentiaries are full of maimed brains whose vicious antics society does not understand. We strike out furiously against these "criminals." We judge them as though they were normal men. But they are not normal. Bad people are never normal people. They are people who have been pushed away from the norm. Sometimes physical deficiency or malformation has pushed them away, sometimes bad environment has pushed them away. But always, whatever their offense, however, hideously they may dance to the devil's piping, they are victims, not criminals. And they need to be healed or restrained, not punished.

We have not arrived at this knowledge easily. Most of us have not arrived at it at all. But gradually scientists are opening doors into wisdom and tolerance, as my childhood friend opened the door for me.

They are discovering that the deficiency in some obscure gland, or the running amuck of some group of cells, may turn a decent human being into a weakling or a fiend. And they are finding that sickness of mind or body lies behind all human misbehavior.

Think of that the next time you grow angry at a "bad person." Be merciful to "waltzing mice." Some day—who knows—some evil thing may root within your own brain.

JACK FROST, ARTIST

By Garrett P. Serviss

I QUOTE the following to give pleasure to those who love the aspects of nature in which she seems to have been playing the artist and handling her materials with a human thought in her big mind.

"I am enclosing you a sketch to show one of the most wonderful of Dame Nature's window paintings that I have ever seen. Sitting in our dining room, gazing at a window facing south that was nearly covered with frost, I saw this picture: A foreground of the prettiest fern leaves I have ever seen; back of them a forest of trees, seemingly pines, all fairly outlined as if made by an artist; beyond these two mountain peaks looking like part of a range, and above them fleecy clouds covering almost the whole of the upper part of the glass. But a space of six or eight square inches was uncovered, forming the only touch of color in the picture, for through this space the blue of the sky was beautifully visible. My family and I watched the picture with adoration until the heat of the room dissolved it. It was a marvellous piece of Jack Frost's handiwork.—Thomas McNally, Hanna, Ind., January 24."

Of all the natural phenomena, which suggest purposed imitation, I think that the frostwork on window panes should have first rank. Better than in the clouds or in the fireplace, there one may see, with hardly an effort of the imagination, the most realistic resemblances to animate and inanimate things, set forth with the perfection of a fine cameo or ivory miniature, and borrowing a sparkling splendor from the exquisite material of the frost. I myself have occasionally seen works of Jack Frost which might vie in beauty with that described by Mr. McNally. Landscapes that bore the most complete resemblance to winter woods, with their trees bending under loads of snow and icicles; or snowy wildernesses of stunted, tangled trees like some of those that grow in the ravines on the slopes of Mt. Washington, intersected with a smooth winding, frost-flowered path down which one almost expects to see a scared hare making jingling leaps toward safety.

The fact that a few critical lines and shades are sufficient to suggest to the mind behind the eye a whole likeness, displayed in the roundness of reality, is the basis of all picture drawing. It may be that man discovered it first in clouds or embers or frost pictures. Nature taught him by perspective which, when the imagination is the judge, is just as good as the real perspective of three-dimensional space. Perhaps it is only an extension of this that enables ultra-Einsteins to see things in a fourth dimension! But then, can they prove that those things are any more real than the apparent roundness of a picture drawn with cunning shades and deceptively sloped lines on a flat sheet? Where are the boundaries of human gullibility, anyhow. I use the word in a respectful sense; credulity doesn't exactly hit my meaning. We speak very disrespectfully of the physical senses for deceiving us, but they are evidently not the only deceivers within our bailiwick.

But deceptions are also among the pleasures of life, and those that Jack Frost and his human imitators in art treat us to give us reason every day to think that Dr. Pangloss was not a hopeless prevaricator, but only a rather reckless exaggerator in pronouncing this to be the best of all possible worlds.

Bible Passages

"Great Is the Lord"

(I. Chronicles 16; 23-34)

For great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised: he also is to be feared above all gods.

For all the gods of the people are idols: but the Lord made the heavens.

Give unto the Lord, ye kindreds of the people, give unto the Lord glory and strength.

Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name: bring an offering, and come before him: worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness.

Fear before him, all the earth: the world also shall be stable, that it be not moved.

Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoice: and let men say among the nations, the Lord reigneth.

Let the sea roar, and the fulness thereof: let the fields rejoice, and all that is therein.

Then shall the trees of the wood sing out at the presence of the Lord, because he cometh to judge the earth.

Shadows

SHADOWS of the fleeting
Clouds that fleck the sky
Gladden golden meadows
As they flutter by.

Shadows of the willows
Where the ripples gleam
Lend their vague enchantment
To the emerald stream.

Shadows cling and creep;
Shadows of the firelight
Lull a child to sleep.

Through the long years after,
Shadows are his friends,
Weaving shapes of beauty
Where the aspen bends

Painting shadow poplars
As the sun slips west;
But he loves the dancing
Firelight shadows best.

General "Hell-and-Maria"

By Herbert Kaufman

GENERAL—and recent Vice President—Dawes didn't mince words when he took up the Senate gavel—or sugar-coat them when he laid it down, with "nothing to retract."

He retires from office, still convinced that the "delay-linger-and-wait" routine of the upper House betrays national interest, defeats national purpose and delays national accomplishment.

Four years ago, he so declared himself, and he holds to those same views in his swan song.

Since 1925, he watched pressing measures struggle in parliamentary traps, saw conspiring filibusters ambush vital legislation, and vainly warned the country to purge "the most august deliberative body on earth" of its bush-whacking prerogatives.

Life had not taught him the courtier arts, nor had political expediency coached the red-tape breaker of the Quartermaster's Department in the euphemisms of bureaucracy.

When he entered the Army, he sawed wood—and said plenty about the millions of dollars and the irreplaceable time squandered through the preparatory phases of the Great War.

He had surrendered a distinguished and constructive banking career, to do his bit.

He came to show theory and inefficiency the short cuts to action and organization—to make minutes behave like twins, and one man do the work of two.

He Hell-and-Mariaed supplies and equipment across seas in unbroken streams, then jumped to France and furnished Pershing a delivery system, on which the Allies were soon pinning their faith and medals.

That job finished, he returned home and joined his party's battle against post-armistice confusion and skullduggery—meanwhile, providing Germany with a reparation plan, which hasn't yet cracked under combined creditor and debtor attack.

We need hard-hitting, plain-spoken competence in the White House, and the prospect of his possible candidacy was such that the Old Guard hastened to shove him into the Vice-Presidency—that refrigerator, to which conventions usually consign bright young men likely to upset their schemes—and leave them there, to chill in cold storage.

Mark Hanna intended a similar fate for Roosevelt when the Philadelphia caucus, under his whip-lash, drafted the on-galloping Rough Rider for McKinley's running mate.

But he can console himself with the knowledge that many a year will pass before it fades from the "hearts of his countrymen."

Hats off! There marches a MAN!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 19.—The noon hour downtown is a daily fete. Even wide streets are filled with sidewalk overflow and such narrow thoroughfares as Nassau are almost impassable. It is the brief relaxation for thousands of office workers and the spirit is distinctly Mardi Gras.

There are casual flirtations, curb skylarking, hastily organized quartets, sidewalk fox-trots and other hoop-de-doo indulged with a reckless, happy abandon. One of the big yearly events is the day all straw hats are smashed. Hawkers sell everything from balloons to long-legged dolls daily.

Many couples go to the cafeterias which offer music and dancing and prize cups to customers. The errand and messenger boys of Broad and Wall streets have innumerable ingenious hide and seek games they play among the crowds.

St. Paul and Trinity churchyards, even on chilliest days, have lunchers who make spreads on the decaying flat tombstones. And hand-holding lovers stroll through the ivy-clad paths whispering the oldest story among crypts of the forgotten dead.

An eager zest for excitement rears out of every building cranny—dice games, pitched pennies, Charleston contests, harmonica bands and such. On the wind-swept benches of Battery Park are sentimental secretaries and stenographers reading poetry and exotic volumes of romance.

Among hectic noon hour free entertainments are street fiddlers, soap-box orators, hurdy gurdies, peripatetic fortune tellers, advertising clowns on high stilts, magicians and window demonstrators. And on almost every corner is an argument. With a tolerant cop standing by.

Lower Fifth avenue, dubbed Bolshiviki boulevard, is the parade ground for garment workers in neighboring lofts. Newsboys screech midday Yiddish extras. Future Trotzkies orate. Push carts offer hot potatoes on a stick, parboiled seeds and an infinite variety of penny hot and cold drinks.

* * *

Lafayette street is to me the harshest street down town. It has a mean glower and the sullenness is accented by the constant rumble of trucks. An incongruous note of mirth is the tarnished statue of a gilded Puck over the entrance of the old Puck Building. A few blocks away are Turkish baths, which figured so prominently in the hunt for murders of the gambler Rosenthal. And that depressing gray pile of stone with surrounding high spiked fence known as the Tombs. Around the corner is the famous Bridge of Sighs where, through a slight patch of window bars, pedestrians may glimpse grim white faces crossing over to the Criminal Courts building to hear their doom. The street also has many dim and fly-blown window shops whose displays never change.

* * *

In the recent ballooning of bank stocks many bank employes turned a pretty penny and quite a few now ride to work in their own cars. There is a belief most bank employes are not extravagantly paid. That may be, but with the yearly bonus at Christmas time it is much higher than generally known. They acquire thrift unconsciously as result of being so close to the accumulative magic of interest. When the unusual investment chance comes, they are ready, as was recently proved.

* * *

In the backwash of the Wall Street madness of several months ago are many who made their pile and quit at 30. "The Loiterers" is a smart upper Park avenue club of about 20 young idlers—chained to desks in financial houses a year ago.

* * *

Ethel Barrymore is reported still pouting with Edna Ferber and bows if at all, stiffly from the waist when she passes the writer. "The Royal Family," an obvious caricature of the Barrymore clan, did not tickle Miss Barrymore pink. Nor is the agile Elsie Janis turning any of her joyous handsprings when she meets Miss Ferber. That story "Mother Knows Best," still rankles. This happens when one tries to fictionize the truths of life.

It takes those ladies to whom you hand your card at outer gates of offices to take out the tuck. Somehow I had a conceited notion my name might be known at least a little in a certain haughty newspaper shop. Today I announced politely and so I thought rather impressively: "I am O. O. McIntyre!"

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

"IF GIRLS would be willing to spend an evening at home with a fellow instead of insisting upon going somewhere, it might be possible for us to get a little money saved."

This statement was made by a young man.

Some thought they would like to have conditions what they were when their fathers and mothers were young.

Then the girls entertained the boys at home and served refreshments after the games and a pleasant evening resulted for all.

Even the most inexpensive sort of amusement at the present time requires an amount which if multiplied by two or three times each week becomes a considerable sum of money.

Young men can't start a home-and-savings account and play around with the gold-digger girl who insists upon such an expensive good time that some men become thieves to satisfy her and spoil their own futures.
